was not only "earrying the war into Afri-] ea," but fighting them with weapons tempered at their own forge.

As to the "appeals to popular prejudices, collected from the vilest and most profligate Whig prints, in the Union," we have only to say, that if commenting upon the odiousness of the Sub-Treasury-pronouncing it the poor man's bane, and rich man's benefit, the labourer's scourge, and office holder's reward, and demonstrating this position by many plain and familiar examples, if this be appealing to the passions of the populace,"we only wish, that by such heads, from which it emanated. But our Globe in his hand-to have been treating with the Editor of which three years ago, he would have thought equivalent to participating in an Anti-Slavery meeting.— Yes! Amos Kendal, born and bred in an Abolition State-having never owned a slave, and though a vile Abolitionist himself, like to be Martin Van Buren's nominee, this man is brought before the people of South Carolina as an example of purity. honesty and veracity- the fountain whence one party draws all its truths; whilst Gen. Green and others, who have nobly defended the rights of the South for many years, are denounced as the vile and profligate of Something was said about "particular religious denominations," which from the garbled account of the learned Trio, would seem perfect non-ense to one who did not hear the remarks of the speaker. The correct statement is this, it was supposed that young men would adhere to the political faith of their ancestors and friends 'till arrived at years of maturity, but if upon deliberate investigation of the subject, their crops are represented there as being they then differed with them, it was their nearly destorged. The Provision Crops, duty and their privilege to change their for such a season, I believe, are generaly faith; and this was illustrated by reference tolerably good." to the religious sects of the country.

The Speaker is, moreover, accused of attempting to arouse the dormant party feelings of the Union men and Nuthfiers. This we are bound to say, is incorrect; the speaker has many personal friends of the Union party in the district, and could have nerther interest nor design to effect in severing the bonds of friendship between the two parties-But his object was(and he certainly did accomplish it) to shew the inconsistency of the Nullifiers and the complete desertion of the principles for which they contended in 1828-32-36-If they were in error then, why not acknowledge it-why accuse Mr. Van Buren of a change of principles of which he is entirely innocent.

The charge of Federalism and Apolitionism against General Harrison was refuted, not by the testimonies of an "old lady" alone, but by his history, votes, speeches, letters &c. and the fact of Gen. Harrison having sold his slaves was brought as corroborating testimony:-the Abolitionist neither buys nor sells slaves. Mr. Harris, it is true, did challenge discussion from which the Harrison party have never shrunk, knowing that they have every thing to gain, and nothing to loose by discussion. Mr. Wardlaw did appear, but whether he received more applause than the other speakers, is questionable. We admit they were much louder, as if his party were determined to succeed by noise, if they failed by argument. He may have exposed his "party stang," "de-molished the Hero of Tippecanoe," "car-ried his war into Africa," but it was only in the estimation of those, who like "E phraim of old" "were joined to their idols." It is very certain, that his ranting and its "repeated applauses" fell harmless, on all those who did not belong to him.

His assertion that Gen. Harrison would "commit perjury" by premoting the establishment of a United States Bank, on ly convinces us of one fact, that he has neveread Gen. Hasrison's opinien man subject.

This gentleman farther piedged himsel as a lawyer, (which our accomplished critics forgot to insert) to sustain the decision of the President in Lieutenam Hooe's case. This mounting over the ramparts of the Constitution, to allow the testimony of negroes against white men-reminds us of an other attorney of the same village, who pledges himself to sustain the Constitutional opinion of President Van Buren, with regard to abolishing slavery in the district of Columbia!

This little Trio, assert that the Harrison men were so "demolished that they could not look each other in the face." This charge (like many others) is so utterly false and ridiculous, that it needs no refutation-Nearly similar, is the charge of the Van Burenites having five to one, in the meeting. How the gentlemen could have made this computation, is very surprising.

About one thousand persons were present, it was thought. How many were for or against us, we could not pretend to say, with a proper regard to truth-our friendsuppose at least one half-but we shall see hereafter. There remains but one more charge for us to notice viz: The "people having been abused for toasting Gen. Jackson' "on the fourth of July Celebration." This is false, the people were not abused; but the Nullifiers were charged with inconsistency in toasting a man who went out of office with their curses, and has done nothing since, to remove them. Likewise for toasting Mr. Atherton, of New Hampshire, for introducing the same resolutions in subtance, for which Mr. Pickney a few years since was hung in effigy on the very ground. and proscibed by the State. And for soliciting the aid of our retired Politician to carry the district by Storm to Van Buren, when they had promised that no party politics should be introduced, in the Celebration of the national jubilee of American Independence.

