

MESSRS. COLTER & SCOOTER, Editors.

"Let idle Ambition her baubles pursue,
While Wisdom looks down with disdain,
The home of the farmer has charms ever new,
Where health, peace and competence reign."

TO OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

Hold on gentlemen! From the numerous anxious enquiries that we have had to answer this week, we are unable to attend to your various pressing cases, for want of room, as we are only allowed three columns per week. "Joe Dykes," "FARMER," "J. H." and many others, shall appear in due time. Hold on gentlemen, if you please!

PRAYING FOR RAIN.

WE believe that rain is a legitimate object of prayer, notwithstanding it requires a little philosophy, (book farming,) or knowledge of geology, minerology and chemistry, to see the necessity of it just at this time when some think they have plenty. Though it may be a new idea to some to pray for a drought, we hope all will understand the propriety of so doing after reading the article on another column from the pen of Jas. HIGGINS, Esq., State Agricultural Chemist of Maryland.

ENCOURAGING.

WE have from time to time urgently solicited our brother farmers to write for our " Department," and had well nigh despaired; but our readers will perceive by the present issue, that necessity is driving our friends to a performance of their duty. Though many are crowded out, a good number are here, and "still they come." This is as it should be. We are now confident that our Agricultural Society will not only succeed, but that it will yet work wonders in the history of Edgefield. Be not backwood brother farmers, but let us hear from you often.

GRASSVILLE, July 16, 1855. Messrs. Coulter & Scooter : It is with unfeigned regret that we obtrude ourselves upon your time and attention to help us, if possible, by your judgment and advice, in this our and extremity. Since, through neglect, our notable "Farmers' Club" has failed to have, for two or three years, its annual meetings, we are forced, from dire necessity, to call upon you for advice under the circumstances, as all our energy and skill have been exhausted. We are the more reluctant to trouble you, from the fact that we are compelled in so doing, to expose ourselves, our overseer, and our cotton-fields, or rather our grass patches, to the unmerciful scrutiny and relentless ridicule of those of our brother farmers who have been more fortunate in their engagement with the unconquerable "Gen. Greene." While trying to rescue our corn from the dominion of the grass and weeds, our cotton fields (although they growth and production of plants which are have been plowed three times and hoed as often,) are now in a deplorable condition. Although the stand was good when we commenced working it, there is now not more than a third of it left, and that little is vellow, low, and blooming on the top; while the grass is thick, tall and as green as grass ever gets to be, and it a raining. What shall we do with it ?-that is the question. Please give us some plan whereby to save it, for we believe " in the multitude of counsellors there is safety." By so doing you will much oblige your friend, and perhaps many other subscribers.

Respectfully, &c. H. L.

REMARKS :- Our friend " H. L." or rather his cotton, is in an unenviable fix, but he is not by any means alone. We assure him that in addition to whatever relief he may get from our judgment and advice under the circumstances, he has our warmest (not experimental) sympathy-but as sympathy will not kill grass, we give him the following prescription :- Take a large sharp shovel-plow and run it in the middle of the rows, opening as large a furrow as possible; then run a large twister, sharp and long, with the bar to the Cotton, and turn all the grass over into the middle furrow, covering it as deep as you can. Follow then and take all the grass from the cotton with the hoes; then run a small plow to replace the dirt round the cotton, followed by another twister-furrow on the middles. This we think would kill extraordinary grass. If this treatment fails, either turn out the cotton, or turn in the cows.

ROCKY CREEK, July 12, 1855.

Mr. Editors :- As I see many useful receipts in the agricultural department, from time to time, I will be much obliged to you to give some cure for the chicken complaint, I don't know what to call it, but so you know what I mean, it matters not what it is called. I have lost many of my chickens, and there are many of them now sick, and I am obthem to keep from loosing them. I would be willing to give a dozen of my best chickens if I could only cure that disease.

Yours, affectionately, Dolly.

REMARKS: What shall we say to our unfair correspondent-to one who confesses that she sells us sick chickens to keep from loosing them? As "Dolly" is a woman we will "let her rock," but for the benefit of others we will state that we know an infallible remedy for the Chicken distemper. It is this :- Slit the skin on the back of the head and open it with the knife around the scull, and fill the pocket thus made, with half a tea-spoonfull of fine salt. We can readily ourchased by tobaconists, and manu-

CLOUD'S CREEK, July, 1855.

Messrs. Editors:-As bacon is high-so high that we can't touch it with a ten dollar bill-I am very anxious to try and make my own supply at least. But my hogs at present afford me a slim prospect, as they are much troubled with lice. Please inform me what is the best cure for lice, as I have tried everal remedies and all have failed.

