HARD TRAVELING FOR TARIFF BILL

Senate Decides on Committee Hearings—Near Defeat Once

Washington, Jan. 4.—Stumbling blocks which the Fordney emergency tariff measure has encountered since reaching the senate continued today to rise up in its pathway. The chief of these appeared in the decision of the senate finance committee in stormy executive session to hold hearings on the measure.

Advocates of the tariff measure believed and opponents hoped the committee's action would mean the death of the bill. Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, was understood to have told the committee the move would cause the bill either to be killed in conference or filibustered to death on the senate floor. The projected hearings will begin Thursday and continue until next Tuesday and will be followed also by decision of the committee, by hearings, on the soldier compensation bill.

The finance committee meeting today was the first over which Senator Penrose, its chairman, had presided in more than 13 months. An age, although she is eighty-three, she often walks across town to spend the afternoon with friends and enjoys the walk as well as the company.

attempt by Senator Simmons, Democrat, North Carolina, to postpone action indefinitely on the tariff bill developed the first clash. The motion lost, however, by two Democratic senators, Nugent of Idaho and Jones of New Mexico, joining the Republicans.

The question of holding open hearings, committee members reported, brought on a second vote and exchanges in which sharp words were used. The motion to open the hearings was made by Senator Gerry, Democrat, Rhode Island, and it was given the support of all the Democratic members in addition to Chairman Penrose, who was joined by another Republican, Calder, of New York.

Senator Penrose after the meeting issued a statement in which he said that both the soldier bonus and tariff measures, "undoubtedly would be reported to the senate." He declined, however, to offer a prediction as to what action would be taken in the senate but opponents of the tariff bill were confident it never would become law.

The Best of the Bargain

When you buy advertised goods you are getting the best of the bargain. Only goods fairly priced can stand the strain of advertising.

You can't imagine a merchant advertising a lot of articles that are poor in quality, or poor in make; and will not give reasonable wear. Such goods can't stand the strain of public condemnation. That is why it pays to buy advertised goods.

When a merchant signs his name to a statement he is careful what he says. When the whole reputation of his business is at stake, he is doubly careful. When that statement is being sent out to all the people, so that anything in it is not true will be known to all of his employees and most of his friends; then you may be sure he is ten times doubly careful.

So when you buy advertised goods you get the best of the bargain, because they must be as advertised. That is why it pays you to read advertisements, and to buy the goods advertised. Advertising protects you. Read it and get the best of bargaining.
