Elegant Musical Entertainment. On last Friday afternoon a company of accomplished singers came down from Due West and in the evening they gave a most delightful entertainment in Hill's auditorium.

In company with the performers were Miss Bunnie Kennedy of Due West, Miss Harry Crockett, student from Tennessee at College in Due West; Miss Stack, teacher of education and expression; and Mr. Jeff Warren of Thomansville, Ga; Mr. Bud Patrick of Chester, S. C.

The party while here from Friday afternoon until Monday morning were the guests of Miss Ethel Lyon, who entertained her handsome and accomplished guests in the most graceful and in the most cordial manner.

Miss Lyon is herself a student in the Due West Female College, and her College friends were glad to accept her invitation to share her delightful hospitality.

The program for the Friday evening's entertainment was as follows: H. E. Presley, Tenor. M. A. Hood, Sad Tenor. C. B. Williams, Baritone. J. W. Wideman, Jr., Bass. Miss Jessie Boyce, Reader.

The entertainment is said to have been one of the most enjoyable with which Abbeville has ever been favored. Because of the fact that the performance had not been more generally known the audience was not as large as it would have been. If it had been known a much larger company would have been present not only to hear the music but to show honor to the ladies and gentlemen who represent the culture and refinement of our neighboring college town.
