> From the Laurensville Herald. DR. FULLER'S PRIZE ACRE OF CORN.

R. M. STOKES Esq. - Dear Sir : Noticing some time since a call made upon me, by the courteous and intelligent correspondent of the Farmer and Planter, "Laurens," in an article re-published in the Herald, to give my mode of managing the acre of creek bottom, submitted to the Laurens Agricultural Society at its last meeting for the premium on Corn, and also being urged to do so by others, I most cheerfully comply, after begging pardon for unavoidable delay. Not, however, without serious misgivings that many will be disappointed to learn that so large a result has been achieved by so simple and, in most respects such ordinary

The land selected for the experiment was one acre in the bed of an old mill pond, care in May and June. fully measured by a competent and disinterested person with a Surveyor's chain The soil was deep, rich, porous, and sufficiently dry and sandy to pulverize well. It and left clean of grass and weeds, or other litter. I had it first broken the 12th of January with a long narrow scooter, as deeply as a single mule could draw it. On the 1st of April, the weeds beginning to appear, it was again plowed with a scooter. On the 13th of April the corn rows were laid off 3 feet 10 inches in width with a shovel plow, the corn dropped 12 inches apart in the drill, and covered in the ordinary way with two scooter furrows. When ready to come up, it was boarded off. Three grains having been dropped where one was expected to stand, and coming up well, I had a most excellent stand for the crop though it was injured to some extent by the bud worm and birds. It was replanted on the 1st of May. The thinning was delayed on account of the bud worm, till it reached the height of about 12 inches; it was then reduced to one stalk in the hill, making the stand 3 feet 10 inches in the row to 12 inches in the drill.

The 10th of May it received its first plowing, siding with a long scooter, and plowing out the balks with very broad, long shovels, for the purpose of better pulverizing

May 17th. Hoed and thinned to a stand. Jane 9th. Pulled off sackers, of which there were a good many, notwithstanding the thickness of the corn.

June 10th. Plowed the second and last time, with short, broad shovels, running quite light by and some 6 or 8 inches from the rows. corn. June 13th. Hoed again, which merely consisted in closing up any gaps left by the plow, and shaving out any green stuff that the plow did not destroy, wounding as little as possible the corn roots.

The corn was then "laid by," baving received, after planting, but two plowings and two hoeings in the cultivation of the crop and two plowings in course of preparation.

The product was carefully measured in the presence of two disinterested and respectable witness, and found to be 86 bushels and 3 pecks. It was damaged by a severe storm with which it was visited on the last of June, by which a great deal of it was blown down, and the yield shorted, in the opinion of several who saw it, to the amount of 15 or 20 bushels. The object of the experiment was to satisfy myself to what extent corn could be successfully crowded, and what would be the probable maximum yield on our very best lands, under the most judicious system of culture and under the most favorable circumstances. I have long thought that we are falling far short of producing the amount of corn or other grain on our lands that we ought to do. The farmers of England thought fifty years ago, that 10 bushels of wheat per acre was a handsome return; now they make 50 bushels per acre, and have not reached the maximum. The farmers of K-ntucky, Ohio, and many of the Northern and North-Western States, make frequently 100 bushels eorn per aere, and occasionally report 200; yet it is matter for proud triumph and boasting, if the farmers of South Carolina reach the very modest yield of 50 bushels per acre. Why is it so? Is it the effect of difference, of elimate, soil, or agricultural skill? Or is it from a combination of all these causes? Our seasons are longer and our soil, though often poor and exhausted, presents endless varieties, stretching as it does from the sands of the sea shore and swamps of the tide-water Districts to the rich valleys and the coves of the mountains. I doubt not the fault is largely our own. Our farms, with judicious management and a more thorough and skillful system of culture can be made greatly to exceed the ordinary product. We are in want of many of the elements of high success. We need greater attainments in, and more thorough application of the science of agriculture. We need to have the number of agres undertaken to be cultivated, curtailed. and better proportioned to our physical capacity, and that of our horses and mules.

pride and a higher spirit of emulation among us as a class. Yours, &c., A. C. FULLER.

