EDGEFIELD C. H.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 23, 1838.

Mr. Editor,

You seem to be so fond of Shin-plasters that I have concluded to send you 3 dollars worth, for your Paper. I will try to get you some more. I wish that all your subscribers would pay you in the same favorite article.

Well! we have no objection to all this, and would rejoice if all who are indebted to us, had the same horror of Shin-plasters as the writer of the above. Do your best; there's no backing out in us; pour in your Plasters; we wish we had millions. There is no justice however in the insinuation that we prefer them to the old fashioned gold and silver, as we are pledged to give a premium for the precious metals, when amounting to as much as a dollar. However, it is in vain to talk or write about "these things of old," and pour out our tears of bitter and unavailing regret, because the glory of the country has departed. We can't help it, and must take things as the times have made them. Shin-plasters are the order of the day; all Bank notes now can lay claim to no more honorable title. The question is, this sort of money, or no money at all; and if the course of events, the exigencies of the times should constitute Cackle shells the circulating medium, as it is in Angola and the adjacent country, we would receive Cackle shells as money. In conclusion, we say to "No Friend to Shin-plasters" that if he will trouble himself to make collections for us, even in Shin-plasters, we will, with great pleasure, allow him a liberal compensation.

Mr. Editor

The attention of even the most cursory reader must be arrested by the gloomy forebodings with which the speeches of our great men abound. Though they unanimously agree, that the position of our State is perilous, they all differ both as to her disease and the remedy. One of her Physicians perceives most alarming symptoms of "Black Vomit," produced, he thinks, by a dose of "Abolition" which was given by one of her sisters, either from ignorance or envy, and recommends "Military Powers" in large doses. Another, who is also high in her confidence, has pronounced her malady to have originated from a derangement of her "Financial Organs," and he prescribes "Sub-treasury Pills." She however still continues to decline in spite of these, among other Political Panaceas, which have been administered. An old family Physician however, we are informed, has lately been called in, and after a long and careful examination, has pronounced the patient to be laboring under a severe "determination of poverty to the head" and a general debility of the system from "loss of population." We understand moreover, that he has prescribed "Rail Roads," in broken doses. But to drop the figure, I believe that South Carolina has more to apprehend from that vast tide of emigration which is continually flowing out and bearing on its bosom the industry, youth, wealth and intelligence of our State, than from a horde of Northern fanatics, who might break over our barriers to desolate our land. She cannot much longer maintain that proud pre-eminence which she has so conspicuously occupied, unless some check can be placed on this spirit of emigration which is already so widely and ruinously diffused among all classes of her people. Let us first enquire, what is it that has severed those bonds of attachment with which we should be bound to the place of our birth. Is it that we who have so long and so loudly boasted of our patriotism are the only people who are dead to its generous impulses? No! Nothing save the imperious commands of stern necessity could ever drive the loyal and loving sons of South Carolina from her bosom.

What inducement do our bare hills and barren valleys offer to the enterprising planter? Counterbalance, however, the advantages which the Western States present from their freshness and fertility of soil, by the facilities of transportation which must result from the construction of Rail Roads and Canals, and ere long, we will see that wealth again flowing back into the bosom of our State, which has been removed by those who, under our present circumstances, have been forced to emigrate. Should the great Charles ton and Cincinnati Rail Road be ever finished and the vast current of Western trade be directed from New York and New Orleans into this new channel, what may we not anticipate? With the whole West tributary to her, South Carolina can then make herself by her wealth and her power, as well as by her talent. What except the immense treasures which her commerce placed at her command enabled Carthage to rival Rome? Money is power. We know not at what moment it may be necessary to secede from the Union, and for that event ought to make preparation. Suppose the time had arrived—is not money absolutely necessary for the support of an army?—Where is our Navy? We have no ships or any description whatever! Make us a commercial people & at any time can our Merchantmen be armed.

