OFF TO THE NORTH.

Col. Bill Wilson leaves this afternoon for the northern markets where he will buy a first class stock of goods which he will advertise in our first class paper.

A HERO.

Rayford Foster McMillan undertook Thursday to show their hired man how to cut down a tree. He succeeded pretty well with one limb but struck trouble with the main trunk of the tree, for the axe which was new and sharp, glanced to one side and cut a deep gash in one of the young man's feet. Three stitches were required to make him as good as new again. He is a hero on his side of town.

ENJOYING A REST.

Miss Mary Douglass is off for the next ten days and will enjoy a rest from her work. Miss Mary is the efficient stenographer in Supervisor Stevenson's office and her presence is an inspiration to the Court House people.

COMPLIMENTING MRS. CLARK.

Miss Lilly Clark entertained a pleasant party of ladies at rook last Friday morning, complimentary to her handsome sister-in-law, Mrs. George Clark, of Augusta.

The house was made pretty with many vases of "golden glow," and with pot plants. There were five tables at which the bidding and the interest in rook was lively. After the games plates of delightful salad with tea was served. The morning was pleasant in every way and the guests were charmed with the honoree.

THE NEW PICTURE PEOPLE.

Mr. J. Goldstein, of Fayetteville, N. C., has bought out the interest of A. B. Cheatham in the moving pictures at the opera house and from now on the shows will be under new management.

Mr. Goldstein is an experienced man in this line of business and he expects to give people a good show for their money.

He will have a first class orchestra, and will have a matinee every afternoon.

Give the new pictures a trial and give the new man a welcome.

Mr. Goldstein has a large family. At present they are staying at the Taggart boarding house.

DEATH OF LITTLE

AGNES GRAVES.

Mary Agnes, the three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Graves of the Lebanon section, died in Greenville Saturday night from the effect of getting a butter bean in her windpipe.

Shortly after the little child had swallowed the bean, Dr. Gambrell was called. Seeing that an operation was necessary, the child was carried to Greenville to be operated on by Dr. Carpenter, a throat specialist of that City. While the operation was in progress the little girl died from strangulation.

The body was brought to Abbeville Monday and was laid to rest in the churchyard at Lebanon church. She was the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Graves, and a granddaughter of Mrs. Agnes Pennal of this city, for whom she was named.

The parents have the sympathy of their friends in the loss of their little daughter.

ALLIANCE WITH JAPAN.

Russian Minister Hints at Closer Relations Between Countries.

London, Aug. 2.—Foreign Minister Basonoff's speech at the opening of the Russian duma yesterday, as received here tonight, hinted at a closer alliance between Japan and Russia. The final section of the speech, as telegraphed, quoted the minister as saying the press of both countries has been discussing the advantage of a close political union and that the service of Japan had "created an atmosphere in which solid political ties between nations are formed."

"Ten years have gone by," the minister said, "since the treaty of Portsmouth proved that peaceful neighborliness between Russia and Japan was possible and reciprocally advantageous. Our relations of alliance with Japan today should be forerunners of still closer alliance."

The statement was received by members of the duma with cheers.

GERMANS IN BELGIUM REPORTED IN MUTINY

Havre, France, Aug. 7.—Mutinies have broken out in the German garrisons at Liege, Ghent and Bruges, says a dispatch to the Belgian government to-day, and many ringleaders have been shot.

In some instances troops refused to obey orders when their officers tried to send them to the front.

GREATEST OF ENGLISHMEN.

Looks as if Lloyd-George is to be National Hero.

Most of the great nations involved in the war long ago discovered their great heroes. Joffre is the pre-eminent hero of France; the Grand Duke Nicholas, in spite of the defeats with which his armies have met, is said to be the hero of Russia. In Germany von Hindenburg and next to him von Mackensen are the idols of the populace. As yet in Austria no one man stands out, far over-topping all others; and it is a notable circumstance that so far the same thing is true of Great Britain, there seems to be a change in process. She is to all appearances discovering her idol, and, if one may judge from the signs, he will not be Kitchener, he will not be Sir John French, he will not be Asquith, or Inan Hamilton, or Jellicoe or Beatty. It looks as if he is going to be Lloyd-George.

"The little Welch lawyer," that storm centre of British politics for many years before the war, has many implacable foes. These he earned through his radicalism and they will not soon cease to fear and to hate him. But their distrust and enmity cannot long make head against Lloyd George's services to his country in this time of her dire peril if his future services fulfill the promise of those he has already redeemed. It is a difficult path that stretches ahead of him. At any time he may come a cropper which will be fatal; but at present he looks to be the most promising candidate for the position of British war idol; and this moment of his triumph, when apparently his efforts and his influence have ended the great strike of the Welch coal miners, which threatened to hamstring the British fleet by cutting short its supply of coal, is on time for pessimistic prophecy concerning his future. Much he owes to his brains, and much also to good fortune; for fate has so arranged the drama that his role is of a spectacular sort that appeals to the imagination. Perhaps in the end it will be the verdict of history that the services of Kitchener, who now is considered to have failed where Lloyd-George has succeeded, were no less great and of no smaller value than those of the latter; but at present it is Lloyd-George's star that burns brightest in the sky of popular approval.—News and Courier.

KAISER REFUSES TO YIELD IN FRYE CASE

Washington, Aug. 2.—Germany will not accede to the request of the United States by keeping the Frye case out of a prize court. This it was learned on high authority this afternoon, in substance is what the latest communication to the United States from Germany says. The note, which was sent in sections, was all in the State Department's hands this afternoon.

