The darkness of night shrouded the sleeping city. No moon gilded with silvery light fully among his fellows! What heavenly the spires and domes that by day had re-flected the fiery brightness of a torrid sun. No star sent forth its mild and cheering beams to relieve the gloom and desolateness that like a pall had fallen on the earth with the setting sun. The night wind moaned hoarsely among the dark cedars and mourn- of all virtues, there is a holy influence in ful cypresses of Gethsemane-sad, desolate, thy name; it is a purification to nature; it wild was the scenc. There was a vague oppressiveness and gloom in the very stillness that reigned over that spot. But see! A figure clothed in white glides slowly like a spectre and kneels on the cold, damp sod. Why is he here? Long since has sleep sealed the eyes of the thousands that daily throng the streets and marts of Judea's Capitol, and even his most faithful followers a little way off overcome by fatigue and heaviness are wrapped in profoundest slumber. But hark! how clearly and sweetly rise his mournful accents on the still air of night. 'Tis the voice of a son pleading with a father-'tis the voice of the long promised Messiah-the Prince of peace-the Saviour of Israel. For long years had he borne the murmurings, scoffings and persecutions of the day." stubborn Jews. "He came unto his own and his own received him not." Wearily had he travelled on his mission of love, healing the sick, giving sight to the blind, waking the deaf to hang with delight on the melting accents of his own gentle voice, and calling the dead from the icy embrace of the tomb. He felt that now the hour of sacrifice was approaching, and sank in agony beneath his father's frown. He heeds not the chilling blast too intensely bitter is the anguish of his spirit. All the energies of his soul are concentrated and absorbed in the struggle against the gloom and agony that crush him to the earth. And from his brow, clammy with the night dew of heaven, large drops of bloody sweat trickle to the ground. See! the anguish and woe that is depicted upon every lineament of his lovely face as he cries, "Father, if it be possible let this cup pass from me." Legions of shining angels, unseen by mortal eye, gazed with intensest sympathy on the scene, and bright seraphs hovering on noiseless wing with mingled awe and sadness watched the fearful conflict. Nor were the black fiends of hell unconcerned spectators of the struggle that was to test the weakness of humanity and the omnipotence of God. As Nature failed, Deity came to his aid and with a smile of resignation he exclaimed in sweetest accent. " Not my will but Thine be done." Hell's dark legions fled aghest and angels with tenfold rapture turned their golden harps before the Throne of the Eternal. Comforted, resigned, he arose and awoke his drowsy followers to meet the embrace of the traitor and to suffer the death of the cross. The moon threw off her canopy of cloud, the stars one by one appeared in the firmament and nought remained to tell of that scene of dure neglect when we feel we deserve attenagony and sorrow. Calvary received its tion, and ingratitude when we expected bleeding victim. Fire, famine, sword and thanks—to bear with the company of disa-And the fulfilment of prohetic vision sent | -these are the best exercises of patience Israel an outcast among the nations of the and self denial, and the better because not earth. Centuries have rolled away, and Gethsemane still remains in its gloom and in business, with disappointment in our ex-

guish of the "man of sorrows." HEAVEN.

The Bible says but little about the scene that will open before the Christian after death, and that little is in language very general and figurative. But what of that? The believer surely can trust his God. Why should he wish to know fully concerning those things which eye hath not seen, of which the ear hath not heard, and of which the mind of mortal man cannot form perfect apprehension? Inquisitiveness must be restrained. We must be satisfied to know that in heaven perfect and eternal happiness will be experienced. Yes, fancy may paint before us the purest pleasure and the most exalted joys, and they will be more than realized. Hope may expand to her utmost limit and faith soar to her leftiest heights, and there is no danger that the heart will be disappointed. Disappointed in heaven?-No! Sweeter bliss than the most fertile imagination can conceive, purer and more perfect enjoyment than the Christian can anticipate, await him there.

All past evil will be forgotten, and the future be entirely free from sorrow. Every blessing which a holy and intelligent being could desire will be provided. The society of all the good that ever inhabited earth, and the angels wto have never sinned, and, what is infinitely more desirable, the fellowship and love of God the triune, will be enjoyed. Oh! how ravishing the anticipation. To see the great white throne, the fountain gushing from beneath it, the river of life, the tree of life, the glory of the Lord; to wear the crown and hold the palm of victory and strike the golden harp; to hear the anthem of angels and all the redeemed, and see the smiles of Jesus; to join the song of triumph, to have unfolded to our view the great mysteries of redemption, and learn more and more the wonderful nature of God, and the astonishing perfection of his works-to do and experience this and yet be so constituted as to feel no weariness; to behold eternal day and need no night to bring repose; to see eternal sunshine, and require no shadows to make us better appreciate the full splendor; to eat but never to feel satiety; to drink, but never become intoxicated; to glide along on a calm sea that never has a ripple; to sing with millions, and not one note of discord, and all the while the voice becoming attuned to higher and sweeter strains, the ear accustomed to drink in more delicious melodies, the mind expanding to comprehend richer truths, and the heart developing to the expression of purer and fuller love!

