The Iron Plow.

This is indeed the age of progress. The "iron horse" has long since puffed and snorted himself into notice; but now comes the Iron Plow and language fails to tell all his merits. This is one of the best utensils for the farmer that has ever been invented. The ever-ready plow-that niggers nor mules can break. It may be left in the furrow in August, and hitched to again in February, without having to tighten a ease to both man and horse, and for durabiliin good time. The time lost in repairing a supply himself with this plow, as one step towards economy; and no one will repent having made the investment.

This plow is now being manufactured by Mr. S. F. Goode in this place, and all persons who wish to purchase had better send in their orders as early as possible, as we understand that many have already given in fact every wooden implement on the farm, metice that they wished to be counted in.

The Cotton Planter.

The farmers of Edgefield are particularly invited to call and examine the "Cotton for itself. It opens the seeding furrow, strews the seed evenly, and properly, and then covers it. It is a labor saving machine. One hand and one horse do the work of three hands and two horses-in a much better manner than it can be done in the old way of planting cotton. We cannot recommend a farming utensil of this character too highly. Call and see it for yourselves and then order the machine, or buy the right immediately. The amount of time and labor saved by its use, will more than pay for the

Plow Deep.

Success in farming depends upon many contingencies. A farmer may do his work well, and yet the soil which he cultivates may fail to meet his expectation in yielding a crop corresponding to the amount of labor bestowed. The seasons may be unpropitious: and good work may, (for the want of a correct judgment) be misapplied, and even with good seasons, may prove in the end to be rather injurious than otherwise, to the growing crop. There is no kind of labor expended by the farmer, so well calculated to insure a good crop, as deep plowing in the preparation of land before seeding. A thorough preparation of the soil is a crop half made. Landsthoroughly broken up and pulverized, affords greater facility to the feeders (the roots) of the plant to go in search of food and drink to sustain and nourish it. Deep plowing also has a tendency to give to the soil about the roots of the plant a capacity for attracting moisture from the subsoil as well as absorbing it, togethers with those gasses, genial to the growth deep," and you will have made a good beginning. Those who wish to make a good crop must thoroughly prepare the land, and now is the time to prepare. Plow deep not only the soil, but break up the sub-soil. He who breaks deeply the sub-soil, has cleared a new-ground.

FOR THE ADVERTISER. Planting Out Fruit Trees.

MR. EDITOR :- The following is my experience in this business; which, of course, yon can make use of in whatever way you

Lay off your ground about 15 feet each way, and in each cross dig a large deep hole. Fill up this hole with rich soil from the woods, until it shall just receive the plant to its natural depth; that is, just as deep as it was growing when taken up. Dig side trenches for the horizontal roots. Set in your tree, observing that none of the roots are crowded or pressed out of their natural position. Let one hold the tree perfectly upright, while another carefully packs in the dirt. That's all.

In the winter of 1853-just two years ago-the writer procured four dozen trees, of different varieties, from Mr. Wm. SUMMER, of Pomaria, and planted them out in this way. They all lived and are now living, (except two pear trees, which were planted on a very hard red place, and the weather becoming dry, they wilted and died after leafing out,) and will bear fruit this year.

In digging up fruit trees: much care should be taken to destroy as few roots as possible, and in setting them out, there should be two CORNER OPPOSITE GLOBE HOTEL, AUGUSTA, GA. hands; one to hold the tree steady and perfectly upright, while the other carefully packs in the dirt. If the ground is very dry, a bucket of water should be poured into each hole before putting in the plant.

But, planting out the trees is only the beginning towards having good fruit. They require a great deal of care and attention afterwards-such as protecting them from rabits, borers and various other kinds of enemies. In fact, they should be worked and As this is already acknowleged to be one kept clean, just like every thing else we of the best papers in the State, we think it raise. No kind of stock should be permitted to run among them, except hogs, and these only during fruit time.

to give us "a few more of the same sort." We suggest, however, that we think 15 feet, too close to plant fruit trees. It would be better to plant them 15 steps or about 30 feet apart. We were informed by a very successful Peach-grower, that in planting peach trees, each tree should be inclined to the South, so that its foliage or top would shelter its trunk and roots from the scorching rays of the summer's sun .- Scooter.

Paint Your Implements.

