EDGEFIELD C. H.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 14, 1817.

Rain.—Several showers have fallen since our last. On Monday evening, a heavy rain fell at this place and in the neighborhood.

Execution of a Murderer.—The slave who murdered Dr. A. W. Burt, his master, suffered the penalty of the law on Friday last.

Intendant of Columbia.—Dr. Edward Sill, was recently elected Intendant of the Town of Columbia.

A New York paper says, that the Irish of that city have within the year past remitted to Ireland eight hundred and eight thousand dollars.

The Great Southern Mail.—This mail will continue to be transported by the Wilmington Rail Road and Steamboats to Charleston. From thence it will travel by the South Carolina, Georgia, Macon, and Western Rail Roads to Griffin, and from thence by stages, and the Montgomery Rail Road, to Montgomery, Alabama.

Surrender of Vera Cruz.—We published last week, an extra containing an account of the capture of Vera Cruz. This city was attacked by about twelve thousand American troops, of which the South Carolina Regiment formed a part, and after a somewhat obstinate siege, surrendered. It will be seen by the account in today's paper, that the loss on our side was trifling, whilst that of the Mexicans was severe. The victory gained by General Scott is one of the most brilliant achieved in the present war. It has been celebrated with appropriate honors, in many towns and villages in Georgia and South Carolina.

Rail Road Meeting at Columbia.—A large and respectable meeting of the citizens of Columbia was held on the 30th of March last. Resolutions in favor of connecting Columbia with Greenville, by Rail Road, were adopted. Delegates were appointed to attend a Rail Road Convention which will be held at Charlotte, N. C. on the 27th of April.

Greenville and Columbia Rail Road Company.—The Commissioners at Greenville, announce to the stockholders, that the returns from Charleston, Newberry, Laurens, and North Carolina, show that the subscriptions to the stock in the Greenville and Columbia road, amount to something above three hundred and fifty thousand dollars. This is more than is required by the charter to organize a company. The stockholders are notified to meet in person or by proxy, in Columbia, on the 11th of May next, to elect a President and Directors, and for other business.

Sovereignty of Great Britain.—Great Britain according to a statement which we have seen, possesses the sovereignty of fifty colonial governments. The yearly cost of the colonies to the mother country, amounts to three million one hundred and seventy-one thousand one hundred and forty-six pounds, of which upwards of two million is for naval and military purposes.

Irish Mortality and Relief Committee.—We saw it recently stated, that the number of deaths which have already occurred in Ireland, from famine and its attendant miseries, amounts to fifty thousand persons. The Irish Relief Committee of Philadelphia, announce that they have already dispatched a barque for Londonderry, and are loading three briggs, for Cork, Limerick, and Donegal. They say, that with a view to insure the greatest possible amount of relief, they have, after full consideration, determined to invest all resources coming into their hands in breadstuffs, and have selected the Central Committee of the Society of Friends at Dublin, as the medium of distribution. They earnestly request their fellow citizens throughout Pennsylvania, and the adjoining States, to send forward without delay, whatever they may be disposed to give in money and provisions. Breadstuffs will be consigned as heretofore, to Allen Cathcart, Esq., Lombard-street wharf, and to Messrs. Sharpless & Brother, Broad street.

Russia and Circassia.—Russia has waged a most merciless and protracted war against Circassia, in order to subjugate her, but the brave people of that country have defeated every army which has been sent against them. The following is the origin of the war.—The Ottoman Porte, surrendered Circassia to Russia, by treaty, and the Circassians with great unanimity, denied and resisted the right of the Sultan to transfer them to any European power.

Relief to Ireland.—The Treasurer of the Irish Relief Fund, of Charleston, (says the Evening News of the 5th inst.) has acknowledged the receipt, since the 26th ult., of contributions in money from the county and from other States, amounting to $965 66, making the whole amount of cash received to date $16,284 85.—The Committee have shipped by the barque Pandora, (just sailed,) 441 bags Corn, 8 barrels Flour, and 2 boxes Clothing, and have purchased Corn and Flour to the extent of the funds now on hand, and engaged freights for the same.

The Georgia Journal, formerly published at Milledgeville, is transferred to Macon, and united with the Messenger, at the latter place, under the title of the Georgia Journal and Messenger. The Courier, heretofore published at Albany, in that State, has been discontinued, and the subscription list, &c. transferred to the new paper—which will be published by S. T. Chapman, Esq., for the past three years one of the editors of the Savannah Republican, and T. Rose, Esq., the present proprietor of the Messenger.

We learn (says the Anderson Gazette,) that Mr. Ephraim Mayfield, a respectable citizen of this District, committed suicide on the 1st inst., by cutting his throat with a knife. No cause can be assigned for this rash act, except it was a derangement of mind. Mr. Mayfield had, for some years been in very bad health, which recently had caused him to be somewhat despondent as to his capability of supporting his family and meeting his other demands, and owing to his bodily infirmities, his mind was not sufficiently strong to bear up under those melancholy forebodings!