Germany reaffirms her position that she is compelled to submit the case to a prize court, it was learned. The claim of the United States that under an old treaty with Prussia the case should be settled without court proceedings is denied.

State Department officials do not regard the note as bringing on a critical situation. It was believed the United States would make further representations in an effort to keep the case from a prize court.

FIG FANCIES.

There is an unusually large crop of figs in this section this year, and York county housewives can doubtless use the following recipe to advantage: Beat to a cream one cupful of butter and two cupfuls white sugar. Add two eggs well beaten and one teaspoonful of baking powder sifted with enough flour to permit easy rolling. Roll them and cut out in any desired shape. Wet the edges, place a teaspoonful of fig filling on one side of the shape, turn over the other half, press edges together and bake about 10 minutes in a hot oven. To make the filling, add to two cupfuls of figs, chopped fine, one cupful white sugar and one-half cupful water. Boil thirty minutes, cool and use.—Yorkville Enquirer.

ATTEMPTED TO KILL RUSSIAN MINISTER

London, Aug. 8.—An attempt to assassinate M. Neratoff, assistant Russian minister of foreign affairs, is reported by Reuter's Petrograd correspondent. M. Neratoff's assailant, a former official of the department, rushed into the assistant minister's room, brandishing an axe. When this weapon was wrested from him, he drew a revolver, but was overpowered before he could fire. The man was dismissed two years ago and is believed to be demented.

HONOR THE DEAD.

"The Black Watch are fighting so well in France that even the Germans praise them. Wonderful fighters, the Irish!"

The speaker was W. B. Cochran. He continued:

"When I think of the valor of the Black Watch regiment, I recall the story of Pat McCann.

"Pat came home one night with a black eye, a broken nose and a split lip; a front tooth was gone as well.

"Tim Sullivan done it," he told his wife, as he began to bathe his wounds in a basin of water.

"Shame on ye!" Bridget cried, 'A big feller like you to be licked by a little, hard-drinkin' cockroach like Tim Sullivan. Why, he—'

"Whist," said Pat from the basin softly, 'don't speak evil of the dead.'"

STRATEGY OF TODAY NOT LIKE LONG AGO

Budapest, July 20.—(Correspondence)—A Budapest newspaper publishes an interview with General von Buelow in which he discusses the difference between the present campaign in Russia and that of Napoleon in 1812.

"It has been remarked," said the general, "that the present strategy of the Russians is the same as that which proved effective against Napoleon. Such strategy was effective then but not now when means of communication have been so much improved. The bread which our soldiers eat today in Windau was baked in Breslau yesterday.

"In times when a railway is being built a mile behind the advancing forces, when thousands of motor lorries are close behind us; when asphalt roads grow, as it were, out of the earth, no such strategy is effective. We drink German mineral water and eat fresh meat direct from Berlin and can build a road, if necessary, 50 miles long in one day."

LIGHTNING THE FARM WOMAN'S WORK

We can greatly lessen the work in the house by doing away with the unnecessary part of it. For example, where there are no modern conveniences in the home, and where the water has to be brought from a well, have you ever taken the trouble to measure the distance from the well to the kitchen, and multiply that by two, and that by the number of days in the year? You would probably be amazed at the number of miles she has traveled in the year, just to bring water to the house. You will then probably seriously consider whether you had not better put in a water system in the house, as well as for the live stock.

Is the house so planned that she can do the work which the wife or some one else must do, with the minimum of steps, the minimum of stooping, and the minimum of lifting? Is it not possible to run the washing machine by some kind of power; or is it possible to form a co-operative laundry in connection with your creamery? If the farmer is so situated that he can have electricity, why not an electric washing machine, an electric flat-iron, and a vacuum sweeper?

I know as well as a man can how wearying is some women's work. I know a good deal about the care of children, for I have had a good deal to do with them in my time. But even drudgery is better than no work at all, and no home. No amount of care of children in sickness and in health, compares with the desolation of the childless home. I saw one childless woman the past summer, who, to put in her time, not only kept her house so immaculately clean that it was uncomfortable, but actually swept the street in front of her house every morning in the year! Work is often wearisome, but the weariness of it is nothing compared to the weariness of the man or woman who has nothing to do, no one to work for or to love.—Uncle Henry in Wallace's Farmer.

LETTER TO MEMBERS OF TOMATO CLUB.

Abbeville, S. C., Aug. 4, 1915. My dear Club Members:—

I hope that you are all now working on your exhibits, for this is an important part of your work. A large part of your final score depends on the quality of your exhibit at the State Fair. Also a good exhibit will help you very much in the sale of your canned goods. Our Abbeville County booth must be as good as any and you girls will have to make it so.

I hope you are going to do this for the work's sake, but as an added incentive, I am offering a free trip to the State Fair to the girl who gets up the best exhibit for me. If you want help with any of it write and let me know. If you can't get up a whole exhibit get up a part and get it up well. An exhibit consists of

- 1/2 doz. jars or cans tomatoes.
- 1/2 doz. jars or cans soup mixture.
- 1/2 doz. jars or cans string beans.
- 1 doz. jars or cans of fruit.
- 1 doz jars or cans cucumber pickle
- 4 sweet, 4 sour, 4 mixed.
- 1/2 doz. bottles ketchup.

Of this 3-4 must be in glass top jars, 1-4 in tin.

We are wanting letters from more of the girls telling of their success with the canning.

Sincerely,
Martha Platt,
Agent.
