NOT FIVE BALES TO ACRE

Report from Spartanburg as to Cotton Growth Was Error

Editor Daily Mail:

About a week ago, by mistake, a dispatch was sent out from Spartanburg stating that J. W. Caldwell of Moore section had gathered five bales of cotton from one acre and had another bale to pick yet. The mistake came about by getting the figures mixed. One of Mr. Caldwell's neighbors said that he had a good lot of cotton and had gathered five bales from four or five acres with another bale in the field. The reporter just made a mistake by substituting one acre for four or five. That was a natural mistake for a young reporter who did not know that it was impossible to raise five or six bales of cotton on an acre.

The largest crop ever made in this county was by Garvin McMackin near Wellford. He was, about three years ago, improving a lot of land by deep plowing and hauling out many tons of lot manure on it. He planted it in cotton. The year was favorable and made over two bales, but not as much as three on his choice acre. The figures are not before us but that is the report as to his crop.

If a farmer plants his cotton three by three feet and makes one bale 1,500 pounds of seed cotton, each plant would have to mature 31 bolls. That is allowing an average of 100 bolls to the pound of seed cotton, which is not far from correct, taking the bolls from the earliest to the latest. If he made five bales to the acre each stalk would have to produce 155 bolls. Any farmer may understand that such a yield can not be made. If he gave his cotton more distance and planted four by four feet, each plant would have to make 56 bolls to make one bale to the acre. If he could make five bales on the acre then each plant would bear 30 mature bolls. Farmers will understand the impossibility of making such a crop.

ELECTION COMMISSIONERS

The following from the Yorkville Enquirer is both true and timely:

"In behalf of the gentlemen who discharged the duty of preparing for the general election, appointing managers providing boxes, tickets, etc., giving official notice and afterward tabulating the returns it is proper to say that the duties of the election commissioner does not constitute an easy task. There is considerable responsibility, a lot of hard work and practically no pay—only a dollar a day and mileage for the time actually employed. But still all this work has to be done and the men who do it are deserving of due credit."