Perfection, and going on to perfection! Glory, increasing glory! Praise, higher praise! O! this is heaven. This is what the poor, toiling, careworn, sick, disconsolate, dying believer will experience when he has crossed the rill of death, and reaches the celestial city.

FAITH, HOPE AND CHARITY. The paths of life are numerous-right and wrong-pleasant and easy-intricate and between with thorns. Who journeyson through the maze of circumstances which infallibly present themselves to mortal view, having faith at his right hand, may succeed in gaining the open road and travel therein unto the end. And he whose heart pulsates with STRAW AND FEED CUTTERS hope sinks not easily; his mind, fortified under its influence, succumbs to no ordinary obstacles; he has a friend by his side full of might and courage-a cheerful companion, who encourages, assists, and even when one huge mountain of trouble is overtuned, eagerly attacks another, should it be presented-brave, enduring, constant to the May 18 end of life's journey. Yet antoher friend SWAN & CO'S. LOTTERIES. would fain lighten the heart of man, and cheer him on his way through life-a sweet, consoling, sympathising friend, whose simple name is Christ. Would that man listen to her precepts and exercised them more TICKETS ONLY $10! peace surrounds and accompanies through life the mortal who acknowledges and obeys her dictates! What bickerings, jealousies, hatred, anger and strife, would not the full exercise of this heavenly virtue remove! is a balm the angels use; an inexhaustible fount of peace and love, and good will towards men. In all things, Charity, keep Faith at thy right hand; let Hope be the pole-star of thy mind. But Charity is a priceless jewel; bind her to thy heart with the virgin gold of love; she asks no other sustenance than tears.—Family Friend.

MARY AND HER MOTHER.

"Mother, why do you read the Bible so much?" said little Mary; "haven't you read it all through?" "Yes, my dear, a great many times," said her mother. "Well, then, you must know all there is in it by this time, and yet you read it every "Do you remember, last summer, Mary, when you were away at Miss Brookes

School ? "Yes, mother." "You told me that when you got a letter from home, you used to read it over and over till it was almost worn out." " And so I did, mother." "Well, what made you read that letter so often? you knew all that there was in it." "Because it seemed a pleasure, and made me think about home, and you, and father." "So, my dear, I read over some parts of the Bible that I have read hundreds of times before, for the same reason, that it reminds me of my home, of my heavenly Father, and my Saviour, and of what he wishes me to do; and therefore I love to read it."

"Is heaven my home too, mother?" said little Mary: "shall you take me with you when you go?" "I cannot tell you, my dear; I cannot give you leave to go to heaven, but I know who can." "Ah, you mean Jesus Christ, mother."

"Yes, my dear, you must ask him; and you must read and learn to understand this Book, which is like a letter from Him to us to tell us all about himself and heaven .-When you can, I hope you will love to read the Bible as much as I do."

THE TRIALS OF LIFE .- Life is not entirely made up of great evils of heavy trials; but the perpetual recurrence of petty evils and small trials in the ordinary and appointed exercise of the Christian graces. To bear with the failings of those about us-with their infirmities, their bad judgment, their ill breeding, their perverse tempers-to enpillage bowed that devoted city in the dust. Not one stone of its magnificent temple remained to tell the tale of its departed glory. vided or purposed for the trial of our virtue chosen by ourselves. To bear with vexation loueliness, a perpetual memento of the anment, with folly, intrusion, disturbance-in short, with whatever opposes our will, con-tradicts our humor—this habitual acquiescence appears to be more of the essence of self-denial than any little rigors or inflictions of our own imposing. These constant, inevitable, but inferior evils, properly improved, furnish a good moral discipline, and might,

CARRIAGE MANUFACTORY.

NOTICE OF CO-PARTNERSHIP. THE Undersigned have associated themselves together, under the name of SMITH & JONES, for the purpose of carrying on the Coach Making and Repairing Business In all its various branches. They expect to keep constantly on hand a good assertment CARRIAGES, BUGGIES, ROCKAWAYS, &C.

Of the latest styles.—
All sorts of REPAIRING done in the bes THE great popularity which MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS and PHOENIX BITTERS have attained in consequence of the extraordinary curse effected by their use, renders it unnecessary for the proprietor to enter into a particular analysis of their medicinal virtues or properties. Having been more than twenty years before the public, and having the united testimony of more than THREE MILLIONS of persons who have been restored to the enjoyment of perfect health by them, it is believed that their reputation as the Best Vegetable Medicine now before the public, admits of no dispute. In almost every city and village in the United States, there are many who are-ready to testify to their efficacy in removing discusse, and giving to the whole system renewed vigor and health.

In cases of SCROFULA, ULCERS, SCURYY or ERUPTIONS of the skin, the operation of the LIFE MEDICINES is trily astonishing, often removing in a few days, every vestige of these louthsome diseases, by their purifying effects on the blood. FEVER and AGUE, DYSPEPSIA, DROPSY, PILES, and in short most all diseases, soon yield to their curritive properties. No family should be without them, as by their timely use much suffering and expense may be saved.

Prepared by WILLIAM B. MOFFAT, M. D., New York, and for sale by TUTT & PELLETIER, Sole Agents, Manner, and with the greatest dispetch.

A liberal share of patronage is respectfully solicited.
