THE BOSS OIL STOVE

You could not possibly have a more convenient and efficient stove in your kitchen than the New Boss—the blue flame oil stove of new principle and design.

The New Boss will toast, roast, bake, broil or fry as well as any coal, wood or gas range and with less expense of fuel and less trouble to the cook.

The New Boss proves the economy and efficiency of oil as a fuel—and unlike many other oil stoves, is not limited in its usefulness.

The New Boss is made to save oil, not merely to burn it. A gallon of oil will burn 24 hours in the New Boss compared to 16 or 18 hours in most other stoves and will give more heat per hour.

The intense blue flame of the New Boss Oil Stove plays right against the bottom of your cooking utensils. This direct action of the flame on your pans gives much quicker results than can be obtained with stoves where the flame is a foot or more away from the cooking surface.

WATTS

Miss Malvina Parker is visiting Miss Mildred Wilson. Misses Martha Pressley, Mary Grace McDill, and Sarah Wilson left Watts Friday for Athens, where they will visit relatives.

Mrs. J. T. Dudley, of Athens, is visiting her mother, Mrs. M. C. Thomas. Master Gilliam McLane spent last week-end with his uncle, C. F. Gilliam.

Miss Harriet Cheatham of Eastover, is expected at Maplehurst this week.

Several neighbors enjoyed a pleasant evening at Mr. F. W. Wilson's last week. After music and cards delightful refreshments were served.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Cowan. A new baby boy came to their home June 21.

J. C. Cheatham is visiting Mr. Ernest Cheatham.

Mr. David Gilliam has returned from a visit to Mr. R. Mays Cleveland of Greenville.

It is rumored that our supervisor is going to have the Warrenton-Abbeville road worked. We hope he isn't making rash promises that he can't keep, for that would be the "most unkindest cut of all."

We shall be bitterly disappointed if something isn't done to our road at an early date. Four weeks ago the writer went to Abbeville in a buggy.

She came home, went to bed and stayed there three weeks. We are not saying that the bad road was the whole cause of her illness, but it surely had a great deal to do with it.

During her illness she was visited by her mother, Mrs. W. I. Herbert from Newberry. Mrs. Herbert's first remarks on reaching our home was, "Well, your Abbeville roads are no better than the ones in Newberry."

Now, this is no compliment, for the Newberry roads are nothing to be proud of. We saw Dr. Nickles' piece in the Medium, and we beg to say that the "one or two people," to whom he refers, are not quarreling about the expense, so much as the time that is being put on the roads that are already in fair condition, while other roads are sadly neglected.

We are afraid too that the Doctor is mistaken in the number of people who are complaining about the road. It is true that only one or two people make their complaint thru the columns of the newspaper, but a much larger number than that are talking rough roads. I dare say the physicians who have to come out our way will back us in what we say on this subject.

DUE WEST

Due West, June 28.

On Monday afternoon, Miss Leila Nance entertained most charmingly in compliment to Miss Julia Helen Galloway, the bride of the week.

On arriving the guests were given a lover's examination, which created a great deal of merriment. After everybody had successfully passed the examination, the guests were asked to draw plans for the bride's house, and she selected the one she liked best.

The guests were then invited out on the lawn to help the bride search the rose bushes for bird eggs. The bride succeeded in finding a large number of packages which contained beautiful handkerchiefs, towels, centerpieces and other articles; while the packages were being untied a tempting ice course was served.

Just before the guests left, the "pie of fortune" was passed, and each read her fortune on a slice of pie.

Miss Galloway was the honoree again on Tuesday morning when Mrs. L. C. Galloway entertained for her at an elaborate luncheon. The hostess entertained on her spacious porch. The guests were asked to write a list of articles in the bride's trousseau, beginning with the letters in the sentence, "Wish you well."

After the reading of the most complete of these lists, the bride was requested to come to a miniature well in one corner of the porch and draw a bucket full of wishes that the guests had made for her. As she did so, Mrs. Julia Grier pulled another cord, which tore open a bag of rice suspended from the ceiling, and thus showered the bride with rice the symbol of good wishes. After the reading of the wishes, a delightful three-course luncheon was served.

On Thursday afternoon Miss Julia Helen Galloway became the wife of Mr. Ernest Wright Neal, of Kings Mountain. The house was beautifully decorated with ferns and Shasta daisies. The ceremony was performed in the parlor, one side of which was cut off by massive white columns and banks of ferns. Promptly at eight o'clock, Mrs. De Armond Kirkpatrick, of Charlotte, sang "O, Promise Me" and "All For You."

Then a number of trained voices sang a wedding chorus as the bridal party descended the stairs and entered the parlor. First came the ushers, Messrs Magill and Galloway. Next came the bridesmaids, Miss Leila Nance and Miss Neal, carrying candles. After them came Misses Virginia Galloway and Agnes Devlin. The groom then entered with his best man, Mr. Harmon. Closely following them came the dame of honor, Mrs. De Armond Kirkpatrick, carrying a basket full of Shasta daisies and ferns.

The tiny little ring bearer, Miss Marion Kirkpatrick, entered bearing the ring on a silver tray. The bride entered on the arm of her maid of honor, Miss Lena Barr Galloway. She joined the groom in front of the Rev. Jonathan Galloway, of Gastonia, who performed the ceremony.

The bridal gown was of charmeuse, en train, and her veil was caught up with orange blossoms. Her traveling suit was a beautiful putty colored coat suit with hat and gloves to match.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Neal left in an automobile to catch the 9:20 trolley.

The many beautiful and useful presents bear witness to the popularity of the young couple.