Yours, respectfully. REMARKS :- What! lice on hogs in July ? Really friend "B. B." we don't know any remedy to meet your hogs but a good feed of corn three times a day. We have never known lice to injure or infest a fat, boofing hog. Spirits of turpentine is highly recommended, but as "an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure," we again recommend the corn.

LABORATORY OF STATE CHEMEST.) No. 20 Exchange Building. It may be a consolation to those who have felt the influence of the later long and protracted dry weather to know that droughts are one of the natural causes to restore the constituents of crops and renovate cultivated soils. The diminution of the mineral matter of cultivated soils takes place from two

1st, The quantity of mineral matter carried off in crops and not returned to the soil

2d. The mineral matter carried off by rain water to the sea by means of fresh water streams.

These two causes, always in operation, and counteracted by nothing, would in time render the earth a barren waste, in which no verdure would quicken and no solitary plant take root. A rational system of agriculture would oblivate the first cause of sterility, by always restoring to the soil an equivalent for that which is taken off by the crops; but as this is not done in all cases, Providence has provided a way of its own to counteract the thriftlessness of man, by instituting droughts at proper periods to bring up from the deep parts of the earth food on which plants might feed when rains should again fall. The manner in which droughts exercise their beneficial influences is as follows. During dry weather a continual evaporation of water takes place from the surface of the earth. which is not supplied by any from the clouds. The evaporation from the surface creates a vacum, (so far as the water is concerned) which is at once filled by the water rising up from the subsoil of the land; the water from the sub-soil is replaced from the next below, and in this manner the circulation of water in the earth is the reverse to that which takes place in wet weather. This progress to the surface of the water in the earth manifests itself strikingly in the drying up of springs, and of rivers and streams which are supported by springs. It is not, however. only the water which is brought to the surface ter holds in solution. These substances are right line. The Lancaster gun attempts to salts of lime, and magnesia of potash and soda, and indeed whatever the subsoil or deep strata of the earth may contain. The water on reaching the surface of the soil is evaporated and leaves behind the mineral salts. which I will here enumerate, viz: Lime, as air slaked lime; magnesia, as air-slaked magnesia; phosphate of lime, or bone earth: sulphate of lime, or plaster of Paris; carbonate of potash and soda, with silicate of potash and soda, and also chloride of sodium or common salt. All indispensable to the used for food. Pure rain water as it falls would dissolve but a very small proportion of some of these substances, but when it becomes soaked into the earth it there becomes strongly imbued with carbonic acid from the decomposition of vegetable matter in the soil

I was first led to the consideration of the above subjects by finding, on the re-examination of a soil which I analysed three or four years ago, a larger quantity of a particular mineral substance than I at first found, as none had been applied in the meantime. The thing was difficult of explanation until I remembered the late long and protracted drought. I then also remembered that in Zacatecas and several other provinces in South America, soda was obtained from the bottom of ponds, which were dried in the dry, and again filled up in the rainy season. As the above explanation depended on the principles of natural philosophy, I at once instituted several experiments to prove its and thus acquires the property of readily dissolving minerals on which it before could have very little influence.

Into a glass cylinder was placed a small quantity of chloride of barium, in solution; his was then filled with a dry soil, and for a long time exposed to the direct rays of the sun on the surface. The soil on the surface of the cylinder was now treated with sulphuric acid, and gave a copious precipitate of sulphate of baryta.

The experiment was varied by substituting chloride of lime, sulphate of soda, and carbonate of potash, for the chloride of barium, and on the proper re-agents being applied in every instance, the presence of those substances were detected in large quantities on the surface of the soil in the cylinder. Here then was proof positive and direct, by plain experiments in chemistry and natural philosophy, of the agency, the ultimate, beneficial agency, of droughts.

We see, therefore, in this that even those things which we look upon as evils, by Providence, are blessings in disguise, and that we should not murmur even when dry seasons afflict us, for they too are for our good. The early and the later rain may produce at once abundant crops, but dry weather is also a beneficial dispensation of Providence, in bringing to the surface food for future crops. which otherwise would be for ever useless. Seasonable weather is good for the present, liged to send them off to the Village and sell | but droughts renew the storehouses of plants in the soil, and furnish an abundant supply of nutriment for future crops. FINE PREACHING .- The curse of the age is fine preaching; it is morbid and pestilen tial. The want of the age is plain intelligent preaching-preaching suggestive and illustrative-preaching absorbing all that eloquence can offer, but eloquence adopting itself (without which it ceases to be eloquence) to the wants and tates of the people; availing itself of the lights of history for illustration; or of science for confirmation; or of philology for elucidation, and holding all so aloft that they may reflect their rays 1790. upon the genius of Christianity, and develope its superior lustre, adaptability and power. To attempt to say fine things in the pulpit is a solemn sin; and fine sermons (like all other finery) are very evanescent in their influence. Let the fine sermon system die out as soon as possible, useless as it is to God and man. It devolves upon a few men to show to those not gifted with so much moral courage that there is everything to gain, and nothing to lose, by the adoption of a more honest system of instruction. Intelligence will ever hie away to the man able to teach -Gospel Messenger.

