Oh, God, if souls unsoiled as these Need daily mercy from thy throne; If she upon her bended knees, Our holiest and purest one; She with a face so clear and bright, We deem her some stray child of light; If she with those soft eyes in tears, Day after day in her young years, Must kneel and pray for grace from Thee, What far, far deeper need have we! How hardly, it she win not Heaven, Will our wild errors be forgiven!

And humbly prayed to be forgiven.

WORTH THE EXPERIMENT, TELL YOUR WIFE "Yes, the only way is, to tell your wife just how you stand. Show her your balance-sheet. Let her look over the items. You think it will hurt her feelings. No, it will not do any such thing. She has been taught to believe that money was with you, just as little boys think it is with their fathers,-terribly hard to be reached, yet inexhaustible. She has had her suspicious already. She has gussed you were not so prosperous as you talked. But you have so befogged your money affairs, that she poor thing! knows nothing about them. Tell it right to her, that you are living outside of your income. Take her into partnership, and I'll warrant you'll never regret it.

There may be a slight shower at first, but that's natural. Let her see your estimate, when you come home again she will show you that you have put her bills too high. True, she had rather a costly bonnet last winter, but it is "just as good as ever; a few shillings will provide it with new strings and refit it a little—the shape, she says, is almost exactly as they wear them now." And you will be surprised to see how much less expensive she can make your own wardrobe. She will surprise you with a new vest-not exactly familiar, somehow, looking as if in another shape you had seen it before,-yet new as a vest, and searcely costing a dollar where you had allowed five. Old cravats will experience a renovation in her hands, coming out so rejuvenated, that no body but those who are let into the secret would suspect that they are old friends in new shapes. The dressing gown that you were going to buy-out of what forgotten chest she has gathered the material you cannot imaginebut there it is, comfortable and warm, and just the thing that you wanted for the long winter evenings that are coming on as fast as the almanac will let them.

You will find a wonderful change in her tastes and appetite. Whereas, she always laid up, they are suffering very material losses fancied what was a little out of season, or from their cattle dying. A gentleman from just coming into market-how if beef is dear, she thinks boiled mutton is delightful -as tender as chicken. If lambs rise, and fish are plenty, she thinks a 'striped bass, or a fried sole good occasionally.

FANNY FERN ON DRESS .- It is my opinion, after all that is said, that women dress much more with an eye to their own sex, than to the other. What man, unless he be a dry goods merchant, knows whether a woman wears Houiton or cotton lace? What man else knows the value of the dainty handkerchiefs with which ladies so ostentatiously polish their pretty noses? What man else knows, or cares to know, the value of the camel's hair shawl, spread so carefully over their shoulders ! By the rood !not one. But the delighted peacock posses sor rejoices that every feminine eve which rests upon it, computes its value to a fraction. Yes-women dress much more for each other's eyes than men! I never knew a man, whose opinion was worth asking, who did not prefer to see a pretty woman (and I imagine the most demure of 'em do not look long at any other,) unostentatiously and modestly dressed; and I never saw a pretty woman who did not look prettier in the plainest home dress than in her most elaborate adornments. But alas! for plain home dresses-where are they? Where is the pretty de laine, and neat calico, none too good for little climbing feet (now fashion banished?) Echo answers—where?

THE PRE-EMINENCE OF WOMEN.-Even after death, nature respects her inherent modesty, for a drowned woman floats on her face, and a drowned man flouts on his back. The noblest part of a human being is the head; but the man's head is liable to baldness; woman is never bald. The man's face is often made so by a most odious beard, and so covered with sordid hair that it is scarcely to be distinguished from the face of the wild beast! in woman, on the other hand, the face always remains pure and de-

For this reason women were, by the laws of the twelve tables, forbidden to rub their cheeks, lest hair should grow and obscure their blushing modesty. But the most evident proof of the innate purity of the female sex is, that a woman having once washed is clean, and if she wash in second water. will not soil it; but that a man is never clean; though he should wash in ten successive waters, he will cloud and infect them to go goring up and down among peaceful people. all .- Life of Agrippa.

An enthusiastic Spiritualist, at the Broadway meeting last Friday night, was heard to declare, in private conversation, that he had seen and conversed with a man who died upon the coast of Africa fifteen thousand years ago. "I have not the slightest doubt of it," said he; "I saw him just as plainly as I see you; I conversed with him, and he declared to me positively that he died upon the coast of Africa fifteen thou-sand years ago; so I am sure of it."

