NOT TO ISSUE NEW ESTIMATE

Figures of October 25 on Cotton To Stand.

Washington, Oct. 25.—Representative Fulmer, of South Carolina, announced tonight that he had been informed by officials of the crop reporting bureau of the Department of Agriculture that contrary to some earlier reports to the effect, that a statement will be issued November 1 showing a larger cotton crop as of October 25 than the estimate. The statement follows:

"In view of the circulation of a report to the effect that the crop reporting bureau of the Agricultural Department will, on November 1, issue a statement as to the condition of the crop as of October 25, and that it will show a larger crop than the estimate of October 3, I have conferred with the officials in charge and have been assured that such new estimate of October 3, I have furthermore, while a questionnaire was sent out, the department stands to its former estimate with a total crop of 6,537,000 bales.

"This estimate by the department will be quoted by Director Stuart in the ginning report to be issued today, covering the ginning up to October 18, and it is expected that his enumeration will show an abnormally large ginning, due to the crop's maturing unusually early this year and picking and ginning being more advanced than ever before.

"A canvass of the cotton belt made by experts of the American Cotton Association brings to light certain facts which will prove startling to every line of the cotton industry."

"Dangerous Days" may be a joke to many of its readers but it is not to old Brer Possum.

SCHOOL FIGURES

Enrollment Declines As Grades Advance, in too Great Ratio.

According to figures just announced by J. E. Swearingen, State Superintendent of Education, the enrollment of pupils in the higher grades in both the high schools and the rural graded schools of Abbeville county, is too small as compared with that in the lower grades. For example, during the 1919-20 session in the two high schools, there were enrolled in the first through the sixth grades 366 pupils compared with 232 from the seventh through the eleventh. The following session, 1920-21, the upper grades, according to the same authority, were increased by the addition of two pupils. It seems incredible that the 164 pupils in the fifth and sixth grades should have failed of promotion. And the death rate at this age is not so great as to account for the difference between the actual increase of the four upper grades and the theoretical increase.

In the eight so-called rural graded schools in the county there were enrolled, in 1919-20, 661 pupils in the first six grades as compared with only 192 in the four higher grades. In 1920-21, both sections increased more than did the high schools, the lower grades having 755 pupils and the others 208.

An analysis of the figures would tend to show that too many pupils drop out of school before they reach the higher grades. If figures were available they would probably show that a still smaller percentage of the pupils of the four high school grades ever go to college. They would probably show also that a majority of the pupils who complete the tenth and eleventh grades do go to college.

The state superintendent of education passes the figures on to Superintendent Mann with the query, "Can anything be done to improve these conditions in 1921?"

THREE SUFFERING MAD DOG WOUNDS

Columbia, Oct. 25.—Frank Devereux, farmer living six miles from Columbia on the Garner's Ferry road, and his two sisters, Misses Letty and Lucile Devereux, are taking the Pasteur treatment because they were bitten by a pet dog which has been declared by the board of health authorities to have been mad. A horse and several dogs belonging to Mr. Devereux were also bitten.

According to reports, Mr. Devereux was playing with the dog Friday when it suddenly bit him in the face. One of the young women was caressing the dog Saturday when it bit her. The second sister heard the dogs fighting in the yard and, rushing out to part them, was herself bitten by the mad dog.

Saturday Mr. Devereux rode into the yard and the mad dog leaped up and bit the horse upon the nose. Nothing was suspected until yesterday morning when the dog was seen having a fit. It was then killed and brought to Columbia where its head was examined and it was found that the brute was mad.

Mr. Devereux and the Misses Devereux immediately began the Pasteur treatment.

The banks may call on you to pay up but the deacons will still "wait on" you.
