FRANKLIN'S MAXIMS ARE UNIVERSAL

"Poor Richard's" Saying Became More Than Current Proverbs and Have Endured.

The line, "Thinks I, that man has an ax to grind," is one of the many well known say-ings contained in the Pennsylvania Almaaas of 1758. The expression "That man has an ax to grind" also occurs in "Essays from the Desk of Pror Robert, the Soribe," written by

Dear Friends:

Emerson said:

"If a man can write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse trap than his neighbor, though he build his house in the wood the world will make a beaten path to his door."

We are not writing books, nor preaching sermons, nor making mouse traps, but we want you to make a beaten path to our door. We have the goods and we have got the prices on Stoves, China, Cut Glass, Crockery, Tin and Enamel Ware and 5 and 10c Goods in all lines, and also on Toys and Dolls, and we have got them to beat the band. We have prices that will be satisfactory to you if there is anything you want in our various lines:

We are very desirous of reducing our great big stock and we will make it an object for you to do your part in making that beaten path to our door.

If we can only get that path sufficently welldefined in the minds of the people we will soon be making better mouse traps than our neighbors.

If you are not satisfied with the kind of mouse traps you are getting, come and see ours. Our prices and stock will certainly interest you and make you a buyer.
