

Will Boost South for Ideal Farming

Washington, D. C., August 24.—The South will be advertised as the ideal farming country at more than twenty-five fairs and expositions in the Northern States this fall by the Southern Railway Company and affiliated lines including the Mobile and Ohio Railroad and the Georgia Southern and Florida Railway.

Exhibits containing a full representation of the grains, grasses and foreign crops, fruits, vegetables and miscellaneous farm and orchard products of the Southern states, will be displayed and literature about the South will be distributed. A special exhibit will be moved from place to place where the county and district fairs are held, but larger exhibits will be made at Rochester, N. Y., Exposition, September 4-9; the New York State Fair at Syracuse, September 11-16, and at the National Dairy Show, Springfield, Mass., October 12-21.

These fairs and expositions will be visited by several hundred thousand farmers of the type desired by the South as settlers, and it is with the view of aiding in the development of the territory they serve that the Southern and affiliated lines are making the exhibits, the expense of which will be borne entirely by them.

NEW FORD CARS TO HAVE STREAM LINE BODIES

Will Be a Different Looking Car From the Ones Now So Familiar. New Models Expected.

According to the New York Times the new model Fords are expected any day in New York. This is no joke. It is a real, serious piece of news. The company has admitted the fact.

The new car, according to announcements to be made at once, will have a very different appearance from the Ford so well known over the United States, because for season after season it did not yield to the demand for new styles of body, but rigidly conformed to type. The changes are a streamline hood in the place of the present stiff "bonnet," a rounded radiator to accentuate the effect of sweeping lines and modern crowned fenders.

Reports that the method of the distribution of the Ford cars was to be changed have also been confirmed.

The company will restrict itself to the wholesale distribution of cars in the future.

Three sweeping changes have been made by the company within a short time, the initial one being the reduction of prices which for the first time made a touring car available at $360. It is now reported that the company plans to make 1,000,000 cars next year. The scope of such a plan is more fully realized when it is known that the Government Census Bureau recently announced that the total number of cars registered in the United States in 1915 was 2,445,664.

The Ford Company produced during the year ended July 31, 533,921 cars. Extension to the main factory are designed to more than double the output, so that the report of 1,000,000 cars in 1917 is not without some foundation.

Changes and plans of expansion by this company a real principal topic of discussion among automobile men. In general the opinion expressed is that other manufacturers of automobiles will not be greatly affected by these changes, as the cut in the price of the car brings into the automobile market many persons who hitherto were not considered as possible buyers of cars. One man well posted in the selling of automobiles from national point of view estimated that the number of new "prospects" so created was not less than 1,000,000.

SMALL TOWNS.

In small towns, everybody's business is the business of everybody else. If there are many idle people in the town, as there usually are, they while away useless hours by discussing their neighbors.

It is an established fact that he who has something good to say about another finds few listeners, while he who would slander or retail a bit of nasty scandal finds a host ready to attend his words.

Any simple incident may be seized upon by an idle mind and a busy tongue, and magnified or distorted into something unpleasant enough to hold an audience of gossip mongers.

The world is full of lies. Small towns fester with them. The lies of today are forgotten when replaced by the new crop of tomorrow, and idle gossip is like chaff which the wind driveth away.

But some lies do harm that years cannot repair, and the retelling of any and all small-town gossip is a business too small to occupy the minds of men.

If you are not a born two-by-four with a natural taste for slander, you will find it easy to discourage scandal-peddlers by telling them that you do not believe a word of their fervid tales.

Why should you believe all filth, and credit so little that is good? If a man has death honorably by you, why should you accept the word of an envious neighbor that he is dishonorable.

If a woman appears to be virtuous, why accept the word of a hound dog that she is not? Judge by what you know—not by what "they say."—Fountain Inn Tribune.

MR. PUTMAN GOES TO GREENVILLE TO LIVE

The people of Abbeville county, and especially the people of the city, where he is known, will regret to know that Mr. Thomas A. Putman is about to leave us and return to Greenville. Mr. Putman came here soon after Mr. W. B. Moore took charge of the Abbeville Cotton Mills. He had learned the mill business with Mr. Moore, who knew the business himself, having worked his way through the different departments in order to know every detail of the business.

Mr. Putman managed our mill successfully for several years, but resigned sometime ago. He now goes back to Greenville to take up his work in the Mills Manufacturing Company, Mr. Moore's mill. He has large farming interests in this county, however, and he tells us that when he gets rich he will return to Abbeville and make this his home. We hope he will. Abbeville needs good men always.
