SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold. Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair. Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

ROW BREAKS OUT AT STATE MEETING

Bethea and Richards Renew Quarrel. Question of Loyalty.

Greenville, July 20.—Lieut. Gov. Andrew J. Bethea and John G. Richards, candidates for governor, almost came to blows at the State campaign meeting here today in the municipal park before an audience of approximately 1,500.

The incident was the outcome of the renewal of a question by Mr. Bethea which was asked at Walhalla and which occasioned Major Richards' coming out for Cole L. Blease at that place. Mr. Bethea asked Major Richards, "Do you indorse the sentiments and the words uttered by Cole L. Blease at Pomaria, July 27, 1917?"

Following the preface of his speech, which was an exhortation of the Greenville Piedmont, the lieutenant governor referred to the Pomaria speech of Blease, quoting from the Charleston American in which Blease is reputed to have said that the blood shed by the soldiers of the United States in Europe will be on the head of President Wilson and the members of the American congress "as an unwarranted sacrifice of fresh young American manhood," he said. "I am not making it an issue, because the Charleston American made it an issue when it said that Blease came out for Richards in his Wagener speech and that Richards got up and came out for Blease. They raised the issue and I propose to meet it from day to day. I turned to Major Richards who is a candidate in this race, at Walhalla and asked him if he indorsed the utterance of Blease. He did not answer specifically and he can answer it now if he wants to. His reply to me was 'Why are you not in the war? Why don't you don the khaki? You are in the draft age.' Major Richards knows I am not in the draft age and I am a State officer, yet I have entered my services to the war department at Washington and am ready and willing to go and to spend every cent I have in order to make the world safe for democracy."

Test for Officeholders.

Continuing the lieutenant governor said that the test of a man's qualification for office was his loyalty to his country and his adherence to the national administration. He stated that no candidate should be given preferment whose loyalty was in doubt.

"Would you like me to answer your question?" asked Major Richards at this point. As he arose to his feet, he stated that he had been informed that a man now on the stand had quoted Mr. Bethea as saying he was sorry that he brought the matter up at Walhalla. Mr. Bethea replied that he had not said to anyone that he was sorry.

"I want to say to Mr. Bethea," said Major Richards, "that he said to me at Walhalla he did not intend to reflect on my loyalty."

Major Richards then walked up beside the lieutenant governor, poised himself on the balls of his feet, doubled his fists and asked: "Did you not make that statement?"

"I stated at Walhalla in my reply," said Mr. Bethea, "that that was not the question and I did not ask the question as to whether he was loyal."

"Do you mean to infer here today that I am disloyal?" shouted Major Richards, as he drew back his clinched fist as if to hit the lieutenant governor.

T. P. Cothran, county chairman, who was standing between the two men, grabbed Mr. Richards' arm and several policemen and a part of the audience rushed on the stand. During the disturbance Major Richards said something about "coward." The county chairman said that Major Richards called Mr. Bethea "a contemptible coward."

During the heated exchange between the two candidates, men in the audience cried out. "Yes, you're disloyal," "Traitor," "Give it to him, Bethea," "Open her wide Bethea," and other such cries.

At the conclusion of the lieutenant governor's speech, Mr. Cothran announced that Major Richards would be allowed two minutes for a reply to Mr. Bethea.

"I have already replied to Mr. Bethea and he has heard what I have to say," said Major Richards. "I am not going to do anything in this campaign to precipitate on the people of South Carolina anything that is likely to humble her citizenship. I have four nephews and one brother and one son who have volunteered their services to the government. I have been placed in a position where some people probably do not understand my attitude."

Answer for Bethea.

"I have been placed on the State Council of Defense and have been working there for a year and a half and I am not afraid that anything any man can say in regard to me can injure me in the estimation of the people of South Carolina. The facts are before you and I want to say that in regard to Mr. Bethea, I gave Mr. Bethea a man's answer at Walhalla and I gave him a man's answer here today.

"Gentlemen of Greenville and of South Carolina, I am not responsible for Governor Blease's public utterances. I believe after you have heard Governor Blease's utterance at Wagener in which he declared he would go to the president and offer him his entire support, even to the breaking of the precedent established by Washington in electing him to a third term, you can decide as to his loyalty. I am not here in defense of Governor Blease and I say to Mr. Bethea, as I have said to him before, that to Governor Blease is the proper place for him to carry his attack and I invite him to appear before Governor Blease on the next stump and make his charge. He owes it to you and he owes it to his own manhood to go to him and not to attack him over my shoulder, and I say that Governor Blease is man enough to face him or anyone else in South Carolina.

"I wish to say further that I would not support a man for the humblest place in the gift of the people of the State that I do not believe is willing to die for the American cause, and I believe that if Governor Blease had no more obligations than Mr. Bethea has on him that he would be shouldering a rifle today and fighting for American liberty with the boys in the trenches."

Robert A. Cooper today received an ovation from the crowd before and after his speech. The candidates, other than Messrs. Bethea and Richards, made their usual speeches with little deviation. W. J. C.

DOCTORS CALLED AS PROFESSION

other essential civilian services, would not be commissioned in the army.

Conferences of doctors were held today in Washington and a number of other cities to discuss the operation of the voluntary enrollment plan. A committee of army and navy surgeons also completed today recommendations for inclusion in the volunteer medical service corps all doctors, instead of only those disqualified for military service.

Army Needs Great.

Of the 143,000 doctors in the United States, it is estimated between 80,000 and 95,000 are in active practice, and 23,000 or about one-fourth are in the army or navy. Nearly 50,000 will be required eventually for the army.

It became known today that Surgeon Generals Gorgas of the army. Braisted of the navy and Blue of the public health service, are considering a plan for commissioning all teachers in medical schools and assigning them to their present duties.

This would constitute a means of preventing further disruption of medical teaching staffs, and at the same time recognizing the public service of the men.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush the Kidneys at once when Back aches or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so the sluggish filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful of a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then be fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and does not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.
