agrande-bello acquiring title to the territory of another, until there shall be a treaty of peace made, or an abandonment of right on the part of the conquered nation, or unless such circumstances exist as to induce other nations to recognise the right thus claimed. I know no instance in modern times of title to any territory being consummated and perfected by the law of the strongest, although during war it is one of the modes of annoying an enemy to take possession of the territory of that enemy if it can be seized upon by the victor.

War does not consist merely in fighting. War has other modes in which it may be conducted; and one of these is to seize the property of your enemy for the purpose of depriving him of the means which he otherwise would have of sustaining himself in the contest. This, sir, is one mode of carrying on a war; and so I say, as we hold possession of this territory, we are but carrying on the war legitimately. But if the United States advertise Mexico that under no circumstances can these territories, or any part of them, be ceded or given back to her under a treaty of peace, why talk about negotiation? Why speak of making a peace under the form of a treaty? Why resort to such a miserable mockery? Why seek to disguise your course under such miserable pretences? Negotiation for what? You will say, "Mexico, you must negotiate, but if you do, it is with this distinct understanding, that we are to hold all we have, and compel you to give us as much more as we can." Why, if she were as strong as you, she would never submit to that because it would be degradation. And because she is a weak nation is it any reason that a neighbor should presume upon her defenceless condition, and extort terms from her which would be unworthy in her to grant in any negotiation with an equal? What right has the Republic of the United States to graduate the scale of nations in point of dignity and influence of Christian civilization, it would be, sir, as far as possible, to raise the dignity of the only Republic on this continent, and hold it as equal with the proudest despotism or monarchy on earth. This would be right, sir; the laws of nations are made up of precedents like this.

We should set an unworthy example were we to act otherwise in reference to a weak Power that is prostrate at our feet. It would be abhorrent, sir, to my notions of justice. I know there are those who insist that there is no wisdom in magnanimity. Before God, I believe there is more wisdom in the impulses of a warm heart than in the devices of a crafty head, and especially in this crafty head looking forward to gratify certain designs of ambition. I call upon the friends of the President to vindicate the proposition that, before we have acquired a title according to the laws of nations by a treaty of peace, we should assume to be the owners of the land; that we have the right to extend over it our own laws and invite our citizens to settle upon it. It has been said, sir, that a victorious conqueror is rarely deaf to the suggestions of ambition and avarice, and I am afraid we will find in ourselves an exemplification of the remark. No, sir, as a matter of policy, we should not insist on it. We have no right to insist upon it if we intend to have negotiations upon any thing like principles of equality and justice. But as I have thus far disapproved of the mode heretofore pursued, with a view to obtain what all speak of as desirable, and what all are anxious to obtain, an honorable and speedy peace, I may be asked, what course would you suggest? Perhaps, sir, my opinion will have very little influence, but as I have taken the liberty to indulge somewhat in censures upon the measures of others, I ought not to withhold my own opinions as to what would be the proper course to be adopted. But, before I do so, I am compelled cursorily to look back to those measures which preceded the admission of Texas into this Union, and to the situation of Texas before that union was consummated, and to examine upon what title she held the land which she complained to possess; whether by title acquired by her at the time of the revolution, or whether by title acquired by conquest subsequently; for title acquired by a revolution and a title acquired by subsequent conquest are very different things. They are essentially different. Texas, as I understand, when she raised the standard of resistance to what she regarded as encroachments on the part of the Mexican Government, had no right to any part of the territory comprised within the limits of Tamaulipas; and if she acquired any right to this territory lying between the Nueces and the Rio Grande, it is not, sir, and I undertake to say so as a lawyer, by any right incident to her in consequence of her revolution. I will point out to you, as I can the extent of her title under the revolution.

Female Academy.
THE Female Academy in the vicinity of Elton P. O., seven miles north of Edgefield Court House, on the road to Cambridge, will be opened on Tuesday the 4th of January, under the direction of Miss Mary J. J. J. The favorable character of Miss Julian as an excellent instructor has been established in several lectures of the District, by the experience of several years teaching, and justly commended to the patronage of Parents and Guardians.
Terms of Tuition, per session of Five Months:
Spelling, Reading, Writing, and Arithmetic, $6 00
With the above, Grammar, History, Geography, 9 00
With the above, Natural and Moral Philosophy and Composition, &c. 12 00
Music, and use of Piano, 18 00
Boarding can be had in several families at $7 per month.
Payments at the end of each session.

