"DOING HIS BIT" IS FARMER BROWN

Patriot All Way, From Liberty Bonds To Furrows—He Plants Potatoes and Corn.

(By J. C. Primrose, Farm Service Bureau, Atlanta, Ga.)

Farmer Brown is a patriot. He came to town yesterday and bought a Liberty bond. But this is not all that he has done toward suppressing Prussianism. He planted a larger acreage of corn and other food crops this year than he has ever planted before. He also used more fertilizer and is now cultivating these crops from early till late, hoping and trusting that he will have enough for home needs and some to spare.

Realizing that patriotism and profits go hand in hand on his farm, and knowing that we must continue to eat, war or no war, he is now preparing to plant an unusually large acreage of Irish potatoes where he harvested grain. This crop, he says, is as good a cash crop as is cotton.

And this is the way he plants his second crop potatoes: After grain is harvested he harrows the land with a disk harrow, and then deeply and thoroughly breaks it. It is then harrowed again until it is in a fine pulverized condition, and left this way until ready for planting in July. Occasionally it is harrowed with a spike tooth harrow to kill the weeds and to conserve moisture. While he plants after grain, any available land, properly worked will give as good results.

The rows are laid off three and a half feet apart, seven or eight inches deep with a one horse shovel plow. "The potato plant respond immediately and profitably to heavy applications of plant food," he says "and if my land is not mighty rich already I like to use liberal amounts of fertilizer for I find that it pays me. A ton to the acre is not too much." He says, "when applied to a good soil. I prefer a material analyzing 3 per cent or 4 per cent nitrogen, 8 per cent or 10 per cent phosphoric acid and 5 per cent or 6 per cent potash. Potash is too high now and I can't use more than 1 per cent, or 2 per cent, of this element, but I know that there is nothing like potash in growing good potatoes." Continuing, he said, "I put my fertilizer in the furrow under the potatoes, I apply from 1,000 to 1,500 pounds per acre, and mix this with the soil by running a bull-tongue plow through the furrow."

"It is a good plan" he says, "to cover the seed potatoes with sand or gunny sacks two or three weeks pre-

FOOD BILL GOES TO UPPER HOUSE

Believed That Measure Will Be Put Through in Time to Handle This Year's Crops.

Washington, June 25.—Formal transfer today from the house to the senate of the administration food control bill, with its new and drastic prohibition features, was accompanied by general predictions that the legislation would be passed by the senate within ten days and finally enacted in time to deal with this season's crops.

While debate on the Chamberlain draft of the bill continued on the floor of the senate, the measure as it passed the house was referred to the agriculture committee. A subcommittee will begin its consideration and a report to the senate is expected Wednesday.

Material changes which the administration leaders have agreed to accept and which the subcommittee may adopt tomorrow are expected to allay opposition to a large degree.

These amendments propose: Extension of government control over food, feed and fuel to many other basic articles, including iron and steel and their products, oil, copper, lead, zinc, aluminum, farm implements, fertilizers and binding twine.

Elimination of the provision for regulation of consumption, to insure that the food administration shall not regulate individual rations.

Inclusion of a section to inspect that control of farmers production or storage of his own products can not be attempted.

An addition to the licensing section to make clear that the charges to be fixed shall relate to storage and other middlemen's handling.

Opponents of the bill promise to continue their fight on the licensing plan, minimum price fixing, the provision for government purchase of foodstuffs the section giving the president power to fix import tariff rates and the section authorizing him to commandeer factories and other plants and mines. Majority and minority committee reports are looked for.

On the house amendment prohibiting further manufacture of foodstuffs into innoxious, a majority of the committee is said to favor a substitute along similarly drastic lines. The fight will centre upon an effort to permit manufacture of malt liquors and wines, Senator Simmons, chairman, and other finance committee members revising the war tax bill plan conference with the agriculture committee leaders to discuss revenue loss from prohibition which promises to be a prominent question.

vicious to planting, and keep them moist to force germination or development of the young sprouts. By selecting good seed, free from scab, and treating in this manner I never fail to get a good stand of healthy, vigorous plants."

"I usually cut to two eyes and plant by hand from 10 to 15 inches apart in the row. The row is then bedded upon with a small turn plow, covering the potatoes four or five inches deep."

"While there are many varieties that may be used for the second crop. I like the Lookout Mountain better than any that I have tried. Other good and popular varieties are the Green Mountain, Hoosier, Sir Walter Raleigh and Rural New York cr."

"I like to use only shallow working implements in cultivating the crop. A weeder or light harrow before the crop comes up, followed with a shallow cultivator, I think, are the only implements that we need to use in making the second crop. The object sought here is to keep down the weeds and to conserve the moisture."

"I expect not less than 200 to 250 bushels per acre by these methods. This year I want the largest possible yield for they are needed, and the prices that they will probably bring will yield me a handsome profit. This crop, in fact, is one of the easiest for me to grow, affords a cheaper source of food for home use and a surplus gives me a big income annually."

Will you be the Mr. Brown of your neighborhood and adopt these, or similar methods, in the production of a second crop of Irish potatoes this fall? The crop is needed and it will pay you handsomely to grow it.

Clemson College, S. C.—The opening of the new Packing House in Orangeburg early this fall will furnish a ready market for all stock. This will be of great help to the farmers of the State and they should do all they can to make it a success. The plant will pay the market price for hogs that are well finished. The farmers can do a lot for themselves and toward aiding to make the plant a success if they will plant a variety of grazing crops, etc. in order that they can produce more hogs, better hogs, and at less expense. In growing more feed stuffs, they can make the pork for less cost and so make greater net returns.