BEAUTY OF JEWESSES.—Chateaubriand gives a fanciful but agreeable reason for the fact that Jewish women are so much handsomer than the males of their nation:

"Jewesses," he says, "have escaped the curse which alighted upon their fathers, husbands and sons. Not a Jewess was to be seen among the crowd of priests and rabble who insulted the Son of God, scourged Him, crowned Him with thorns, and subjected Him to infamy and the agony of the cross. The women of Judea believed in the Savior, and assisted and soothed Him under affliction. A woman of Bethany poured on his head precious ointment, which she kept in a vase of alabaster. The sinner annointed his feet with perfumed oil, and wiped them with her hair. Christ, on his part, extended mercy to the Jewesses. 'He raised from the dead the son of the widow Nain, and Martha's brother Lazarus. He cureth Simon's motherin-law, and the woman who touched the hem of his garment. To the Samaritan woman he was a spring of living water, and a compassionate judge to the woman in adultery The daughters of Jerusalem went over him the holy women accompanied him to Calvary, brought him balm and spices; and weepng, sought him in the sepulchre. "Women why weepest thou?" His first appearance after the resurrection was to Mary Magdelene. He said to her, " Mary." At the sound of his voice, Mary Magdalene's eyes were opened, and she answered "Master." reflection of some beautiful ray must have rested on the brow of the Jewess."

REV. DR. BRECKENRIDGE .- The celebrated Presbyterian clergyman of Kentucky, has published an elaborate manifesto, in which he takes strong grounds in favor of the present political movement against the Roman Catholic Church, by what is called the American party. The distinguished divine rests his position principally upon the opinion that popery and infidelity are the great dangers to which we are subject, and that these are mainly propagated by the foreign element in our population.

TALLAPOSSA Co., Ala., Jan. 2, 1852.

DEAR Sir.—I send you this to certify to you that your Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla has performed one of the most wonderful cures on me that has ever been effected on man. I have been afflicted for forty years with eruptions on my legs and feet; in 1848 they got so bad that I had to go on crutches, and in 1849 I had one leg amputated above the knee. In aboutmine months after my other leg broke out in large eating and running sores from my knee to my foot, and discharged a great deal of offensive matter. My groin also broke out in large blies, which discharged much offensive matter, and at the same time my left hand broke out in large running sores nearly to my elbow. The misery that I have suffered for the last two years I cannot describe to you. I was in such agony that I never rested day or night.

In October last my son brought me one of your bottle wrappers; I read it, and found record of some wonderful cures performed by your "Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla." I sent and got two bottles of it, and commenced taking it. In two weeks, to my great astonishment, my sores all became easy, and I could sleep all night, a thing I had not done for two years. When I had taken six bottles, my sores got well as if by exchantment. I have now used in all eight bottles of your "Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla," and I consider myself well.

I entreat all of the afflicted to try this medicine, for I believe it will cure any known disease in the world: Lay aside all prejudice and just try it, and proclaim its great worth to suffering mankind and entreat them to take if, for it will cure them. My case is well known to a large portion of South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama, and if any should doubt the above cure, 'I invite them to call on me, and I will show them the sears. I can be found in Tallapoosa Co., Ala., one mile from Stoc's Ferry.

Important to the Citizens of Edgefield! DR. DENNIS' GEORGIA SARSAPARILLA! A PURE & UNADULTERATED ARTICLE

FOR DISEASES OF THE LIVER. AND TO PURITY THE BLOOD. THIS SARSAPARILLA is made of the Sarsaparilla which grows in the Southern States and nothing else. It has the natural Sarsaparilla taste. Its effect upon the system in all cases in which Sarsaparilla is indicated is wonderful. It is a grea safeguard against diseases arising from a torpid state of the Liver, or impure state of the Blood.

Generally, it acts upon the Bowels as a mild pur gative or laxative. It not only mildly moves the Bowels, but gives tone to the system by restoring a healthy action in the Liver, and by freeing the blood from its impurities.

For children it is a great preventive of worms and supercedes the necessity of giving them so much worm medicine; at the same time it improves their general health. A better and more useful medicine cannot be introduced into Edgefield District, either for professional or family use, than the Georgia Sarsapar lla