NORMAL SCHOOL.
MY School opens the 17th of this month, at my Farm. Number of Pupils limited. I will classed, an efficient Teacher can properly manage and instruct fifteen. I have a competent Assistant. Cost of the many apparatus, reading room and gymnasium six hundred dollars. Physical exercise proportioned by the Instructor is necessary to maintain a natural proportion between bodily and mental growth and action. Seven hours will be daily employed in exercises purely scholastic. Four hours recreation.
I respectfully solicit occasionally the professional services of clergymen for the Christian denominations. From these gentlemen, lectures to my family and pupils, not sectarian will be acceptable. I was raised under the discipline of the Baptist. Sectarianism is misapplied and religion abused, when merged in the discipline of a school. This proposition I ask permission to establish in giving my plan of teaching to the reading and thinking public which I wish to do through the medium of the press. I taught the Presbyterian Schools at Greenwood last year and tender their Patrons my acknowledgments for kindness and flattering patronage. It is proper for me to say that I have confidence in the high school of the Baptists and Presbyterians at Greenwood, and wish that the public spirited manner in which the Institutions respectively are gotten up will reap a satisfactory patronage.
Boarding (except lights) per month, $7 00
English Class, 30 00
Classical and Mathematical, 40 00

INTERESTING TO MECHANICALS.
The cheapest and best scientific paper in the United States is the new paper entitled the Scientific Mechanic.
Inventor's Advocate, Patent Office Reporter, and Exporter of Art and Trade.
PUBLISHED by Rufus Porter, formerly Editor and Publisher of the New York Mechanic, and the Scientific American, at the New York Buildings, No. 133 Fulton street, New York.
Each number of this paper contains from three to five Engravings, most of them Original and well executed, illustrative of New Inventions, Scientific Principles, Elegant Designs, and Natural Curiosities—also general notices of the progress of Mechanical and other Scientific Improvements—American and Foreign Inventors—catalogues of American Patents—original Scientific Essays, illustrating the science of Mechanics, Chemistry, Electricity, Magnetism and Magneto-Electricity, Curious Philosophical Experiments, and valuable instruction in various Arts & Trades—notes of the most interesting passing events, religious intelligence, poetry, &c. This paper is especially entitled to the patronage of mechanics and manufacturers; and farmers also will derive much advantage from its instruction in various mechanical trades. As a family newspaper it will convey more useful intelligence to children and young people than five times its cost in school instruction; and on the principle of economy, it may be argued, that every copy, if well preserved, will cost more than its original cost at the end of the year. Published weekly for one dollar per annum per single copy; five copies for one dollar per four dollars.

DR. JOEL BRANHAM'S LIVER & BILIOUS MEDICINE.
I offer this valuable Medicine to the people of S. Carolina for the relief and cure of many diseases incident to a Southern climate. I do not claim for it infallibility; neither do I say it will cure all diseases. But CHRONIC LIVER AFFECTIONS AND DYSPEPSIA.
I can confidently advise and recommend its use, from my personal observation and use of the article in my own practice. This article is favorably received wherever it has been used. I am allowed to refer to Mr. George Heard of Troy, Mr. John Warren of Columbia, Mr. Meador of Cobb, Mr. Abary Hall of Athens, Mr. William D. Terrell of Putnam, Rev. John E. Dawson of Lagrange; to which a great number of names might be added, who bear their testimony to its value.
It is particularly useful in cases of habitual costiveness is found very frequently connected with feeble constitutions, and persons of sedentary habits, which often exert a very unfavorable influence upon the general health of the subject; and is particularly manifested by a restless and desponding state of the mind, irregular if not a loss of appetite. For this condition of the system, this article is confidently recommended, if the positive assurance that if the dose is properly adjusted, so as not to move the bowels too actively, relief may be relied on, without any, even the least of the unpleasant consequences, resulting from the use of the common purging medicines usually resorted to. This article will be found to act as a pleasant cordial and tonic, restoring the appetite, and at the same time fulfilling every indication that the common purging medicines are designed to effect.
There are some constitutions liable to regular attacks of Bilious fever almost every fall, to such, I recommend the use of this Medicine, beginning at least by the middle of May, or first of June.
Many persons whose Digestive organs are feeble, often experience a sense of fullness, weight, and oppression, about the stomach after eating—in such cases a dose of this medicine will often afford immediate relief.
Pregnant women often suffer from heart burn and costiveness, they may use the article without the least danger and with great benefit. In sick or nervous headache, it is a most valuable medicine.
I could append a long list of certificates, but forbear, preferring to rely on the virtues of the medicine to sustain itself. The medicine is a gentle and certain cathartic, tonic and sudorific.
