A Mighty Good Way to Fertilize the Grain You Sow this Fall is to Use Our 10-4 or Our 10-6 Goods when You Sow Your Grain.

The ten-four goods contain 10 per cent. Available Phosphoric Acid and 4 per cent. Potash, and the ten-six goods contain 10 per cent. Available Phosphoric Acid and 6 per cent. Potash. You can put either of these in the ground when you sow your grain as neither Phosphoric Acid nor Potash will leach out of the soil on account of rains, but stay in the soil until they are taken up as plant food. So, if you fertilize your grain with this fertilizer and the grain stands the winter you can top dress it next spring with either Nitrate of Soda or our specially prepared High Grade Fertilizer for side dressing which is better, as this is heavily charged with Nitrate of Soda and has other High Grade Ammoniates which makes it last longer than Nitrate of Soda when used by itself. If you find that your grain has been killed out during the winter you can use the same ground for corn or cotton in the spring and you have the advantage of the 10-4 and 10-6 goods which is put in the ground at the time you sow your grain, for neither Phosphoric Acid nor Potash leach out of the soil but remain there until taken up as plant food.

We are selling our goods right at our own door and it is necessary for us to make the best goods that can be made. If we shipped them a hundred or a hundred and fifty miles away we might afford them to put out some skimpy goods, but where they are used right at our door it is necessary for us to make the best goods that are made. In proof that we do that we justly cite you to the crops made this year where our fertilizer has been used. There is no better fertilizer put in sacks than we are making.

Question.

(Contributed).
If the Theological Seminary at Due West does not teach limitation, or exclusiveness, in the benefits of the Apostolic benediction, where do so many A. R. P. preachers get authority for limiting the Apostolic benediction to "God's people"? In one sense, this tinkering with, or altering of, the Word makes very little difference, but in another sense it is of some importance. It may be that such little matters, and the neglect to pray for sinners, while so pronouncedly praying for "God's people," has something to do with the non-growth of the A. R. P. Church. Where is the value of public service, where visitors, strangers and sinners are totally neglected or entirely ignored? Why the Lord's prayer in public worship is tabooed is another thing that has not been well explained, except in the consciousness that such prayer cannot be said without asking condemnation in particular instances.

The singing, which is usually done by the choir in an unknown tongue, is accepted by all without objection. The sermon possibly may have something in it. If so, it is an appeal to the head or to the understanding, and is intended to entertain the hearer, if not to contribute to his understanding. But the prayer is quite another thing. Good manners, if nothing higher, it seems, should prompt the preacher not to exclude specifically and definitely any hearer from the consolation or the benefit of his prayer in the holy temple, and tenfold more rude and vulgar is the exclusion of anybody from the benefit of the Apostolic benediction.

What we should like to know is, does the Theological Seminary at Due West teach its graduates to ignore visitors, friends and sinners from the consolation and benefit of participation in the preacher's prayer, and especially would we like to know if it teaches limitation of the Apostolic benediction to "God's people" alone.

The Apostolic benediction is in the simplest and the plainest of words, and it seems to us that a simple unspiced graduate from Erskine might learn its spirit, as well as its words, in one year at the Seminary. Certainly the student that the Lord picks out for his own special service, might learn the Apostolic benediction in two years, or before he is licensed to bless one class only. Even if such of the Lord's chosen ambassadors did not learn it in two years, the Synod by committee, it least might examine all proposed missionaries before authorizing them to represent the church abroad. The Synod could then determine if any one of the Lord's own choosing was a person of proper intelligence to represent the Synod in a foreign land. What do you think an intelligent Mexican would think of a missionary from this land of Bibles, this land of holy temples, this land of Christian family altars, who did not know or did not regard the plain teaching of the Apostolic benediction? In this country is it not a desecration of the temple to ignore sinners in the prayers to Him who was the friend of sinners? What shall we think of the ambassador who, year in and year out, neglects or refuses to pray for the sinners to whom our Saviour was friendly?