There is yet another, and, if possible still more weighty consideration. Talent alone has elevated South Carolina above her sisters, and talent only can enable her to maintain her present truly enviable position. Among the many vast advantages, which must accrue from a system of internal improvements, may be mentioned the creation of (among us) a new profession—that of Civil Engineering. The benefit arising from this can be easily understood when we reflect that at present, those young men who are dependent on their own exertions for a support, are almost forced (if they devote themselves to either science or literature) to leave the State or starve.—Open this field of action, and by affording an honorable and lucrative occupation at home, you at once remove the necessity & ensure their services. Thus will we reap the full advantages of our College, and accomplish what was intended by its institution—the diffusion of intelligence throughout the State by sending and settling annually among the people, educated young men—graduates of the College. Knowing the importance of education, South Carolina has, with characteristic munificence, made the most liberal appropriations for its advancement & so far as the success of the College is to be considered, the brightest anticipations of the most sanguine have been more than realized. And yet looking through the vista of years what a cheerless prospect lies before us.—When we would turn our eyes with pride upon our college, the melancholy reflection obtrudes itself upon our minds—that we are but educating there, young men for other, and perhaps rival states—that its very strength may be our ruin—that we are erecting a tower, and whilst viewing it with exultation and rejoicing in its loftiness, it will crumble and crush us. Tell me then to what purpose South Carolina could more wisely or more advantageously appropriate her funds, than to Internal Improvement. And with these facts before them, will the People object to the State's loaning the Rail Road Company (not her money but her credit? Have none of them a thought—a wish—even a struggling imagination which is capable of wandering beyond the circuit of a day? If some curb is not placed on this wild and unnatural spirit of emigration, what a gloomy and disconsolate hue is cast, in the minds of the reflecting on that future which should be gilded by the bright beams of hope and expectation. Should South Carolina thus continue to banish from her bosom those sons of hers who have not been blessed with the goods of fortune, even we may live to see the day when some neglected, though precious jewel—extracted from her soil and polished by her hands may deck the brow of a rival sister and blaze with a brilliancy so effulgent, as to blind the beholders to all her former glories.

UNIQUE.

Miscellaneous. From the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser. FRIDAY MORNING, Jan. 5. Wm. Lyon Mackenzie arrived in the city last evening and put up at the American Hotel. He came it is said, to provide an asylum for his wife, who has hitherto refused to leave him. While here, or on his way up, he was arrested by the U. S. Marshal, on the charge of raising an armed force in this State, for the invasion of a country with which we are at peace.—Messrs. T. T. Sherwood, R. S. Brown and P. Dorsheimer, promptly offered to become his bail, which was accepted and he was liberated. The amount of the bail bond is $5000. Upon these circumstances being known, a large crowd collected, who vented their enthusiasm by giving repeated shouts for Mackenzie. Some evil minded persons set a rumour afloat that James L. Barton, Esq. had entered the complaint, and procured the arrest. Thereupon Mr. Barton, who was very coolly looking out of the window, was greeted with sundry groans. More cheers being demanded for Mackenzie, an old Dutchman hissed, He was handed over the heads of the crowd for some distance. Dr. Foote and the Commercial were then complimented with a repetition of the honors awarded to Mr Barton, for which we cannot feel sufficiently grateful. Gen. Bart also received the honors. Mr. Fillingham attempted to speak in favor of Mr. Barton, but could not get a hearing. Mr. Mackenzie being called upon, Geo. P. Barker, Esq. made a short speech, assuring the crowd of Mr. M.'s safety, and that he would be permitted to return to Navy Island. The meeting then dissolved.

We have been shown, says the Augusta Chronicle and Sentinel of yesterday morning a printed letter, a copy of which was received by the Post Master of this city, containing a prospect for conveying the regular mail and passengers from New York to Augusta in four days and 13 hours, which if it can be carried into effect will obviate the necessity of an express to a great extent. Two plans are proposed—one by the ordinary stage route, and the other by way of Wilmington and Charleston, each to accomplish the route in the same time. By the first it is proposed to carry the mail and passengers from New York to Philadelphia in eight hours, thence to Baltimore in 5 1/2, Washington 3, Richmond 11 1/2 Raleigh 20, Columbia 45, Augusta 16, in all 109 hours. By the latter, the same route is pursued as far as Petersburg, Va., say thirty hours—thence to Halifax 7, Wilmington 29, Charleston 16, in all eighty two hours, arriving at the latter place at three P. M., and leaving next morning at 9 for Augusta, on the Rail Road, to arrive here at six P. M. making 106 hours, including all stoppages.

Andrew Jackson.—The extraordinary career of this favorite of fortune, it is universally admitted, has made a deep and abiding impression upon the Government and people of the United States; but that the hand of Nature had stamped his image in the solid and diamboweled rock of the land is a circumstance not generally known.—Nevertheless such is the fact. A recent discovery in geology has rendered his memory immortal, even if his extraordinary actions had failed to secure that boon for him, and wedded his corporeal proportions and facial lineaments to stone, as effectually as could the chisel of Greenough, Powers or Clevinger.