POETS LOVE PLAIN WOMEN. A poet, who writes in the Golden Era of in life of their want of beauty by the slighted attentions of the opposite sex, vanity and affectation never take root in their hearts; and in the hope of supplying attractions which a capricious nature has denied, they cultivate the graces of the heart instead of the person, and give to the mind those accomplishments which the world so rarely appreciates in a woman, but which are more more highly prized than all personal beauty.

See them in the street, at home, or in the church, and they are always the same; and the smile which ever lives upon the face is not forced there to fascinate, but as the spontaneous sunshine reflected from a kind heart

-a flower which takes root in the soul and blooms upon the lips, inspiring respect instead of passion, emotions of admiration instead of feelings of sensual regard. Plain women make good wives, good mothers, cheerful homes, and happy husbands, and we never see one but we thank Heaven that it has kindly created women of sense as well as beauty, for it is indeed seldom a female is found possessing both. To homely women we therefore lift our "title" in respect: the world will extend the same courtesy to beauty. San Francisco has but few plain women, but all such we intend to make

ONE'S MOTHER .- Around the idea of one's mother the mind clings with fond affection.

It is the first dear thought stamped upon our mfant hearts when soft and capable of receiving most profound impressions, and all the after feelings are more or less light in comparison. Our passions and our wilfull-ness may lead us from the object of our filial love; we may become wild, headstrong and angry at her counsels or opposition; but when death has stilled her monitory voice.

and nothing but calm memory remains to recapitulate her good deeds, affection, like

Loss of Stock in Tennessee .- The Chattanooga Gazette, of Saturday, says :- " The unusually severe and protraced winter has caused a great loss to stock raisers. There has not been feed enough in the country to keep stock in living order, and what little could be obtained at all by those who were out, was at rainous country from starvation. Even in sections of

THE TEN LOST TRIBES .- The Boston Journal notices at length a successful missionary estab lishment among the Affghans, who are believed by many to be a portion of the Ten Tribes of Israel. They claim descent from King Saul, through a grand-son named Affghan. Their legends describe the capture of the ark of the covenant by the Philistines, the annointing of Saul by Samuel, the battle of David and Goliah, and other events of Scripture history, which they

GOOD INTEREST .- The St. Paul Times, of

April 3d, complains of the tightness of money in that city. It says:-All our citizens are thrown upon their resources, and everybody is waiting for a cash reinforcement by next mail.

The three or four men whose coffers still hold out, are actually loaning money on the best security at six per cent a month; and other men are grabbing at the chance to borrow at this runous 72 per cent. a year. As soon as the river opens, money will be easier.

A WARNING TO PHYSICIANS .- Dr. Locock, the

Queen's physician has been peremptorily dis-missed from further attendance on the royal family, where he has been hitherto-admitted on terms of familiar intercourse. His salary, £5, 000 per annum, a royal present on each safe delivery of the Queen, and a large practice among the nobility, is no small loss. The doctor has made every effort towards reconciliation, but the Queen remains inexorable. It seems that it came to the Queen's ears that Dr. Locock was given to too talking, and that though she told Prince Albert that his habit of sleeping between the blankets was "a vulgar, dirty Dutch practice," she did not care to have it told abroad .- Liver analysis of their medicinal virtues or properties. Having been more than twenty years before the public, and having the united testimony of more than THREE MILLIONS of persons who have been restored to the enjoyment of per-fect health by them, it is believed that their reputation as the Best Vegetable Medicine now before the public, admits of no dispute. In almost every eig and village in the United States, there are many who are ready to testify extheir editors in removing dresses and efficient to the the United States, there are many who are ready to testify to their efficacy in removing disease, and giving to the whole system renewed vigor and health.

In cases of SCROFULA, ULCERS, SCURVY or ERUP-TIONS of the skin, the operation of the LIFE MEDICINES is truly astonishing, often removing in a few days, every vestige of these loathsome diseases, by their purifying effects on the blood. FEVER and AGUE, DYSPEPSIA, DROPSY, PILES, and in short most all diseases, soon yield to their curative properties. No family should be without them, as by their timely use much saffering and expense may be sayed. I'T appearing to my satisfaction that George W.