These remarks are induced because of the action of a missionary who is careering around in this country at our expense, abusing Catholics and speaking ill of Mexicans generally. A travelled man, returning, usually tells of the scenes and the men with whom he associated abroad. And to some extent he is judged by what he saw and the men with whom he associated. If this itinerant saw and heard anything but evil while in the profession of highly-paid missionary, he did not bring out the facts very conspicuously. His recital might teach us a lesson of the importance of sending men of such culture and refinement as would enable them to associate with good people abroad. Anybody who sees no good in anybody, may associate with vile characters, but to associate with the pure in heart and to be admitted into the councils of polite society some refinement is necessary.

While we are not authorized to speak for anybody, yet we believe at least some of our good people, while too polite to say so, are thoroughly disgusted with a constant reiteration of evil things against the people to whom we send missionaries. That old story has become a long-haired chestnut. Why should our missionaries cast down those whom they are presumed to raise up and to teach to be pure in heart that they may become beloved children of the heavenly Father? Why allow missionaries to speak evil unceasingly of those whom the Synod seeks to benefit?

"IT BEATS ALL"
This is quoted from a letter of M. Stockwell, Hazleboro, Md.: "I recently used Foley's Honey and Tar for the first time. To say I am pleased does not half express my feelings. It beats all the remedies I ever used. I contracted a bad cold and was threatened with pneumonia. The first dose gave great relief and one bottle completely cured me." C. A. Milford & Co.

ABUNDANT CROPS.

Full Barns—Plenty of Money—All These Good Things Have Come Because of Better Farming Methods.

To the Farmers of Abbeville County—
Greeting:
Your labors have been blessed this year with abundant crops, and the most valuable ever produced in the county.

The total value of the field crops will exceed two and one-half million dollars ($2,500,000). This is about eighty dollars ($80) per capita for the entire population, of one hundred and twenty dollars ($120) per capita for those engaged in farming. This is enough to sustain the entire population for one entire year—we are at least on a self-sustaining basis.

The best feature about this wonderful crop is, it is generally diffused throughout the county; some, of course, will have more than others, but every one will have enough to make ends meet this year, and have a good start next year.

The next best thing about this great crop is, how it has been accomplished. It was not on account of extra seasons, for the seasons have been very irregular. It was not because of any great increase of acreage. It has been brought about mainly by better preparation and cultivation of the soil; by the use of better tools and improved methods, and a better division of the crops.

Hold your grip. Persevere in the plans and methods you have practiced this year, and your barns and warehouses will be filled to overflowing, and peace and plenty will abound.
Yours, etc.,
Farmer.

B. S. ROBERTSON.

Makes Good Crops in Dry Weather and is Prosperous.

Mr. B. S. Robertson, a most excellent farmer on Long Cane, was in town last Saturday. He reports that his farm is in a dry straggle of two miles between Long Cane and Hodges. Notwithstanding the dry spell he has plenty of corn, but his cotton shed off many of the bolls at the wrong time. The good part of a small crop of cotton makes up the difference in the size of a larger crop at a smaller price.

Bixon's Play Makes Hit.

Press and Banner.
Charleston, S. C., Oct. 22.—Thomas Dixon's latest play, "The Sins of the Fathers," the third of his stage offerings on the stage of the South and the most successful attraction at the Academy of Music here to capacity, business and well-merited approval of the audiences. The particular feature of the occasion thought not stressed in the advertisement was in Mr. Dixon's playing the leading role, owing to the recent tragic death of one of the members of the company. He is a forceful lecturer yet he can claim laurels as an actor. In the few scenes he was most convincing, and in the climax of the second act he rose heroically to the occasion and it is doubtful if a professional actor could have done better. Mr. Dixon will continue in the leading role for a few days, until the new man who lately arrived from New York is proficient in the part. "The Sins of the Fathers" teaches a great lesson and is doing much to avert a danger that for years has been threatening our civilization. L.

Are You Hard on Shoes?
Many a woman thinks she is hard on shoes when the fact of the matter is her shoes have tricked her. If your shoes go to pieces unreasonably soon it's the fault of the maker. To meet competition he has skimmed and scalped and substituted inferior for honest materials till there's nothing left but looks.

The parts that take the strain and wear—away inside and out of sight—are just as thorough, just as honest. Look up our dealer in your town and let him tell you how we can make such a good shoe for the money.
