STRANGE GLAD HAND.

"That man must love you. He made so much fuss over you. What's his name?"
"I don't know."
"But he seemed so glad to see you."
"Yes. He was very effusive."
"Haven't you any idea who he is?"
"Not at all. I've seen his face somewhere, but I can't place him."
"But he acted like a long-lost brother."
"He surely did. I can't make up my mind whether he really knows me or is a candidate for office."—Detroit Free Press.

A LETTER FROM MISSISSIPPI.

The following letter has been received at this office. Doubtless the comrades of Mr. Brady will be glad to hear from him, and our former correspondent will no doubt communicate with him.
Learned, Miss., Jan. 19, 1916.
Dear Editor:—
A friend sent me, some time ago, a copy of your paper containing an article, "Reminiscence of an Old Soldier," as I read these lines many memories were revived.
Not many of us are left, I am sure, I am desirous of knowing which of them wrote the sketch, will you kindly publish his name or give me his name and address. It has been a long time since I've heard of my friends of the '60's, and this piece recalled so many pleasant recollections and thought of our four years close companionship that I would like to get in touch with them.
Enclosed please find $1.00 for subscription to your paper.
With best wishes to the "Boys" and kindly wishes for a successful year to yourself and paper.
Respectfully,
W. R. ("Bill") Brady.

MEXICANS PAY PRICE OF AMERICAN LIFE

El Paso, Jan. 23.—Bernardo and Federico Duran, Mexican cattle thieves, condemned to die by the Carranza authorities, for the killing of Bert Akers at San Lorenzo, near the international boundary, Friday, were executed at daylight in the cemetery at Juarez. Akers' body was interred here today.
The Duran brothers died cursing Americans. Bernardo appealed for mercy on behalf of his brother, Federico.
"It is unjust to kill two of us for one American," he said. "It is giving two eyes for one tooth. I am willing to die because I killed the gringo, but my brother ought to be allowed to live."
The bullets of the firing squad killed Federico, but Bernardo was conscious after he fell and the officer commanding the firing squad gave him the "mercy shot" through the head.
The bodies of both Mexicans were buried immediately, but that of Bernardo who confessed to having fired the shots that killed Akers was exhumed to satisfy a doubt concerning the identity of the slayer.

"Hints on courtship abound. Every magazine will tell you how to win a wife. Anybody will gladly post you on the etiquette of love-making."
"Whats on your mind?"
"But after a man marries he has to shift completely for himself."—Kansas City Journal.

An applicant for a teacher's certificate in Kentucky answered an examination question by defining "blunderbuss" as "kissing the wrong girl." Dictionary or no dictionary, we would have given that girl a first-class certificate.—Houston Post.
