rious immortality beyond the grave.

The children of the deceased have lost the kindest of mothers. The large circle of her acquaintances, the true and constant friend, and the poor of her neighborhood, their most liberal benefactress. But she has bid adieu to toll and pain, and taken up her abode in the realms of eternal bliss.

DEPARTED this life, at Maj. G. A. Addison's plantation, near Cambridge, in this District, on the 5th inst., Mr. Jonx Mins, aged about 50 years, with

T.phoid Fever.
Mr. Miss united himself to the Baptist Church at Fellowship about 20 years ago, and so far as we can learn lived a consistent member up to the time of his death-at least he died within the pale of the Church. Two days before his death we were sitting near his bed and he muttered something in a low voice. He was asked what he wanted. His reply was that " I want nothing in the world, but what I justly deserve." That remark has been the characteristic of his whole life—he wanted nothing but what he justly deserved. He leaves a wife and s ven children, mostly small, to mourn his loss. He was a kind husband and truly an affectionate father.

W. C. Digo on the 11th., of July at Roswell, Cobb County, Georgia, Mrs. Susanau Jennings, wife of Mr. Hasting Jennings, in the 43d year of her age, Mrs. Jennings was raised, and lived in Edgefield until a few years back, when with her husband and of a lady in the private walks of life that will be more sincerely felt than that of Mrs Jennings. Her disease being protracted, builled the skill of her medieal attendants, although some of the most eminent and skilful practitioners were consulted. That vir-tuous energy and decision which had so peculiarly marked her character through life, was wonderfully displayed in its closing scene. She met death with a calm and dignified composure which betrayed neith- DAY in November next. er regret for the past, nor apprehension for the future, so far as she was individually concerned. Her cheif sol citude seemed to be manifested for her husband and children; he being far from the deathbed seene at the time of her disolution.

In the death of Mrs. Jennings, her husband has ev ry consolation that could tend to soften and miti-gate the bitterness of his bereavement; he has every reason to believe, that his loss is her eternal gain, that she has exchanged the toils of life for the peace and tranquility of the eternal world.

Being not permanently settled, she had never moved her membership from the Pleasant Grove M. D. Baptist church, in this District, to another; she having been a member of that church for several years. But, she is gone, and it is our duty to submit without a muriour, to the will of Him, in whose hands M. D. are issues of life and death. S. W. N. Dien, at his residence in this District; on the 7th inst., Mr. J. E. CARTLEDGE, in the 25th year of There is no sadder record than that of the death of a young man in the promise of a long life of hap-piness. To see such an one's manly and vigorous form sink by disease into the grave, reminds us too fore, bly to be forgotten that we are but dust and vanity. This young man of fine intellect, of great generosity, and of the most amable disposition of min I, had secured the attachment of a greater number of friends, than probably any of his age in our whole community. He was an aff etionate husband, a kind master, and a most faithful friend. The tribute of tears and of sympathy for his heart-stricken wife, parents, brothers and relatives, is mingled with a mournful realization by all of his friends, of no common grief and regret that one so young, so kind and interesting, loving and beloved, should so rudely be torn from among them,-yet, not rudely, though we feel it so. It was the hand of God that has lifted him to the skies, a blessed friendly han I beautifies the dead and presents a character far brighter than the living deserved. But with Mr. CARTLEDGE this cannot be done, he was more in purity, piety, and affection than the brief space allotted us can portray, however skilful might be the artist.

He was naturally benevolent and possessed of a meek, qu'et, cheerful and affectionate disposition, but these qualities were all exalted and purified by a strong christ an faith. He had for nearly ten years before his death presessed a belief in the Sav our, and had been beptized in the likeness of his death, and wa ked, in newness of life. He was the el-lest son and ehild of his parents, who are called to mourn for him whilst yet the tars were fresh on the ber of departed relatives, but we would say to them, Why weep? Why keep him from the glorious prospects into which he has entered?

To the wife, parents and brothers, such thoughts of the departed serve to point all who knew him to the path of duty and picty in which he walked, and which has conducted him to that home prepared by Him who eried " father, forgive them for they know not what they do." E. M. M.

THIS Institution is opened for another year under the control of Mr. J. GREGG LEITNER, our last year's Teacher.

The experience of a twelvemonth has fully satisfied us that no more competent young gentleman can be found in the State than the one now at the head of our Academy. The best proof of this is the general satisfaction given by him last year, backed by the additional fact that his School, at the termination of its first week for the second year, numbered 43 Pupils.

The Trustees desire to assure the Public that their School, and a continued and complete supervision will be exercised by them over its progress.
