PIECE OF CHEWING GUM CAUSE OF A LAWSUIT

Spartanburg, Sept. 26.—A one cent piece of chewing gum ejected from the mouth of a careless visitor to a local moving picture theatre, and which found a resting place upon one of the seats, was the cause of a lawsuit in this city in which Magistrate Jennings on Saturday allowed Mrs. W. A. Varner damages amounting to $7. Mrs. Varner, who followed the careless masticator of chicle, sat down in the seat on which he had left the gum and injury to her skirt was the result.

PHILSON'S OPENING.

Philson is holding his fall opening today, and has on display a beautiful stock of goods. The show windows are decorated in golden rod, fall leaves and the new shades of wall flower and brown. Begonias in the wall flower shade give an artistic touch to the windows.

The main entrance shows a line of dress goods on display, of handsome velvets, silks and the newer materials. The first floor is decorated with golden rod and pot plants and is in charge of Mrs. George Penney, Miss Elizabeth Edmunds, Miss Julia Pennell, and John Lomax while Mr. R. C. Philson acted as general host to the shoppers of the city of Abbeville, and the surrounding country.

Miss Meggie Brooks presided over the punch bowl on the main floor where she served delicious fruit punch to the visitors at the fashion show. The bowl was buried in a bank of yellow-golden rod and this service added to the social features of the occasion.

Upstairs in the millinery department Miss Myrtle Wright, Miss Nancy Seal and Miss Nelle McGaw held forth. The hats are "dreams" as the young would say, and were displayed with taste. This department was also decorated in the new fall shades of nut-brown and wall flowers. Fresh fall roses in glass vases graced the show cases, and especially fine specimen of ferns were used in the decorations up stairs.

Everything looked sweet and attractive, the young ladies in charge being no exception to the rule. The opening was well attended and people are going to buy goods this fall.

FOUR YEARS OLD.

Little Willamette Williamson gave a very pretty party Saturday at her home on Greenville street. She was four years old and invited about thirty of her friends in to celebrate.

After playing games the guests were invited into the dining-room where the party table was arranged in a most attractive manner. As a centerpiece a large doll was dressed as "Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary." The doll was lifelike in costume of pink and white. The table was covered with moss to represent a lawn and in the hands of the doll was a watering pot, and a rake and a hoe. The room was lighted with pink tapers and there was a glow on even the faces of the youngsters.

Ice cream and cake were served and Miss Willamette gave favors to her guests of small rakes and hoes and spades, which no doubt will rake up the yards and tempers of some of the mothers of the thirty fortunate ones.

CALHOUN FALLS PEOPLE

Sheriff F. B. McLane and Capt. J. L. Perrin were out in the Calhoun Falls section yesterday on business. They called on Mr. Hirman Lawson who had been quite sick, and found him greatly improved. They also stopped to see their old friend Tobe Hester, and he was "looking like a Million Dollars."

We may put off doing unpleasant duties, but we never forget them.

DELIGHTFUL PARTY.

Rock Hill, Sept. 25.—On Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Alma C. Gibbons gave a delightful party to the Abbeville girls at Winthrop. Leaving the campus at 4.30, ten happy girls accompanied their hostess down town. After shopping a while they were taken to the Periwinkle, a quaint little tea room overlooking the main business street of the city.

The dainty blue and white furnishings, carried out even in the pretty china, added to the homelike atmosphere prevailing and made the delicious supper served very appetizing to the—shall we be considered impolite if we say famished?—college girls.

Much fun and merriment continued through the ordering and eating of good things that tasted "just like home" and a group of satisfied girls followed their gracious hostess to the station in time to meet the other Abbeville girls and Miss Gladys Wilson, who was passing through Rock Hill on her way home from Greensboro, N. C. Just as preparations were being made to carry out instructions by returning to the campus by seven, the Winthrop Special rolled in, and the gay party returned to the college on that train.

The following girls enjoyed Mrs. Gibbons' kind hospitality: Misses Hilda Syfan, Gladys Edwards, Margaret Dawson, Gladys Brazeal, Ophelia and Cornelia Clinkscales, Janie Milford, Ada Faulkner, Celia Chalmers and Mildred Wilson. Miss Janie Roberts of Greenwood had some of her girls at the Periwinkle at the same time.

Abbeville's Demonstrator could not have done anything for the girls that would have been appreciated more. We are sure that the Freshmen at least, with a close second from the old girls, would like to give a hearty "Three cheers for Mrs. Gibbons."
