MAUDE MOORE SAYS "HIS LIFE OR MINE"

Knoxville Woman on Trial Second Time For Slaying of Leroy Harth

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 10—"It is hard to take life; but was my life or his" Mrs. Maude Moore Stubbs declared here today at her second trial on a charge of the murder of Leroy Harth while riding on a lonely road here one night in September, 1919. The woman denied any intention of robbing the man and said she shot to protect herself.

Continues On Stand

Knoxville, Dec. 10—Maude Moore, accused slayer of Leroy D. Harth, automobile dealer of Knoxville, who was shot to death September 8, 1919, continued on the stand when court convened this morning. The defendant was under fire of state counsel for cross-examination, having related the incidents leading up to the killing of Harth at yesterday's session.

Cross-examination of the woman as undertaken late in the evening had failed to break her testimony at any important point, her testimony as it deviated from that given in the first trial always being met with the response that she did not remember what she said at that time.

The state played largely upon the association of the defendant with Martin Hunter, to whose rooms she fled on the night of the killing and who accompanied her south of Knoxville prior to her subsequent surrender to the police.

Maude Moore's recital of her life leading down to the night of Harth's murder, subsequent trial, conviction, flight from Knoxville and arrest at Tacoma, Wash., was given for the

HOW HARDING STANDS ON PROHIBITION QUESTION

Chicago, Dec. 11.—A pre-election statement on prohibition, attributed to President Harding and quoting him as saying that "in another generation I believe that liquor will have disappeared not merely from our politics, but from our memories," represents his views on the subject, according to a report made today to the committee on conservation and advance of the Methodist Episcopal church.

The report was made by the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals and includes correspondence between the board and George B. Christian, President Harding's secretary, regarding the statement.

Mr. Christian, in reply to a query as to whether the statement was authentic said that there is no record of the precise statement having been used by the President, but that it is a "very fair view of the President's views on the subject."

most part in an even tone of voice, the defendant breaking down and sobbing only as she related the alleged struggle with Harth on Kingston pike, where, she reiterated, he made an unmentionable proposal, which she refused to countenance, and this resulted, she said, in her being jerked from the car and thrown down on the ground. In the struggle, she said, a pistol fell to the ground, and she seized it and fired at Harth.

"I was mortally afraid of him and feared he would force me to do his bidding," the defendant said. Nervous fear and the absolute lack of funds was given as her reason for fleeing the city just before her second trial in 1920.

WHISKEY RAIDS IN STATE OF KENTUCKY

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 9.—Federal prohibition agents in Kentucky have just concluded one of the largest raids in the history of prohibition enforcement in the state.

Whiskey bandits likewise have just completed one of the most successful distillery raids ever made in Kentucky.

Instead of a breathing spell today, following a busy week in three Kentucky counties federal agents are off in search of a score of whiskey thieves who last night, in a spectacular raid, got away with 194 cases of bottled in bond, and ten barrels of whiskey from the T. B. Ripley distillery at Tyrenne, Kentucky.

Early in the week, thirty prohibition enforcement agents invaded Nelson, Washington and Marion counties. When the agents came out late yesterday the raid had yielded seven prisoners ten stills and 38 foundations were broken up, and 38,000 gallons of beer and 68 gallons of moonshine destroyed. Warrants for a number of other alleged law violators have been issued as a result of the raids. Meantime several raids in Louisville have netted small quantities of wet goods.

The bandits in raiding the Ripley distillery, captured four guards and three passersby and after handcuffing them put them in a vault in a distillery office while they loaded the whiskey into motor trucks and automobiles and drove off.

TRADE WEEK IN BAMBERG

Successful Venture Proves of Present and Future Benefit.

Bamberg Dec. 6.—The people of Bamberg county aided by the extension Service workers held at Bamberg November 28 to December 2 what was known as Exchange Week, during which many things were done in the way of giving assistance in finding markets for surplus farm products things that proved to be of present relief and will lead to future benefit. The idea of having a trade week was planned by the business men of Bamberg aided by County Agent J. D. Brandon and F. L. Harkey, agent in marketing, Clemson college, to get farmers and business men together for the exchange and sale of products and success of the ventures shows the way for others to follow.

A large exhibit hall was used for the display of farm products which became a sort of local fair and in front of this hall was the marketing committee's booth where the marketing committee with the guidance of Messrs. Harkey and Brandon received samples of products offers and quotations from buyers and made sales or contracts between sellers and buyers. Pecans, hay, peas, corn, sweet potatoes, sirup, etc., were listed with the committee and many sales were made and many inquiries for samples and prices were answered from buyers in other markets orders from such samples to be filled later, as received. Orders were received for 30 cars of peavine hay and for various quantities of such things as pecans, sirup and potatoes and bids were received for two cars of hogs.

Perhaps the feature of the greatest future benefit was the "educa-

TWO SUSPECTS HELD AFTER BURGLARY AND ATTACK

Albany Ga. Dec. 8.—E. L. Jones a well-dressed stranger and a woman said to be his companion, were under arrest here Tuesday while police were investigating an attack on Mrs. M. H. Gunnels whose store was burglarized late Monday. Mrs. Gunnels was struck over the head with an iron bar by one of the robbers. Jones was out on bail while awaiting trial on a charge of burglary.

Unemployment in Germany.

Cologne, Dec. 10.—Germany at the present time has fewer unemployed than any period within the last 14 years, according to labor officials. In the mining industry, the building trade and the chemical industry the number of vacancies exceeds that of the unemployed. The total number of persons unemployed on October 1 was 189,407.

Germany's export business is booming for the present, due partly to the low rate exchange of the mark and in many parts of the country are said to be working overtime.

tional" work done by the agent in marketing had the county agent in conducting demonstrations and giving instructions in the packing grading and handling of products to make them more readily marketable. In this way farmers learned more about packing and handling sweet potatoes grading pecans, uniform canning and labeling sirup, etc. so that their product will be in greater demand and bring better prices.
