ANTS AND THEIR COWS.

Unparalleled and unique in the animal kingdom as this history may appear, you will scarcely deem the next I have to relate, less singular and less worthy of admiration. That ants should have their milch cattle, is as extraordinary as that they should have slaves. Here, perhaps, you may again feel a fit of incredulity shake you ;-but the evidence for the fact I am now stating being abundant and satisfactory, I flatter myself it will not shake you long.

The loves of the ants and the aphides (for these last are the kind in question) have long been celebrated; and that there is a connection between them, you may, at any time, in the proper season, convince yourself; for you will always find the former very busy in those trees and plants in which the latter abound; and if you examine more closely, you will discover that their object in thus attending upon them, is to obtain the saccharine fluid. which may well be denominated their milk, that they secrete.

This fluid, which is scarcely inferior to honey in sweetness, issues in limpid drops from the abdomen of these insects, by two setiform tubes placed, one on each side. Their sucker being inserted in the tender bark, is without intermission employed in absorbing the sap, which, after it has passed through the system, they keep continunlly discharging by these organs. When no ants attend them, by a certain jerk of the body, which takes place at regular intervals ; they ejaculate it to a distance : but when the ants are at hand, watching the moment when the aphides emit their fluid, they seize and suck it down immediately. This, however, is the least of their talents; for they absolutely possess the art of making them yield it at their pleasure; or, io other words, of milking them. On this occasion, their antenna (feelers) are their fingers; with thes they put the abdomen of the aphis, on each side alternately, moving them very busily; a little drop of fluid immediately appear, which the ant takes into its mouth, one species (Myrmica rubra,) conducting it with its antannæ, which are somewhat swelled at the end. When it has thus milked one, it proceeds to another, and so on, till being satiated, it returns to the

Not only the aphides yield this repast to the ants, but also the cocci, with whom they have recourse to similar manœuvres, and with equal success, only in this case, the movement of the antennæ over their body may be compared to the thrill of the finger over the keys of a piano forte.

But you are not arrived at the most singular part of this history-that ants make a property of these cows, for the possession of which they contend with great earnestness, and use every means to keep them to themselves. Sometimes they seem to claim a right to the aphides that inhabit the branches of a tree, or the stalks of a plant and if stranger ants attempt to share their treasure with them, they endeavor to drive them away, and may be seen running about in a great bustle, and exhibiting every symptom of solicitude and anger. Sometimes, to rescue them from their rivals, they take their aphides in their mouth, they generally keep guard around them; and when the branch is conveniently situated, they have recourse to an expedient still more effectual to keep off interlopers-they enclose it in a tube of earth or other materials, and thus confine them to a kind of paddock near the net, and often communicating with it.

The greatest cow-keeper of all the auts. is one to be met with in most of our pastures, (England,) residing in hemispherial are sometimes of considerable diameter. I mean the yellow ant of Gould. (F. flave.) This species, which is not fond of roaming from home, and likes to have all its conveniences within reach, usually collects in its nests a large herd of a kind of aphis, that derives its autriment from the roots of grass and others, (Aphis radicum;) these it transports from the neighboring roots, probably by subterranean galleries, excavated for the purpose, leading from the nest in all directions; and thus, without going out, it has always on hand a copious supply of food, these creatures share its care and solicitude equally with its own offspring. To the eggs it pays particular attention, moistening them with its tongue, carrying them in its mouth with the utsmost tenderness. and giving them the advantage of the sun.

Our yellow ants are equally careful of their aphides. After they are hatched, when their nest is disturbed, conveying them into the interior, fighting fiercely for them if the inhabitants of neighboring formicaries, as is sometimes the case, attempt to make them their prey, and carrying them about in their mouths to change their pasture or for some other purpose. When you consider that from them they receive almost the whole nutriment, both of themselves and larve, you will not wonder at their anxiety about them, since the wealth and prosperity of the community is in proportion to the number of their cattle. Kirby and Spence's Entomology.

Cane in Rapides .- The Alexandria Democrat says, that in the parish of Rapides there will be about six thousand hogsheads of sugar made this season. The editor is perfectly rejoiced at the extraordinary success which has attended sugar planting in the "new sugar parish," as he terms Rapides. "Passing," he says, "through a winter of great severity, our rattoons are waving with apparent joy in the delicious summer breeze, and our seed cano cannot be surpassed. We will take the crop of John Compton, as a sample of our cane, with the remark that if a field superior to it can be found in the State, the happy owner can take the best beaver hat on sale in the "wide world." Mr. C. will grind three hundred and fifty arpents of caue, and we hazard nothing in saying, that he will "roll out" five hundred hogs heads of excellent sugar. Other planters - Calhonn, the brothers Flint, Carey, Baillio, Wells, Tauner, Mrs. Overton, Archinard, Carlio, and many more-will come up to this mark, or near it, if calculations founded on the present appearances of the crops have any weight."

