Sir, the majority rules in this republic, and the of a State, is to be dragged to the bar and pubinterest of a majority is against you. How then can you rationally hope to succeed? It is only by conciliating natural opposition, and by effecting compromises with those who are interested to oppose you. It is by enlisting the feelings of the many on present your claims, and by the moderation with which you portray your sufferings.

Have you adopted a wise and prudent course like this? Have not, on the contrary, your direst execrations been visited on villagers and lawyersequalled only by the wild ravings of your party at the Parishes, ever since this contest began ? Will men yield in your favor, whilst you denounce and attempt to ostracise them ? I aver to you in the presence of our Maker, that you can never accomplish Division until you gain over to its support, both Parishes and lawyers, however destable they may be in your eyes. Begin your work, therefore, in season; lawyers have no horns, nor have the men of the Parishes tails. They reason and feel like men, and they have the impulses and honor of men. Why is it that you have selected only a few lawyers, out of the whole State, for your especial caresses? Are they more houest than the rest, or are they less lawyers ? Perhaps their legal attainments have not yet rendered them odious ; but you will naturally expect them to improve with experience. You had better take care of them whiist they are yet docile, or they will turn their horns against you and gore you, as they grow older and wiser.

My friend, amend your course, and you may yet prosper. The only hope that is left you, is to effect a complete change of your ministry, and of the advisers of the crown. We read somewhere of a monster with seven heads and ten horns. Let it not be said that your party is nothing but a more horrible prodigy, with no head and ten horns.

In concluding this letter, I must again beg you to take no offence at the language I have been compelled to use towards you, in my humble appeal to your better judgment. The truth, as it seldom reaches them, must sound very harshly in the ears of potentates; and though your dominions are a little circumscribed, it only the more behooves you to act a kingly part.

I warn you again, that without a total change of your counsellors, and an entire shifting of your policy, your project is utterly defeated. Be pleased to lay these pieces aside, and if they be not verified by time, in word and letter, then reproach me as being unworthy to make a safe suggestion-call me no son of c prophet. In the meantime, advise your friends to make no speculations, yet awhile, in the purchase of Butler town Lots. RICHARD.

THE "GALLANT" MR. WCODRUFF. That most worthy paper, the New York Day Book, whose zeal in behalf of the South many

Southern Journals might properly imitate, thus characterizes this most " valiant" of Mr. Brooks oppowents: It is not easy to conceive of a more contemptible fellow than this man Woodruff. He is however, just such a miserable, cowardly creature as one might exp. ct the wooden nutmeg button makers and tin pedlers of Connecticut would send to represent them at Washington. His conduct is enough to make one fairly ashamed of his race. Just look at the poltroon ; he gets up in his place and lets off a tirade of highsounding bragadocio and common blackguardism about cowardice, ruffianism and brutality, declaring himself responsible for what he says, and looking around with an air of defiance as if he carried a gun-boat armament on his back, and screaming at the top of his voice, " come out! who dares fight me?" and sits down covered with Black Republican glory. "my dear sir, I meant no offense whatever; I will make any apology you desire ; I never light ; fighting is against my principles. Do, I beseech you, sir, take my apology to Mr. Brooks and tell him I meant no offence." And this is a where corn was planted, utterly stripped of veg-Black Republican champion, a Connecticut hero! #### CENSURE OF HON. L. M. KEITT.

Never before, in the history of American legislation, has so gross an outrage been committed against justice, and the rights of the citizen. has has just been consummated in the centure of Hon. L. M. Keitt by the House Representatives. We search in vain the records of "Privilege," We search in vain the records of "Privilege," as expounded by an omnipotent Parliament, in times of the wildest excitement, for any precedent that approaches it. What are the facts ? The majority report of the House Committee declares :

"Whereas it further appears from such investigation that Henry A. Edmundson, a Represen. He is in favor of an equal representation of the tative from the State of Virginia, and Lawrence people of South Carolina, in both branches of M. Keitt, a Representative from the State of South Carolina, some time previous to the said assault, were informed that it was the purpose Republic educated by the Republic. Col. Pickof the said Preston S. Brooks to commit violence upon the person of the said Charles Sumner for words used by him in debate as a Senator in the Senate, and took no measures to discourage or prevent the same, but, on the contrary, anticipating the commission of such vio-lence, were present on one or more occasions to witness the same as friends of the assailant."

Now it must be borne in mind that this was the verdict of Mr. Summer's sympathizers-sym- stock, gloriously identified with the history of pathizers not only in his political opinions, but in his infamous libels upon South Carolina, and in his more infamous cowardice. And yet, with all their malice and invention, they could conviet Mr. Keitt of nothing more than that he knew of Mr. Brooks' intention, and happened is the very man for the times, in all respects, and to be present on the occasion of Sumner's cas- the true exponent of popular feeling in South tigation. They do not pretend to assert that Carolina.--Patriot & Mountaineer he either advised Mr. Brooks to his course, or was aware when the assault would take place, while Mr. Brooks openly and emphatically declared in the House that nobody knew when or where he would execute his determination. For the simple fact, then. of being present-that while others were interfering against Mr. Brooks, he interposed to prevent interference-Mr. Keitt is arraigned and publicly censured by the House of Representatives. The stigma in the censure of such a body as the present House of Representatives-has been placed upon Mr. Keitt and upon the constituency whose representative he is.

Upon what plen, or specification, is this cen-sure founded? Has Mr. Keitt violated the one thousand seven hundred and sixteen yards Privilege" of the Senate? Has he transgressed aught against that law, under which each House of Congress assumes to be the accuser. the judge and the executioner-a law undefined, arbitrary and absolute, and by whose sanctions the worst acts of tyranay have been perpetrated,-a law abhorrent to every principle of free constitutional government? Has, we say, Mr. Keitt transgressed even this law? It is not so claimed. There is no breach of "Privilege" charged against him. In its fierce and intolerant usurpation, the House of Representatives has scorned to seek justification in even so convenient a claim as this.

Nor does it charge Mr. Keitt with "disorderly conduct"—the only charge which, under the Constitution, it can be cognisant of. He did nothing which could sustain such a charge, and heree the silence of the majority report upon the subject. His sole offence was, that he knew of Mr. Brooks's intention, and did not reveal it to the officers of the law-that he chose to maintain that silence which was equally his little fellow, whose mother had forbade him right, and, under the circumstances, his duty to drawing horses and ships on the mahogany sidemaintain. And has it come to this-has this board with a sharp nail, "Mamma, this aint a boasted free Democratic Government-this "asy- nice house. At Sam Sackett's we can cut the Physicians' Buggy Trunks and Pocket boasted free Democratic Government-this "asy-lum for the oppressed of all nations"-grown to insolent in its aggression, so reckless of right and tongs over the carpet; but here we can't get any fun at all."
