INDIAN GIRLS WATCH OVER ANCESTORS GRAVES

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 24—Guarding what they claim is the honored dust of their ancestors, three Indian sisters, Helena, Lydia and Ida Conley, have taken up vigil with shot-guns in a cemetery here. The sisters resent an alleged attempt to bury the body of a man whose parents are said to lie near the graves over which the girls keep watch.

Three grave-diggers, cemetery keepers declare, made futile efforts to prepare the new grave, alleging that permission had been granted by H. B. Pears, head of Haskell Institution, to a sister of the man whose body awaits burial.

The Indian girls have divided the night vigil and bring blankets with them, sleeping on the cemetery sod.

INTERESTING HISTORICAL EVENTS DEPICTED IN FILM CHAPTER PLAY

Do you know what those wonderful qualities were of Abraham Lincoln's that endeared him to millions of people.

Do you know the circumstances under which President Lincoln was assassinated.

Do you know whether or not John Wilkes Booth met the fate deserved by an assassin?

Would you like to have seen the presidential inauguration of Andrew Johnson.

These historical events are only a few of those recorded by the camera for the big Universal chapter play in "In the Days of Buffalo Bill" which comes to the Opera House, Tuesday, October, 31.

The superintendent of schools of San Diego, California, Henry C. Johnson, highly endorsed this serial as the best educational picture ever produced. Educators all over the country have expressed their opinion to the effect that if motion picture concerns would concentrate on serials like "In the Day of Buffalo Bill," the screen would be the greatest educational medium in the world.

Edward Laemmle directed the serial while Robert Dillon wrote the story and continuity from American history.

Art Aford is the star of the chapter drama and is ably supported by Dorothy Wood, George Williams, Joel Dan Joseph Hazleton, Duke Lee Burt Frank, Pat Harmon, Burton C. Law, Otto-Nelson, Jim Corey, Chief Lighthouse, William Moran and others.

The story is told in eighteen chapters.

It is the type picture that will appeal to every member of the family. Mother will enjoy the love theme, father will glory in living over again the stirring days he used to read about in the "yellow-backs" children will find thrill after thrill to entertain them, with a receiving a liberal education in the history of their country during the hectic days that marked the era of Buffalo Bill. Manager J. A. Verchot of the Abbeville Theater is to be congratulated on presenting this picture.

LEFT BABY ON STEPS OF PROMINENT FARMER

Anderson, Oct. 24.—Tucked securely in a drummer's sample case, a two months' old baby girl, possessing a glorious pair of eyes and a shock of raven hair which causes a mother's heart to surge with an ineffable joy and contentment, last night at the village curfew tolled the midnight hour, adorned the front porch of Mr. J. E. Martin, prominent farmer, residing at High Point some six miles below Belton. The hurried swish of a woman's dress, the rhythmic purring of a motor and the provenial stork, which had assumed the form of a woman wearing a number two size shoe, disappeared in the direction of Belton, up the suburban highway, deserted at such an hour of the night.

In addition to the infant, the drummer's case contained many pretty baby clothes and a gallon bottle of milk, obviously a suggestion as to the tastes of the youngster. Mr. and Mrs. Martin were roused by the noise of the automobile and rushed to the front door intine to see the car disappear in the darkness. Mrs. Martin is not in the least perturbed by the unexpected visit of the youngster, neither is she at a loss to an action on the contrary she appears greatly delighted and contends that from now on it will be as her very own, Mr Martin is a prominent farmer of Anderson county and was formerly chief of police of Belton.