The Slave Riot at Carlisle, Pa .- The Hagerstown (Md) News, of Saturday, confirms the accounts of the dreadful riots at Carlisle, Pa. on Wednesday last, growing out of an attempt by the colored population to rescue some runaway slaves from this State, belonging to Messrs. Hollingsworth and Kennedy, at Hagerstown, After giving substantially the particulars of the riot, as published by us on Saturday, from an extra of the Carlisle Herald, the News savs :

We learn by persons, arrived here, from Carlisle, that Mr. Kennedy's wounds are more dangerous than was at first supposed. He received a severe stab in the back of the neck from a dirk knife in the hands of a negro; also a blow upon the head from a stone thrown by which he was felled to the earth. The cap of his knee was also knocked off by some means, and other injuries inflicted upon his person. It is supposed that many weeks will clapse before he will be able to return to his home.

Mr. Hollingsworth succeeded in getting his negro away, and he is now in prison in this place. We learn that he had in his possession written directions as to the roads he should take and the houses at which he should halt upon his way. This we are informed, he says. was given to him by a white resident of this place, who is particularly active, in inducing negroes to abscond from their masters. We also learned that the fray was of a very general character; the whites, upon seeing the disregard of the negroes for the decision of the court and their bold attempt to trample down the laws of the State, generally, rallied to the aid of the owners of the slaves. Numbers of the students of Dickinson College, who were from the South, also took an active part. Judge Hepburn was upon the ground with the Sherriff acting under his direction, busy in securing the arrest of the most prominent of the negro rioters. Many of the negroes were severely wounded, and we are told that at every post and corner was some one to be seen, bloody and bleeding leaning for support.

To the junior editor of the "Mail" we are indebted for the perusal of several letters received from the scene of the riot. From these we learn that Professor M' Clintock, of Dickenson College, was particularly conspicuous in urging the negroes to the attack-also, that the boy alluded to in the slip of the "Herald" had died from his wounds. One of these letters states that a meeting of his Southern students of the College had been called in reference to Professor M'Clintock's behaviour upon this occasion-and it is supposed that they will demand his removal from the institution or withdraw themselves. One of the students was slightly wounded, and many other persons, white and black, injured seriously.

We have many others rumors in reference to this affair, which we supposed to be exaggerations. One that a writ had been issued for the arrest of Professor M'-Clintock-another, that the wounds of Mr. Kennedy were supposed to be mortal-a third, that the negres contemplated an attack upon the jail. We put no confidence in them however. Mr. Kennedy's negroes escaped, and will perhaps, not be heard from again-while be, in the endeavor to recover them, has, it is presumed from the nature of his wounds, been maimed for

State Pride .- We were aware that Americans generally are full of State pride, but we certainly did not know that our volunteers caried it with then into Mexico, until the following amusing article from the Saltillo Picket Guard met our eye ;-

"People at a distance have not idea how much State pride there exists among the volunteers in Mexico. Call a Buckeye a Hoosier, a Hoosier a Sucker, or a Sucker a Corneracker, or vice versa, and there's a circus at once-you're in for a fight, straight. An amusing affair, arising out of this feeling, took place at a sutler's store, down street, a few days ago. The Mexican word for calico is indiana, pronounced exactly as in English. At the store in question, there is a volunteer clerk, to whom a Mexican stepped up and inquired. 'Hay indiana?' [i.e. have you any calico?] 'Indiana, h-II!' was the indignant reply, 'I'm from Ohio.' "

The Dead Alive-The Plague of Refunding .- Eight or ten weeks ago we gave an account of the suicide by a female in the water above Hutchesontown Bridge, and of the recovery of the body a few days afterwards. The wife of a dyer who was separated from her husband some few years ago, disappeared about the same time, and the body answered the description of the dyer's wife so well that, as a member, he obtained a Friendly Society's allowance (£4) to bury his wife, which he did with due solemnity. On Monday while sitting comfortable at his dinner, who bounced in upon him but the identical spouse whom he buried, as he supposed, eight weeks ago! Instead of throwing herself into the Clyde, she had repaired to a neighboring town. The unfortunate husband sorely laments that he must now refund the £4 - Glasgow Post.