The primary agent in all decomposition of organic matter is oxygen. Without its presence under normal circumstances, no change takes place. But this oxygen, in atwedge. It will never weather, crack or rot mospheric air, is everywhere present, and off at the foot. For thoroughly turning or decay under its destructive influence is albreaking land deeply, this plow can not be ways going on. To exclude the air, then, surpassed. It does its work thoroughly, with from all bodies we wish to preserve is the more practical importance than in the prety alone it is worthy of the highest recom- servation of the wood. Filling the exterior mendation. As plow timber is growing very cells of wood with paint is perhaps the scarce, the iron plow comes to the rescue all cheapest means of retarding its decay. This is well understood and generally acted upon in the construction of all new implements. plow-stock, and wedging it up &c., in the There is however, one point which appears course of two or three years, will pay for to be forgotten, or at least to be generally the iron plow, which will last fifty years at disregarded. Paint by the action of air and least. Evry farmer in Edgefield ought to rain is washed out of the pores, and when this is the case, the work of destruction proceeds, we believe, more rapidly than though the wood had never been painted. English implements are much more costly than American, and this may be the reason why they take better care of them. Though paint is more expensive than with us, they are in the habit of thoroughly washing and cleaning wagons, carts, harrows, cultivators, and every other year, and giving them a good coat of red lead paint. It is astonishing how long their implements last. Many of them look as though they had been handed down from father to son for several generations. Reader you have a paint-can and brushes; at least, it is to be presumed you have, for no intelligent farmer would be without them, and an unintelligent farmer would not be found reading the Rural. If you have not done so already, get your paint and brushes, wash your implements, scrape off all the blisters, stop up every hole with putty, and then give your wagons, drags, cultivators, plows, wheel-barrow, (for of course you have one,) roller, seed-drill, neck-yokes, and whiffle trees a coat of paint. The implements would look as good as new, your hired man will take more care of them, and you will save by this single operation, from the increased durability of your implements, more in the course of a dozen years than would make you a life subscriber to half a score of the best Agricultural papers published.—Rural New Yorker.

HINTS TO FARMERS .- A bare pasture enriches not the soil, nor fattens the animal, nor increases the wealth of the owner. One animal well fed is of more value than two poorly kept. The better animals can be fed, and the more comfortable they are kept, the more profitable they are-all farmers work for profit. Ground once well plowed is better than thrice poorly. Bountiful crops are more profitable than poor ones. Make the soil rich, pulverize it well, and it will be productive. Weeds that grow unmolested around the fences, stumps and stones, scatter their seed over the farm and are very likely to grow. Cows well fed in winter give more milk than in summer. An ox that is in good conof the plant, from the atmosphere. "Plow dition in the spring will perform more labor and stand the heat of summer much better than one that is poor.

When you see the fence down, put up-if it remains until to-morrow the cattle may

What ought to be done to-day, do it; for to-morrow it may rain. A strong horse will work all day without food, but keep him at it and he will not last

A rich soil will produce good crops with out manure, but it will soon tire.

The hydromagen is in the form of sole, and work masse, the boot or shoe. Its medicated character is a powerful antidote to disease.

For Gentlemen it will be found agreeable, warm, and healthy, to wear in the coldest or rainess weather, as the foot cannot become wet if the Hydromagen is inserted. Ladics may wear the lightest soled boots or shoes in the most inclement weather with impunity; while Consumption, so prevalent among the young of our country, may be thwarted by their general adoption. They entirely supersede overshors, as the latter cause the feet to perspire in a very unhealthy manner; and esides, are not dangerous wear to pedestrians in iev were, like India rubbers. While the latter cause the feet to appear extremely large, the Hydromagen, being a mere thin slice of cork prepared, peculiarly plaged inside, does not increase the size of the boot, or cate the foot to appear untidy. To Children they are extremely valuable, as they may engage in exercise with comfort and healthy effects. Their expense is so slight as to scarce need mention; besides, those who patronize them will find their yearly doctor's bill much diminished thereby.

As the Hydromagen is becoming more known, its sale is increasing to an almost incredible extent. Last year in London, Manchester, Birmingham, Liverpool, Glasgow, Leeds, Dublin, Paris, Antwerp, Hamburgh and Berlin our sales reached 1,722,459 pairs of Cork Soles. This year the number will far surpass that.

FRESH ARRIVALS.

DR. A. G. TEAGEE respectfully informs, his friends and citizens of Edgefield generally, that he has just received a LARGE ADDITION to his already extensive Stock of fresh and genuine Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, &c.

His Drugs are carefully examined by himself, and all that are found worthless, rejected; and those hat are approved may be relied on as efficient and of uniform action.

ALL of his Medicinal Compounds, Tinctures,

Pills, Ointments, &c., &c., are put up under his own supervision and in strict accordance with the United States Dispensatory.

From his long and extensive experience in the practice of Medicine, he has made several Comounds of his own, not to be found in the Dispensatory, viz:—A Preparation for the CROUP, which he has used extensively for eighteen years, and recommends with confidence; a VERMIFUGE, safe and efficient; and many other Compounds which he makes extemporaneously to fulfil the in-in each particular case for which it is used.

It would require more space than could be ained in a Newspaper to give a Catalogue of the Drugs, Medicines and Chemicals kept and sold by Drugs, Medicines and Chemicals kept and sold by him—suffice it to say, he can furnish a Physician's Office COMPLETE, with Physick and Furniture. He has added to his former Stock some of the most reliable Vegetable extracts, viz: PODOPHIL LIN, STILLINGINE, LEPTANDRIN, &c.

Planters and families can be supplied with all Medicines necessary in a family—and when desired,
