

THE COMPLEXION IT IS COMING TO.—Private commercial letters received in New York say that in the best informed political circles of Europe, the belief is general that Maximilian has expressed to his father-in-law, King Leopold, and also to his brother-in-law, the Emperor, the strongest possible desire to abdicate the rocky throne of Mexico.

Meditations on a Bond.

It is a very pretty thing And charmingly engraved; As neatly gotten up a chest As ever breaker shovled.

Before that very weak was out I thought I smelt a rat; For I was told that I could buy For even less than that.

These thousand dollar promises Are printed by the ream; And being secured by mortgages, How very safe they seem.

Ab, well—the dream is over now, And so I sit and sigh, And curse the day when oily tongues Persuaded me to buy;

A Word to our Young Men.

The chivalry, says some snarling scrub writer, must work for a living. The fellow is undoubtedly right, though he might have used a little more courtesy in expressing his opinion.

But I am met by the reply, the negro will not consent to such terms and conditions of contract. I answer, if all employers will really agree upon some plan, and in good faith carry it out, he must consent or starve.

Industry is essential to his moral as well as his material welfare. By frugality alone can he hope to reap and maintain the full and permanent reward of his industry.

By subordination to the laws he will win the respect of his fellow men, and the right to enjoy in peace the fruits of his labor.

The law is a terror to evil-doers, and a praise to him that doth well. He who does not violate the law need not fear the law.

Whosoever, by taking part in the late rebellion against the Government of the United States, has made himself liable to many pains and penalties, and whereas, the circumstances of his case render him a proper object of executive clemency.

A PARASITE.—About three o'clock Tuesday afternoon, some three or four members of the 159th N. Y. regiment were walking down Broad street, when nearly opposite the Augusta Hotel, they were overtaken by ten negroes, of the 22d U. S. Colored troops, who were on a "stump" party.

The following alluring aphorism may be found on a 21 ves. etc. in Connecticut:— "There lies not green like a fruit, The wife of a peasant, whose shirt She died of striking the much coffee, Anno Domini eighteen forty."

To the Editor of the Richmond Times:

The great problem is not so much one of quantity as of the quality of the labor. There is an abundance of the bones, the sweat and sinews of the man, and there is a sufficiency of intelligence to direct and guide it to a profitable and practical result.

The uncertainty and instability of the labor, and the proverbial infidelity of the negro to contracts, underlie, and are, indeed, the foundation of most, if not all the trouble.

A PUBLIC MEETING.

It is proposed that a meeting of the Farmers of Edgefield District be held at Edgefield C. H. on the 15th of this month, to consider the propriety of sending agents to the North and to Europe, to induce the emigration of foreign laborers to the District.

For the Advertiser.

Mr. Ebron: It was my privilege to attend on the 30th ult., an examination and picnic at the Academy near Gilgal Church, under the supervision of Miss BRITTE MILLER, late of Marion.

Her examination of her scholars in Geography, Grammar, History, Botany, Natural Philosophy, Arithmetic and Algebra, exhibited a proficiency which would have done credit to any ordinary scholar.

After these exercises were over, the guests were invited to a sumptuous and elegantly cooked dinner which was most highly appreciated.

After the dinner, a procession advanced to the stage, on which was led a maiden who, after passing under triumphal arches of evergreen held aloft by her companions, was seated upon her throne and gracefully crowned.—We suppose queen of beauty.

The rest of the afternoon was spent by the assembly as best suited their tastes and inclinations. At sunset, supper was announced, and a handsome table again enjoyed.

It is grateful, Mr. Ebron, to us to find some bright spots yet near which to linger—some waters, palm-crowned and beautiful, where the waters gush cool and clear, and the pilgrim can rest his wearied form and bathe his bleeding feet.