We need time to prepare the soil as it should be done for the reception of the seed, and te make and apply manures. We need a chemical analysis of our soils, that we may know to what crops they are best adapted, and in what ingredients they may be most deficient. In short, our wants are very great and pressing, but above all, we need greater

VALUE OF THE APPLE -- SOUTHERN SEEDLINGS. With us (says the editor of the Albany Journal) the value of the Apple as an artiele of food is far underrated. Besides containing sugar, mucilage and other nutritious matter, apples contain vegetable acids, aromatic qualities, &c., which aet nowerfully in the capacity of refrigerants, tonics, and antiseptics; and when freely used at the season of mellow ripeness, they prevent debility, indigestion, and avert, without doubt, many of the ills that flesh is heir to. The operators of Cornwall, England, consider operators of Cornwall, England, consider damp weather, and to leave but one axle of on whom copies of said Declaration with rules to the speed can be served. On motion of Mr. Adams, and for more so than potatoes. In the year and far more so than potatoes. In the year 1810-which was a year of much scarcity apples, without meat, whereas a potato diet required meat or some other substantial nutriment. The French and Germans use apples extensively, as do the inhabitants of all European nations. The laborers depend upon them as an article of food, and frequently make a dinner of sliced apples and bread. There is no fruit cooked in as many different ways in our country as the apple, nor is there any fruit whose value, as an article of nutriment, is as great, and so little appreciated.

REMARKS.-We fully endorse everything said above respecting the value of the Apple, and would remark, in addition, that it is one of the surest fruits grown in the South, saiting itself readily to nearly all localities, from the seaboard to the mountains. The opinion has heretofore prevailed that good Apples could not be raised in the South, and that we must of necessity look to the North for our winter supply. The introduction of the many new Southern Seedlings, however, and the splendid exhibitions of Southern Winter Apples, at the Atlanta and Montgomery Fairs, furnish sufficient proof of the fallacy of this idea, and should induce all Southern Fruit Growers to cultivate mainly those varieties which have originated in their own climate.

All late Northern Apples (with very few exceptions) ripen prematurely in the South, often rotting on the tree, and, therefore, cannot be depended upon, as keepers : while, on the contrary, many of our Southern Seedlings hang on the tree, uninjured, until the last of November, and if packed away carefully in a cool temperature, will keep perfeetly sound until the new crop ripens again,

We have, in previous volumes oft he Cultivator, pictured and described many of our best Seedling Apples, and intend giving in creased attention to Southern Pomology was cultivated the year previous in corn, hereafter. It is the most delightful branch of our Agriculture, and may, if properly managed, be made amply remunerative .--EDS. So. CULT.

From the Soil of the South. GARDEN WORK FOR MAY.

There are many seeds that may yet be planted. Sow late cabbages. Centinue to plant all the varieties of heans. Plant melons, squashes, and cucumbers; and if you would avoid a bill at the tinner's, plant gourds. Sow marrowfat peas; sow peppers, egg plants, tomato, okra. Continue to plant corn for a succession. Look well now to thinning out the vegetables that are growing. Leave not more than three melous, squashes or cucumbers in a hill. Beets, parsnips, carinches of each other. Keep the ground as they appear. Work the garden, morning and evening and use the hoe with judgment. Leached ashes and soap suds may be applied with great advantage to the growing vegetables. If the striped bug is troublesome to the vines, dust guano over the ground just under the leaves of the plant, it will drive them away. Look among the cabbage plants early in the morning for the cut worm; he is readily found by the destrucgreatly improved by mulching between the of the South.

From the Southern Farmer. REMEDY AGAINST THE STRIPED BUG.

MESSRS. EDITORS: As the time is near at hand when water-inclons, cymlings, cantelopes, &c., should be planted, you will confer a favor by publishing the following remedy against the ravages of the bug that so requently destroys them.

As soon as the vines are attacked by them. dust them over as often as necessary with the common black pepper, finely pulverized. This may be done when the dew is on them without injury to the vines, as I am informed by a gentleman who has tried it. May not the pepper be also a good remedy against the ravages of the fly or bug so destructive to young turnips and tobacco plants? intend to try it, and if it is, may I not claim the premium offered by the British Government for the discovery of a sure remedy against the turnip fly?