This is no joke, much as the relation may wear the outward garb and habit of one.—In rounding and polishing one of the beautiful stone columns, which ornament the front of the Franklin Bank of this city, on High street, a very striking full length likeness of Gen. Jackson was developed, composed of impressions made by the oxide of iron, and plainly imprinted by the hand of nature on the third column north, of the four front columns. It is not necessary to call up the imagination; but one remarkably striking and perfect particular is the general cast of his countenance, and the position of the hair, the latter so peculiar in a likeness of the General, and never mistaken.

This likeness can be recognised from any part of the opposite side of the street, for the extent of a whole square, but it can be seen to most advantage from the pavement of our friend Russell, almost immediately opposite the bank. The beautiful column which presents this singular phenomenon was taken from the stone quarry at Waverly, on the Ohio canal about sixty miles south of this city.—Columbus (O.) Political Reg.

The Southern Literary Journal.—We announce the welcome reception of the January number of this periodical, revived under the auspices of its new editor, B. R. Carroll, Esq. The table of contents promises quite a reprint, and among other articles we notice the commencement of Chancellor Harper's late able address on the subject of slavery. We have not had time yet to peruse the number before us, but shall take an early opportunity to pay our respects to it more formally. Copies are ready for delivery at the store of J. S. Burgess, No. 55, East Bay.—Char. Cour.

A new paper to be called the Washington Chronicle, is to be published at Washington, to be edited by R. K. Cradle.—It is intended to supply the place of the Reformer.

Steam Boat Explosions.—The Steam boat Home, arrived at the landing last evening about nine o'clock, from Louisville.—She had been at the wharf but a very few minutes, when a boiler burst, and scalded seven, one fatally. The sufferers all belonged to the boat; four were blown overboard, but recovered.—Cincinnati Eve. Post.

MARRIED. Instantly, by Eschell Norris, Esq. Mr. Johnson W. Birdwell, to Miss Harriet McGee, daughter of Samuel McGee, of Anderson District.

Dentistry. I WILL be at Edgefield Court House next Monday to remain until after Saite day. WM. B. THORN. Jan. 23, 1838. t 51.

THE LOWDESVILLE ACADEMY, WAS opened on the first Monday of the present month, under the superintendance of Mr. JOHN N. YOUNG, where Pupils will be instructed in the Greek and Roman Languages and all the branches of English literature, usually taught in Academies.

Mr. Young is a graduate of Oxford College, Ohio, though a native of this District. The Trustees of the Institution feel themselves fully authorized to recommend him as being well qualified to discharge the duties in which he has engaged. He has not been long enough from College to become rusty in the Languages and part of that time he has been employed in teaching, and has given full satisfaction as to his qualifications. The Trustees also have the satisfaction to announce to the public, that they have engaged Mr. ABRAHAM CUNNINGHAM to teach the lower branches, and can with propriety recommend him as a first rate English Teacher, having tried him two years previously.

The general supervision of the School will devolve upon the principal Teacher, Mr. Young, who, together with the Trustees, will use every exertion to manage the School with that kind of method and discipline which will afford to the Students both moral and intellectual advantages.

Lowdesville is situated 18 miles west of Abbeville village, and near the Double bridges on Rocky River, on a high, dry and sandy ridge, with good water and is perfectly healthy. There being no stagnant waters, or sluggish streams for some miles distant, it is therefore out of the reach of the noxious effluvia which is so destructive to health in many other places. Two of the Trustees have practised physic for many years in the neighborhood, and can speak knowingly of the superior healthfulness of the place. Lowdesville is moreover situated about five miles distant from several valuable mineral springs, which have recently been purchased by a company who expect to have preparations in readiness for the reception of visitors the ensuing summer; which will afford a valuable retreat for a few weeks, to any whose constitutions may require it. Good boarding can be had in the village and in neighborhood, at quite convenient distances, on reasonable terms.

JOHN G. CALDWELL, A. B. ARNOLD, E. HUNT, BANISTER ALLEN, WM. C. COZBY, J. S. ALLEN, S. J. SHACKELFORD, WM. PASCHAL, JAMES COSPER, MATTHEW YOUNG. Lowdesville, Jan. 13, 1838. d 51