The souls of animals.—The Church of England Journal says, that the question of the souls and future life of animals, has been the subject of long and repeated discussions at various clerical meetings. A belief in the existence of souls in animals is nothing new. Men professing this belief, have been found in all ages. In one of the conversations of Napoleon, recorded by O'Meara, it appears that the great Corsican believed, that brutes had souls. For ourselves, we sometimes think, that the brutes give higher manifestations of possessing souls than many bipeds called men.

From the Charleston Courier.
Messrs. Editors.—I noticed in the Mercury of the 5th inst. a piece addressed to his Excellency Gov. Johnson, in relation to the appropriation made by the Legislature for the equipment of the Palmetto Regiment in the war with Mexico. For the purpose of informing the enquirer and also to show that his Excellency had nothing to do with the expenditure of the money, please publish the following resolution from the proceedings of the Legislature at its last session.
Resolved, That the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars be and the same is hereby appropriated, to be expended under the order of the Field Officers, to equip the Regiment of So. Ca. Volunteers for services in the war with Mexico.

And I have understood that the said amount has been paid already to the order of the Field Officers of said Regiment by the proper officer.
JUSTICE.

The Condition of the Treasury.—From the Treasurer's official statement we learn that the amount of public money in the various banks, mints, individual depositories, and sub-treasuries, subject to draft on the 29th ultimo, was $3,512,959 46. The balances in the banks, we believe, were required, by the sub-treasury law, to be drawn out on the 1st inst., and deposited in the "iron safes," and we presume it has been done. Most of these balances are small, but some of them have stood so long, at the same figure, that they look very much like "special" deposits; though for what special object they are made, we cannot divine.

Extract from a letter received by a gentleman of this Town, dated
VERA CRUZ, March 19, 1847.
"I landed here in the 1st Division of Gen. Scott's army, on the evening of the 10th. It was a glorious sight, to see the men leap out on the shore of an enemy, and they not bring a single gun. Troops were being landed all that night; about 12 the picket guard came in contact with some Mexicans. I was along with the party, and we returned the fire. That was the first time I ever heard bullets whistle, and I declare I do not know how I felt. One fellow was wounded (slightly) right by me, and when I saw him tumble over, think I to myself, my time next: I soon got used to it, and liked the fun. Our regiment landed the next morning, and I immediately fell in with them. We were then marched to within two miles of the city, and encamped. The next morning, at day-light, we were ordered to march to a hill, (which was of the greatest importance,) for we wished to plant our heavy mortars there, as it commanded both the city and castle. Well, of course, it was of the greatest importance to the Mexicans to keep us off. So here we all expected to have a fight. Well, we did come as near it as possible, not to have a regular row. I had the honor of bearing the flag of the 96 Boys. As soon as we gained the top of the hill, the town lay loose on us, with shells and round shot. Here we were, all in the most eminent danger, for the balls came thick and heavy, and it really made us all laugh to see each other dodging cannon balls. Here Lieut. Col. Dickinson was wounded in his shoulder, he was leading the Sumpter company, several of whom were wounded. Col. Butler made a narrow escape, for a ball just did pass the back of his neck, singeing his hair, (so it is said.) I did not see him. The fellows stood it all, bravely, and those of our company, who at home, we thought would rather keep out of a fight, seemed as cool as the bravest. In fact, "John War" makes a man perfectly reckless, he don't care at all. This was Sunday morning, here I left the company, as I received my appointment in Capt. O'Hara's department. All the Boys are well. There is only one sick, Reynolds, he will die, so the doctors say. We have had skirmishes off and on every day, but have lost no men in our regiment, and but few of any. I saw one fellow killed by a six pound ball, and another, Capt. Alburts, U. S. A., had his head shot off. The Mexicans swear vengeance as usual, but as soon as we get our batteries playing on the city, (which I think will be to-morrow,) you will not only hear of tall shooting, but also some tall singing out for quarters.

Extracts from another letter, received in this Town, from an officer of the Palmetto Regiment, dated
VERA CRUZ, March 29, 1847.
"On the first of March left Lebos 75 sail of vessels—arrived at Sacrificos two miles from Vera Cruz, a sail of two hours.
"Gen. Worth's, the first division landed on the 9th, moving off towards the beach in line of battle, 5000 men—landed 11000 men during the day—heard firing up the shore, which proved to be from the picket guard of Worth, one man wounded."