Very respectfully, &c. J. H. DAVIS. Gartsville, March 18th 56.

HINTS TO FARMENS.

Toads are the best protection of cabbage against lice. Plants, when drooping, are revived by a few grains of camphor.

Pears are generally improved by grafting on the mountain ash. Sulphur is valuable in preserving grapes, &c. from insects.

Lard never spoils in warm weather, if it is cooked enough in frying out. In feeding with corn, sixty pounds ground goes as far as one hundred pounds in the Corn meal should never be ground very fine, it injures the richness of it. Turnips of small size have double the nutritious matter that large ones have.

Ruta Baga is the only root that increase in nutritious qualities as it increases in size. Sweet olive oil is a certain cure for the bite of a rattlesnake, Apply it internally and externally. Rats and other vermin are kept away rom grain by a sprinkling of garlic when packing the sheaves.

Money skillfully expended in drying land by draining or otherwise, will be returned with ample interest. To cure scratches on a horse, wash the legs with warm soapsuds, and then with beef brine. Two applications will cure in the worst case.

Timber, when cut in the spring and exposed to the weather with the bark on, decays much sooner than if cut in the fall. Experiments show apples to be equal to potatoes to improve hogs, and decidedly superior for feeding cattle. Wild onions may be destroyed by cultivating corn, ploughing and leaving the field in its ploughed state all the winter .- Soil of the South. LADIES, a refreshing lotion, possessing Plaintiffs' Attorney, Ordered, that said Defendant appear and plead to said Declarations within a year cleaning and clearing qualities, may be made thus: Take a pint of orange-flower water and a pint of rain water, with a sprig of rosemary; add to this four ounces of castile soap, scraped finely; boil all together, and hottle for use. This is called pearl water; it is easily prepared, and at the same time innocent and efficacious.

A COUNTRY HOME. Oh! give me a home in the country wide. And a seat by the farmer's wood fireside, Where a fire burns bright.

On a frosty night, Where the jest and the song and the laugh are free Oh! the farmer's home is the home for me.

Oh! give me a home in the country wide, When the earth comes out as a blushing bride, With her buds and flowers

In the bright spring hours, Her bridal song ringing, from fresh leaved trees, And melody floats on the perfumed breeze. In summer, a seat in a shady nook,

And close by the side of a cooling brook, Where the violet grows, Or the pale swamp rose,

Fainting and sick, 'neath the sun's scorching bean Dips her fair petals in the cooling stream. Oh! give me a home in the country wide,

In the golden days of a farmer's pride, When his barns are filled, From the fields he's tilled, And he feels that his yearly task is done, Smiling at winter, he beckons him on.

THE MERCHANT'S CLERK AND THE PLOW-BOY .- The young man who leaves the farmfield for the merchant's desk or the lawyer's or doctor's office, thinking to dignity or ennoble his toil, makes a sad mistake. He passes, by that step, from independence to vassalage. He barters a natural for an aruficial pursuit, and he must be the slave of the caprice of customers and the chicane of trade, either to support himself or to acquire a fortune. The more artificial a man's pursuit, the more debasing is it morally and physically. To test it, contrast the merchant's clerk with the plowboy. The farmer may have the most exterior polish, but the latter, under his rough outside, possesses the truer stamina. He is the freer, franker, happier, and nobler man. Would that young men might judge of the dignity of and makes to order, labor by its usefulness and manliness, rather than by the superficial glosses it wears. Therefore, we never see a man's nobility in his kid gloves and toilet adornments, but in that sinewy arm, whose outlines, browned by the sun, betoken a hardy, honest toilet, under whose farmer's or mechanic's vest the TRANSPLANTING VEGETABLES -The gar dener is frequently disappointed in his expectations, not only from the failure of seeds to vegetate, but from chickens, worms, bugs, drought, &c. But as all vegetables are invaribly planted too thick, there may yet be a stand got by judicious transplanting. Tap ro ted plants, like beet, may be removed rots, or salsify, should not stand within eight if taken up with care and planted out immediately. All the cabbage tribe are easily around the Irish potatoes mellow, and clear transplanted; so is corn, okra, peppers, tom of weeds; pinch off the bloom buds as fast atoes, egg plants, lettuce; and even beans, melons, and cocumbers, may be removed, it done with care. Those plants having surface roots, should be taken up so as not to disturb the little fibres from the main root, and put in the ground again before they have been exposed to the sun and air; shade from the sun a few days, but give them all the advantages of the dews at night. If it is necessary to water the vegetables transplanted, water only at night, and if watering is once tion he leaves behind. Snap beans will be commenced, keep it up until it rains .- Soil