We have accidentally seen the remarks of a "spectator" in the "Georgia Constitutionalist." The gross and unmanly flattery on the one part, and the base ungentlemanly detraction on the other, places the anonymous scribler far below our re-

We have only farther to add, that if any thing more is necessary to silence the slanders raised against this Harrison meeting -the speeches of that party can be produced for publication. PLVIN TRUTH. Abbeville Dis. Aug. 21, 1810.

of Spartanburg District took place at the Court House, agreeably to previous arrangement. An address and resolutionwere adopted, approving the couse of Mr. Van Buren, as President, and advocating his re-election. Two Harrison speeches were made, one by Dr. Bivings, who advocated the General on account of his being in favor of a United States Bank, a pro tective Tariff, and a general system of Internal Improvements; and the other by Dr. J. W. Smith, who declared himsel opposed to all three of these, but in favor appeals every man in the country could of Harrison. HEALTH .- It is astonishing how sickly our high and hitherto healthy country has become. Hills in the pine woods are now the abodes of disease. Our town, though there are several cases of sickness in it, is comparatively healthy to what the sur-rounding country is. We learn by our rounding country is. We learn by our exchanges, and by private sources, that the country below us is uncommonly unhealthy. The mortality upon large plautations is great .- Wetumpka Argus.

For three or four weeks past, there have been numerous cases of fever, fever and ague. &c., though usually very mild and readiurrounding country is suffering greatly from the prevailing diseases. Notwithstanding the unusual number of cases, lowever, we have heard of comparatively ittle fatality. Rains have been very frequent for two or three weeks past .- Selna Free Press.

Augusta, August 27, 1840. Cotton.—The business transacted in this stade within the last three weeks has been so finited as searcely to be worth reporting.— The recent inteligence from Europe has had to effect on the market, and prices range from 53 to 9 cents, the latter, we understand, is the streme price that can now be obtained for any cotton now on market. Our stock at the pres ent time is very light, and but little on the market for sale. Groceries .- In the Grocery line there is not much doing. Most of our merchants are at the North, laying in their supplies, and as soon as the fall business opens they will offer good and well assorted stocks for sales. All the South Carolina Banks, 6 a 7 pm. Hamburg, Aug. 29, 1840 Since the report of last Saturday, we notice mother week of active business in our market. The Cotton receipts have been large, and sales extensive. We, however, have but a slight alteration to make in the prices of Cotton, as there is none arriving but that of last year's crop. Prices range from 6 to 94 cents. Average sales 84 cts. A choice lot will bring 94 cents. The late advices from Europe have caused a firm market, and buyers are disposed to deal liberally. On the 3d ult. of Billions fever, at the residence of his brother, Rev. Nathaniel Pratt, in Rosewell, Cobb county, Georgia, Rev. Horace S. Pratt, Professor of English Literature in the University of Alabama.

It is seldom that God moves so mysteriously as in the above hereavement. Our whole so-ciety has felt the shock, and a thrill of sorrow trembles in every breast - Every circumstance of the melancholy affliction, has about it some thing to excite the sympathies of all. A short time after the opening of the College vacation, Professor Pratt left his family to enjoy the benefit of a journey; and to improve the favorable journey's end he was attacked by a fatal illness, bosom of his God.

As a husband and a father he was the idol of his household. As a man he has left but few equals. Noble hearted in all his dealings-firm and warm in his friendships—charitable in all things, and at peace with all men—he has left us; and long must we search ere we shall find one to fill his place in society.

Nor can his loss be easily supplied to the institution of which he was so honored a member. Perfectly master of the various branches that were included in his extensive department-possessing admirable facility to impart know-ledge; energetic yet mild in his mode of disci-pline—he had won the affections and secured the respect of his pupils; he had commended himself to the love and esteem of his fellow Professors; while at the same time, an equal measure of admiration was awarded him by every friend of the seat of learning to which he had been so eminently serviceable.

But his highest honor was his Christian Ministry. That which is his "crown of rejoi-cing," now, was like a crown to him while on earth. Among the orthodox portion of the Presbyterian Church, he was distinguished for his zeal and ability in behalf of sound doctrine. In the councils of that church he was looked up to as a leader, and in the convulsion with which they were recently shaken, he was foremost among those who stood "between the living and the dead." Singularly remote from any thing like fanaticism, he was yet enthusiastic in his holy calling; and many have gone before him, who, as well as many still living, can attest the power with which he spake. During the vacancy of the Presbyterian pulpit in this city, he cheerfully gave his services to the destitute congregation; and notwithstanding his ardnous labors through the week, the Sabbath found him always prompt to break the bread of life But the Shepperd has gone home to the fold. The Soldier of God has finished the 'good fight' The church militant mourns his departure but the church triumphant rejoices in his victory. His memory is in the hearts of the people; and while the aching mourners he has left behind thin are finding no joy, except in the hopes of meeting him hereafter, they will at least know by yielding to medical treatment. immunity from the risk of fire and flood, will procure him a liberal patronage.

He has rebuilt the Ware-House formerly known as Adams & Walker's, and is filling up one wing of it above the highest water-mark of the late freshet, for the purpose of storing there-in the Cotton of Planters and Country Merchants. This site is at least two feet higher than any other ware-house in town; and the division that has been elevated will store from 1800 to 2000 bales.

He will sell Cotton, and attend to such business as is usually transacted by Commission Merchants, at as low a rate as others engaged in the same calling.
In again offering his services to his friends and the public, the subscriber cannot refrain from acknowledging the liberal patronage he once received from them; and hopes by his at-tention to business that it will be renewed, and it will be thankfully received.
