FARMS AND FARMERS.

In the low country there are progressive farmers and farmers not so progressive. The boll weevil has been here a year or so longer than it has been here and the people have learned to fight it. They have learned that cotton cannot be grown unless a consistent fight is made on the weevil.

From the trains one is able to pick out the farms of the progressive farmers. All these farms are clean now, the cotton having been gathered, the cotton stalks cut and the land turned. Nothing is left on which the weevil can feed until frost. The result will be, as the authorities tell us, that the weevil will either starve before frost comes, or he will be forced into his winter quarters early and will be thus forced to stay there much longer, with the chances increased that he will die before spring and thus be removed as a destroyer of early cotton. Not only do the authorities tell us this but practical farmers in the low country are finding it true, else they would not be doing this extra work at this season.

The farmers of Abbeville County not only have the benefit of the advice from the weevil experts, but they have in addition the testimony of these good farmers in the low country that it pays to turn the stalks.

We are having some good weather now and it would seem that if the people of this county expect to make cotton next year they would be doing all that is necessary to get rid of the weevil. They should be turning under the cotton stalks.

Unfortunately there are some who will not believe anything that is told them. They will not destroy cotton stalks, neither will they apply poison when it should be applied. The result is that their fields furnish a means of living for the weevil in the fall season and a means of surviving in the spring. In the summer they allow weevils to multiply their numbers so that when the migration period comes, these weevils go on the lands of other farmers and there seriously damage the crops of those who have done their best.

The numbers of these farmers will gradually decrease. They must be shown. But the more progressive and the more influential farmers in every community may help to decrease the numbers of these less progressive farmers by giving the latter good advice, and otherwise encouraging them to take steps for their own protection and to keep from harming their neighbors. Most men do not like to occupy the position of being or maintaining a nuisance in the neighborhood in which they live, but the farmer who raises boll weevils which destroy the crops of his neighbors must sooner or later realize that he is not doing much for the general good in his neighborhood. The people will not cry when he moves on.

Always Get a Receipt.

An Oklahoma editor tells of an Indian that came into his office to subscribe for the paper. The editor took the money, then the Indian wanted a receipt. The editor tried to talk him out of it, Mr. Indian insisted on getting the receipt. After making it the editor wanted to know why he was so persistent about wanting a receipt. Then Indian said: "Me die some time. Go to big gate, and St. Peter ask if I been good Indian. St. Peter say yes. He say, did you pay debts? I say yes. He say did you pay editor for paper? I say yes. He say where is receipt? I no have it. I have to run all over hell to find you and get receipt."—Ex.

DENIAL BY CHESTER

Ready to Prove Eligibility of Football Players.

Chester, Nov. 7.—A dispatch from Abbeville Saturday, which was given general publicity in the newspapers throughout the state, says that complaint has been made to the football committee of the state high school league, that Chester and Roik Hill have been unofficially reported as having "ringers" on their football teams.

There has been much talk of this in the Catawba association. The game between York and Rock Hill last Friday was called after the first quarter on account of Mr. Montgomery, superintendent of the York school claiming that Nims and Schulte of Rock Hill were ineligible. He refused to start the game with those two men in it when Schulte was put in at the end of the first quarter he demanded that he be taken out. Rock Hill refused to do so and the game ended.

Chester regrets exceedingly that it has been accused of having "ringers" on the team and wishes to assure the public that such is not the case. Chester stands ready and willing to prove beyond any doubt the eligibility of any player or players whose eligibility might be questioned. Chester does not ask that the eligibility of a player be proven by others but will take the initiative and prove the eligibility of each and every player to the satisfaction of all.

The people of Chester, the school officials and the students regret exceedingly that Chester has been accused of unfair methods and stand ready at any moment to submit proof of the eligibility of every player.

It is locally hoped that the officials of the association will thrash the matter thoroughly as Chester is only too anxious to prove its team clean throughout.

Fulfills Wager After Ten Years.

New York, Nov. 7.—Miss Annie Peck, mountain climber and suffrage worker, sailed on the Vandyke today for Brazil to keep a promise made ten years ago. At that time Miss Peck announced that when suffrage became universal in the United States she would plant the suffrage flag on Mount Corcovado, in Brazil. Miss Peck is making the trip today for that purpose.

WOMAN IN POLITICS
MADE HIM VERY SICK

New York, Nov. 7.—"Women in politics make me sick," ruminated Eugene Komanski, dry goods merchant, as he surveyed the line of feminine voters in front of a polling place on Upper Broadway.

The next thing Komanski knew, he was in a West Side court his face bruised and scratched, his clothes torn and collar missing, answering a charge of disorderly conduct, preferred by one of the women

"The worst of it is," said Komanski after he had told his story and been dismissed by the court as sufficiently punished already, "they called me a big Tammany cheese" when I'm a straight republican."

Ants had developed their present highly organized society long before our ape-like ancestors had settled down into communities.

LAURA WERNO LADIES QUARTET.

Miss Laura Werno, widely-known dramatic interpreter and musician, who gained such splendid popularity with Lyceum audiences everywhere as a member of the Killarney Girls company and of the Rich-Werno Entertainers, now heads her own company, The Laura Werno Ladies Quartet. Inspiration for the charming program of this company was found by Miss Werno in a number of interesting phases of American development.

The dress, manners and songs of the Colonial period, of the Civil War times, the early seventies and of the Quakers are reproduced accurately and delightfully in a series of musical and dramatic episodes. As an introduction to each episode, Miss Werno presents an interpretative sketch that sets the stage, as it were, and creates the atmosphere for the group of songs that follows. In this manner some of the choicest melodies from American song literature are featured in settings historically correct and musically artistic, the members of the company appearing in exquisite costumes that accurately mirror the times portrayed.

In another episode, modern American songs, as exemplified in the works of Cadman and other famous contemporary composers, are presented as the culmination of the best in America's musical past.

Here is a masterpiece in program-building presented by a thoroughly picturesque and entertaining musical organization.
