Moves In Bungalow.

Eakin, who have been living on Washington Street since their return from Monroe, N. C., will return to their old home on Magazine Street. The Martin home is the first residence to be built on the Gary property on Secession avenue and is a distinct addition to the appearance of the street.

Bakery Growing.
H. L. Moore, proprietor of the Abbeville Bakery, said this morning that he had just sent in an order to a New York manufacturer for an oven, which when installed will involve an expenditure of $2,000. The oven, he says, will be a distinct improvement to his equipment, the steam process which the new outfit requires, insuring a better quality of bread. The new oven, too, is of large capacity and its use will enable the plant to keep up with its orders without being obliged to send out bread less than 24 hours old, which is a rule Mr. Moore has found it necessary occasionally to break. The proprietor of the Abbeville Bakery has shown by his willingness to cooperate in any public undertaking and by his general progressiveness that he has come to Abbeville to stay. He is a fighter, as well as a baker, and he believes if a man wants to win he has got to deliver the goods. Mr. Moore has recently purchased a large supply of attractive, waxed bread wraps, which bears the label "Blue Ribbon Bread." He is looking forward to the day when all the people will call for this brand, just as they call for "Spearmint" or "Kellogg's." "I'll be the first to give the people a lower price loaf," Mr. Moore says. "The price of the flour I use has not yet declined to any appreciable extent, but as soon as it does I am going to cut prices accordingly. I believe the people of Abbeville appreciate my effort to give service and I am going to equip my plant to give the best service possible."

Rowells Leave.
Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Rowell who have been living on North Main Street, left Sunday for Mountain City, Tenn., where Mr. Rowell will be county demonstration agent. They drove through the country in their car. Mr. Rowell was formerly demonstration agent in Abbeville county until the appropriation was discontinued. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter, former residents of Abbeville, recently living in Greenville, Tenn., have rented the Rowell house and will move to Abbeville December 1.