We were ordered to take up the line of march, did so, over some of the tallest sand hills you ever saw. On ascending the first hill, we heard the now familiar sound of the musket from another, and soon had the pleasure to witness the Stars and Stripes floating in the breeze, which we saluted with three good and hearty cheers and moved on. Bivouacked at the foot of the hill near an old and curious ruin. Had several alarms during the night, which proved to be false ones. Early the next day we were ordered to march to the adjoining hill, to relieve those who had occupied it during the night. In climbing this hill, several of our men fainted, so you may form some idea of the labor and fatigue of the undertaking, having to pull up by the roots and shrubs. I accompanied the Colonel with the first company, and as soon as we had reached the top of the hill, we were saluted with a shower of balls and shells, falling all around, but doing no injury; as soon as two or three companies arrived, Col. Butler sent Lieut. Col. Dickinson, with two companies, to route the enemy, who were making their appearance near us in parties. Dickinson and his command routed the enemy, after a slight brush with them, in which Dickinson, and four or five privates were wounded, all slightly.

"The Col. stood on the hill facing the enemy, and being, as you knew, very tall, and in uniform, seemed to attract the enemy's fire, for the balls fell all around like hail. I assure you it was hot work, and very exciting times. About this time three or four men were killed on the hill, and one poor fellow, (Capt. Alburts,) while reading a letter from home. After clearing a pathway through the chapparel, I accompanied a party three miles to get water, some other parties having failed to find it, ours was more successful, in the party was Lt. Bell, of Charleston, and Ed. Mellon, of the 96 Boys. Though we did not get the water, we found where it was to be had; there being several Mexicans about the place, we thought it advisable to return and inform the Col. of the fact, when he despatched Lt. Jones, with ten men, to disperse the Mexicans and get the water. I accompanied this party also, and after firing once the enemy dispersed.
"The bombardment by night is a sublime spectacle. I distinctly seen the cannon balls leave the guns, and following them with my eye see them strike in the city."

"We enter the city to-morrow at 10 o'clock. The supposition is, that we shall soon leave for Jallapa, and thence to the city of Mexico."

From the Correspondence of the Tem. Advocate.
FROM VERA CRUZ
Landing of the Troops—The Palmetto Regiment—Some Fighting—Nine Men of our Regiment wounded—Col. Dickinson—Col. Butler—Major Gladden—The Sumpter Company—Lieut. J. W. Cady and his small detachment—The Mexicans forced to retire—Two Mexicans killed—Coker and Ballard, and Col. Dickinson, wounded, &c.

The plan of thus opening the Mexican ports and collecting duties is called a system of "military contribution," merely because it is established under the laws of war alone; and for the same reason its execution is committed to military and naval officers alone.
It appears that the adoption of this system, long ago recommended in and out of Congress, is at last determined upon, for the reason that whatever hopes were entertained of a peace, through the agency of the three million bill are now abandoned. It would appear that the administration has determined to press the war with the utmost vigor, even during the summer—that there be no halting till our victorious banner is planted in the city of Mexico. In addition to the conquest of every important place on the Mexican coast, or in the interior, the President now resorts to such means as must have the effect to deprive the Mexican Government of all resources for carrying on the war—while at the same time it will render its expenses much less onerous to the Government of the U. S.
It was thought some time ago by Mr. Waddy Thompson and other sagacious and well informed men, that England and France would ultimately interfere in this war, for the protection of their commerce with Mexico—it almost entirely cuts off. But Mr. Polk, by adopting this system, leaves to merchants not just grounds of complaint. The commerce with England is the most important which is possessed by Mexico, and that will be promoted by this policy. Most of the mines are worked on English account, and their business will be rendered vastly more active and powerful, by the abolition of heavy duties, on quicksilver, and the abolition of transit and export duties, &c.
Our cotton and cotton goods will find their way freely into Mexico under the duties, and large returns in specie will be received. To the Mexican people the whole system will be a God send; but it will be destructive to the financial power of the government.
The edict also assures us that whenever the war may end, we are to secure by it for ourselves, and for all the world, the interior passage through the Mexican isthmus from ocean to ocean. This design has long been entertained by the French and English, and our own government. There is now a prospect that the United States government will secure it to the world by whatever treaty may be made with Mexico.
The war, in its final result, may not be injurious to the general interests of mankind, or even of the Mexicans themselves. How long it may last is quite doubtful, but it is believed here that there will not be any more very severe battles; and it is not even supposed that the City and Castle of Vera Cruz will make a very obstinate resistance.
The amount subject to draft in the Treasury on the last day of March, was three millions and a half.
The administration is in truly good luck. The imports of specie continue to be very great, and the Union says it is believed that during President Polk's administration, sixty millions of dollars will be converted at the mint into American coin, being, in four years, more than one-half the amount of the fifty-five years preceding.
The revenue is also increasing, and manufactures are flourishing under the low duty system. As to navigation it was never in a more prosperous condition.
The democrats here are confident that Virginia will not elect more than three whigs to Congress. They count on a democratic majority of at least ten in the next House.

MARRIED.
On the 25th of March, by the Rev. H. A. William, Mr. LAUREN RANKINS, to Miss ANN WHITLOCK.
By the same, on the 1st day of April, Mr. S. V. JONESTON, of Hamburg, to Miss MATILDA PARRETT, all of this District.