Energy and Mind .- Energy! Energy is every thing. How mean a thing is a man with little motive power! All the abilities nature has given him lie useless, like a great and beautiful machine, ready at 'every point for useful action, but not a wheel turns for want of a starting power! A great man is just like a great machine. He has a great power to set in motion the varied and immense projects which he has in hand; little motives can neither start him nor stop him; they may set in full play the powers of an ordinary man, and render him a respectable, nay, even a beautiful piece of mechanism, but never a magnificent one.

Yet there is one point which lifts man supremely above the machine. By the working of his own mind he can improve and exalt himself; by directing his eye to what is great and good, he may become so. If then we can become what we wish to be, what high objects should we aim at, and what resolute and energetic efforts should we be ever making to attain them?

An Irishman, in a store, asked for a pair of silk gloves, and was told the kind he wanted would come to one dollar. "Oh by my soul then," replied Pat, 'I'd sooner have my hands bare oot all the days of my life, than give that for 'em.' Sheriff's Sale

Warranted to Cure. HEMORRHOIDS, OR PILES, is a disease produced by local irritation, costiveness, purga ive stimulants, undue determination of blood to the hemorrhoidal vessels by excessive riding or walking, or a congestive state of the liver and peculiarity of the constitution itself. It is usually considered under three forms or varieties, as follows—Blind Piles, White Piles, and Bleeding Piles. This disease is so common, and so very well known, that a description of its symptoms is not deemed necessary.

The success that has followed the use of the Embrocation in the cure of this disease, has been truly astonishing. Physicians now advise their patients to try it, as the only

IT HAS PERFECTLY CURED ME

PHILADELPHIA, December 1837.

To Dr. D. Jayne - Dear Sir - The astonish ing and miraculous beneficial effects your val nable EXPECTORANT had on my neighbor, the Rev. Mr. Rushing, made so favorable im pression on my mind, that after consulting with several friends, and learning that you were a regular Practitioner of Medicine, I called upon you, and purchased half a dozen bottles, and told you that if I lived to take them, you should have a good report from me.

I am alive and well this day! Thanks to merciful God, and your Expectorant; and now I come forward cheerfully to fulfil my promise.

For twenty long years had I been a constant sufferer from the effects of a hard, dry cough, pain in the breast, and difficulty of breathing the last five of which, chills and fevers, every wring and fall, added to my misery. I was sporn away to a mere skeleton; with the great est difficulty only could I get up and down stairs; my appetite was gone, and my strength had so far failed me, that my friends were per suaded I could not survive many weeks, unless I obtained relief. Indeed, sir, my situation was so perfectly miserable to myself, and so dis tressing to my family, that I felt willing to die whenever it should please the Master to take me home. But I heard of your medicine, and relief came. Yes! it proved the "Balm of Gilead" to my poor afflicted body. Before I had taken one BOTTLE, I experienced a mitigation of all my symptoms, and to my grea joy I found in the continued use of it the piest relief. In short sir, IT HAS MADE A PERFECT CURE OF ME—and I can truly say, I have no desire to be better.

Beckwith's Pills. HE Proprietor, many years ago, while searching for a remedy for his own ill health which the prescription of the day had failed to benefit, to hit upon the composition of these Pills, and they proved entirely successful in restoring his health. Their composition was freely communicated to many Physicians, and it was not the design of the Inventor tha they should extend beyond the private practice of himself, and that of his medical friends. Ap plications for them, however, began to mul ply, and he was advised by many of his profes sional brethren, and other gentlemen, of char acter and distinction, to prepare a quantity o them and place them in the hands of an ano thecary. Even this seemed insufficient, and he was urged to send them, by means of agencies, throughout the country. Calomel had long been a common domestic remedy. There was scarcely a family in which a vial of it was not to be found, and in which it was not used with a degree of freedom from which a well inform ed Physician should shrink. A strange infatu ation too seemed to exist among many of the Faculty. Hardly a case was prescribed for whether acute or chronic, in which calome was not given, in some stage of the disease without fear or reflection; and thousands are still suffering from its pernicious effects. Cal omel is, without doubt, a most valuable medicine, and in some cases may be regarded a essential, but it should not be stricken from the list of domestic remedies, and be administered only under the prudent and judicious advice of a thoughtful Physician. Upon trial, by many Physicians and others, these Pills were found to be a substitute for mercurial preparations in a large number of cases, and hence their popu larity, and the large demand for them. The idea of obtaining a Patent for them was never entertained, nor has it been sought to this day. It was believed that by giving them a popular form and circulating them through the country thousands would be benefitted by their use who would, otherwise, never hear of the pres cription and never learn that a preparation had been compounded which rendered the indis criminate and pernicious use of calomel un necessary. These were some of the induce-ments which led the Inventor of the Pills to to consent that they should become an object of
