THE main design of this JOURNAL is for the discussion of all subjects pertaining to Christian faith and practice. Additional to this, we shall present such articles of a literary character, original and selected, as will have a tendency to refine the taste and elevate the sentiment of the reading publie. Politics also, considered as a science, and as affecting the principles of Law and Government, and more especially the mighty movements of the nations, as they work out the designs of God, will claim due and proper attention. But Politics degraded to the squabbles of demagogues and factions, will be utterly eschewed and repudiated.

The Journal will contain FORTY PAGES of reading matter. lie. Politics also, considered as a science, and as reading matter, and such advertisements as our friends may favor us with, not inconsistent with the character of the work,—making at the end of the year a neat volume of 480 pages, suitable for binding in book form.
