

STENOGRAPHIC RECORD PROVES WILSON RIGHT

Senator Spencer Had Charged President Promised to Send Troops to Air Rumania and Service in Case of War

Washington, Oct. 11.—The White House made public today what was described as an "official version," of President Wilson's address at the eighth plenary session of the Paris peace conference. The exact wording of this address, directed to the representatives of Roumania, Serbia and Czecho-Slovakia, has been the subject of a controversy between the President and Senator Spencer, Republican, Missouri.

The senator has declared in a political speeches that the President had promised Roumania and Serbia that "if any nation ever invaded their territory he would send the American army across the seas to defend their boundary lines."

Mr. Wilson in a telegram to the Senator on Oct. 5, said that this statement was "false."

In reply, Senator Spencer called for the official record saying that the statement to which he had referred was in the "stenographic notes" of the eighth plenary session; in which the President "was reported to have said." "You must not forget that it is force that is the final guaranty of the peace of the world. If the world is again troubled the United States will send to this side of the ocean their army and their fleet."

The President's words as given in the official version follows:

"How can a power like the United States, for example—and I can speak for no other—after signing this treaty, if it contains elements which they do not believe will be permanent, go three thousand miles away across the sea and report to its people that it has made a settlement of the peace of the world? It cannot do so. And yet there underlies all of these transactions the expectations on the part, for example, of Roumania, of Czecho-Slovakia and of Serbia, that if any covenants of this settlement are not observed the United States will send her armies and her navies to see that they are observed.

The official version of the full text of the President's address was furnished to the White House last week by Fred A. Carlson, of Chicago, who was an official stenographer with the American Peace Delegation, and who wrote that he would "be glad to swear to the accuracy," of the transcript.

Mr. Carlson's letter was dated October 6th., and was addressed to Charles L. Swem, stenographer to the President. He explained that he had read Senator Spencer's reply to the President in Chicago newspapers; that he had just gone over his notes and that he could find "no such statement," as that attributed to Mr. Wilson by the senator. He added that it was barely possible that the quotation "was from a translation into English of M. Mantoux' translation into French of the President's remarks, and as you know the translations sometimes mixed things up a bit."

"I wish I were in a position to make public what the President made public by Secretary Tumulty, with this comment:

"This letter speaks for itself." Senator Spencer in his reply to President Wilson's telegram of October 5, said the statement which he had attributed to the President "was made upon the floor of the senate on February 2, 1920, by Senator Reed, and so far as I have learned has never been denied until now."

In his speech of February 2, Senator Reed quoted from a copyrighted syndicated article by Frank H. Simonds which purported to give the text of the President's address at the eighth plenary session and which Senator Johnson, Republican California, caused to be inserted into the Congressional Record on December 4, 1919.

Along with Mr. Carlson's transcript, the White House issued in parallel columns "for comparison"

WOMAN APPLIES FOR APPOINTMENT

Want Office of Chief Game Warden

Chief game warden of South Carolina in skirts?

Such was the proposition put up to Governor Cooper yesterday when he received an application for appointment to the place from a woman of this state.

Not only was the applicant a woman, but she was a "widow woman" as they say in Laurens. And what is more—considerably more—she has four children.

"It's a man's job to support four children and I think I ought to have a man's job," she says in her application and no one who has priced children's clothing in recent weeks will dare gainsay her.

"I know nothing whatever about the job," she says with engaging frankness, "but I can learn" and a "widow woman" supporting four children somehow impresses the ordinary pedestrian as a person who could learn—and that with considerable celerity.

the version of the President's speech as given in Mr. Simonds article as it appears in the Congressional Record.

In the opposite column from the official version of the President's words as previously quoted appears the following:

"How could the government of the United States go before the Congress and the people of the United States and pretend that it had assisted in insuring the peace of the world, if it believed that the settlement agreed upon here contained unstable or dangerous alignments? If the world should be troubled again; if the conditions which we all regard as fundamental are challenged, the guarantees which will be given you will, pledge that the United States will send its army and fleet across the ocean. Is it surprising, under such conditions, that it should desire to reach a solution of the various problems which seem to be satisfactory?"

GREAT TIDE OF JEWS
COMING TO AMERICA

Berlin, Oct 12.—Reports from Danzig, Hamburg and Bremen says a great tide of Jewish emigration to the United States has set in, and that already it is flowing at the rate of thousands a day through Antwerp and toward French ports. It has been necessary to erect barracks at Danzig to house the applicants for passports and the correspondent there of the Berlin Tageblatt says virtually a new city has come into existence composed of Jews organized and financed by the Hebrew Immigration Aid Society and the Joint Distribution Committee of America.

Administration buildings, store houses, workrooms, restaurants and even a temporary synagogue have been provided in the outskirts of Danzig for the emigrants. There are many women and children awaiting transportation, going they say, to husbands and fathers in America.

The Tageblatt's correspondent says many of the men seeking passage to America have fled from Poland, assisted by the Joint Distribution Committee and others from Russia, having been driven before the bolshevik army as it advanced into Poland. The Poles made no opposition to their passage through the corridor to Danzig.

RAILWAYS SEEK ASSISTANCE FROM PRESIDENT

Washington, Oct. 12.—The railroads of the country appealed today to President Wilson against the ruling of comptroller of the treasury that the treasury department might withhold from the roads all further payments due them under the guarantee provisions of the transportation act until final accounting had been completed by the carriers.