A CERTAIN preacher having changed his religion, was much blamed by his friends for having deserted them. To excuse himself, he said he had seven reasons; and, being asked what they were, replied, "A wife and six children."

DEAR SIR:—I send you this to certify to you that your Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla has performed one o the most wonderful cures on me that has ever been effected on man. I have been afflicted for forty years with one of the most wonderful cures on me that has ever been effected on man. I have been affleted for fonty years with eruptions on my legs and feet; in 1548 they got so bad that I had to go on crutches, and in 1549 I had one leg amputated above the knee. In about nine monthsafter my other leg broke out in large eating and running sores from my knee to my foot, and discharged a great weal of offensive matter. My groin also broke out in large biles, which discharged much offensive matter, and at the same time my left hand broke out in large running sores nearly to my elbow. The misery that I have suffered for the ast two years I cannot describe to you. I was in such agony that I never rested day or in ght.

In October last my son brought me one of your bottle wrappers; I read it, and found record of some wonderful cures performed by your "Extract of Yellow Dock and Sursaparilla." I sent and got two bottles of it, and commenced taking it. In two weeks, to my great astonishment, my sores all became easy, and I could sleep all night, a thing I had not done for two years. When I had taken six bottles, my sores got well as if by exchantment. I have now used in all eight bottles of your "Extract of Yellow Dock and Sursaparilla." and I consider myself well.

I entreat all of the afflicted to try this medicine, for I believe it will cure any known disease in the world. Lay aside all prejudice and just try it, and proclaim its great worth to suffering mankind and entreat them to take it, for it will cure them. My case is well known to a large portion of South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama, and if any should doubt the above cure. I invite them to call on me, and I will show them the sears. I can be found in Tallapoosa Co., Ala., one mile from Stoc's Ferry.

THIS preparation is getting into use all over our country.

The numerous letters we receive from our various agents, informing us of cures effected in their immediate neighborhoods, warrant us in saying it is one of the best from the very best Cough Medicines now before the public. It almost invariably resisces and not unfrequently, cures the very roots cross. When all other Cough preparations have failed, this has relieved the patient, as druggists, desiers in medicines, and physicians can testify. Ask the Agent in your nearest town, what has been his experience of the effects of this medicine. If he has been selling it for any length of time he will tell you.

Below we give a few extracts from letters we have receive ed lately regarding the virtues of this medicina.

Dr. S. S. Oslin, of Knoxville, Ga., says:—Ihacebeen using your Livervoor and Tar very extensively in my practice, for three years past, and, it is with pleasure I state my belief in ITS SUPERIORITY OVER ALL OTHER ANTICLES with which I am acquainted, for which it is recommended."

Messrs. Fitzgerald & Benners, writing from Waynesville, N. C., say:—"The Livervoort and Tar is becoming daily more popular in this country, and we there is the state of the more popular in this country, and we there is the state of the and say it is very benjacial in alleviating the complaints for which it is recommended."

Our Agent in Pickens, S. C., Mr. S. R. McFall, assures us "that be used it with great benefit in his own family, and recommends it to his neighbors." He gives an instance of a negro woman, in his vicinity, who had been suffering with disease of the lungs for years, attended with severe cough, who was relieved by the Liverwort and Tar.

Such are the good reports we hear of this medicine from all parts of the South. For a report of the surprising curosit thas proromed in the Western and Northern and Eastern States we would invite the suffering pattent to read the pamplet which occompanies each bottle.
