THE SIX LYCEUM COURSE NUMBERS

The answer to the question, what type of entertainment shall parents and children see together this winter? is found in the six wonderful numbers of the Lyceum course held at the Milliken Community Building. The Board of Operatives rightly feel that they have secured the best six numbers that the Redpath Bureau are offering this winter and every number will be well worth the price of the season ticket. It has been a long time since Abbeville has had as good an opportunity for high class, clean entertainment.

The auditorium at the Community Building seats comfortably 400 people. This building is steam heated and clean. Those who have not yet visited this beautiful building will welcome the opportunity to do so.

The six numbers of the course are as follows:

Friday, Oct. 20.—The Grosjean Marimba-Xylophone Co. An entertainment company of rare ability. Three ladies and two men.

Friday, Nov. 10.—The Werno Ladies Quartette. Miss Laura Werno has been with Redpath a number of years and always produces an entertainment of merit.

Friday, Dec. 15.—C. L. (Grizzly) Smith, famed exponent of the great outdoors. His nature stories include, "Trapping in the Canadian Rockies," "Hunting the Rocky Mountain Lion," "Mountain Sheep and Grizzly Bear," "Hunting Deer, Caribou and Moose" and others.

Saturday, Dec. 30.—The Troubadour Male Quartette, "Nuf Sed."

January or early February—Laurant and Company. The Great Laurant, magician and wonder worker, combines wizardry, music and colorful splendor in his elaborate programs.

February or March—Vierra's Hawaiians, Interpreters of the music of the South Seas. No music more bewitching. A distant part of the United States brought to our doors.

SEWING FOR THORNWELL

SOCIETY

BRIDGE CLUB MEETING.

The Bridge Club will meet with Mrs. Rayford Power Wednesday afternoon. This club has been meeting on Friday mornings, but for the winter months they will meet every first and third Wednesday afternoon.

WINTHROP DAUGHTERS DRINK TEA.

The Winthrop Daughters of Abbeville assembled at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. W. H. White and drank a cup of tea. At this hour the Winthrop Daughters in the different towns of South Carolina were also assembled, drinking a cup of tea and fostering the Winthrop spirit. News Letters from the College were received and read at these meetings. A good crowd attended the Abbeville meeting in spite of the inclement weather.

HONORING THEIR MOTHER.

A delightful entertainment was given to Mrs. Francis Henry at her home on North Main street Saturday afternoon by her three daughters, Mrs. W. E. Leslie, Mrs. G. A. Neuffer and Mrs. J. C. Hill. This was a nice compliment in honor of her seventy-ninth birthday. The house was made bright with fall flowers and everything was done for the pleasure of the twenty-seven ladies invited for the occasion. The morning was spent in conversation and reminiscences and about 1 o'clock a luncheon of chicken salad, stuffed tomatoes, pickles, crackers, hot coffee and ice cream and cake was served.

MINSTREL SHOW AT COMMUNITY BUILDING.

The Minstrel Show given by the Comrade Club last Friday evening was a large success both from the view point of entertainment and from the crowded house. Over four hundred people were seated in the auditorium which is the largest gathering of any kind since the new Community Building was opened some months ago.

The cast of the play consisted of four lady comedians, twenty-five male comedians and they rendered a program which held the audience on the edge of their seats during the entire two hours of the performance. The jokes and antics of the comedians kept the audience in such a state of laughter that it was necessary from time to time to halt the performance until quiet could again be restored. No part of the program received more favorable comment or was more heartily enjoyed than the group of tumblers who for a half hour entertained the patrons with a program of ground tumbling finishing with the squash pyramid.

All the casts were appropriately dressed for the occasion in real dark town costumes with the Interloctor in a dress suit.

SPRING CABBAGE AND LETTUCE

Clemson College.—In order to produce headed cabbage very early in the spring it is necessary to sow the seeds in the open ground in early October, says Prof. C. C. Newman, horticulturist, who gives below suggestions on growing spring cabbage.

Transplant the plants to the field during late December. Set the plants in rows 30 inches apart and 15 inches apart in the row. In transplanting the entire stem of the plant should be covered with soil to prevent freezing. The Charleston Wakefield is probably the best variety for early spring use. The succession is a good variety to follow the Charleston Wakefield. In order that ample plants may be available at transplanting time in December it is well to make two or three plantings of seed, the first about the last week in September and the other two plantings at intervals of about ten days.

Lettuce for Winter and Spring.

For spring lettuce it will be necessary to sow the seeds in frames in October. The first planting should be made about the first of October and the second about ten days later. The lettuce plants will become established before very cold weather and, unless excessively cold weather occurs, the plants will not be injured. They may be transplanted to the field in January or early February. The Big Boston is one of the best varieties for this purpose. The Improved Hanson is also a very desirable variety. Both of these sorts produce large, solid heads of excellent quality.

For winter use the lettuce seed should be planted in cold-frames and covered with light canvas during cold weather in order to keep the plants growing. Lettuce protected in this way will produce edible heads during December and January. In case of excessively cold weather the beds may be covered with heavy canvas or glass.

A SUCCESSFUL S. C. NEGRO.

If all the colored folks were as industrious and frugal as John Gray, of Westminster, the country would be so much better off. John has been living here since the year 1881, coming when most of the town was a forest, and everybody knows him. He makes good crops every year, makes a good income by laying brick and doing other work in winter. John made a fairly good crop of wheat, considering the "off year" and the rust. He was not discouraged because the wheat was short and he went to work and planted the same land in corn and peas. So well did he prepare the land the corn did not "fire" through the drouth and he is confident he will gather one hundred bushels. He has picked 14 bushels of els. He has picked fifteen bushels of pears and he is going to sow 15 bushels of oats right away. He has a fine patch of turnips and rutabagas, sowing the seeds in July. The colored tenant, who fails to win out and have to give mortgages, butcher crops and farms, should do like John Gray—work, and it won't be long until they will have land of their own and be respected. And John Gray is no young man. He is 76.—Tugaloo Tribune.
