From the New York Times. Military Government in South Carolina. Military government in South Carolina signifies much more than the enforcement of the law and the practical application of the Reconstruction acts.

Only the impoverished, depressed and dejected condition of South Carolina has returned an explanation of the remarkable patience of the people under some of the orders which have been issued.

Now we hear of regulations promulgated by a general order under date of May 30, which carry military interference to a point beyond any reached elsewhere.

Southern Cadets at West Point.—We have frequently called public attention to the fact that the West Point Military Academy and the Naval School at Annapolis had a large number of Southern students.

We copy from the New York Herald, of Saturday, the following additional cable dispatches: PARIS, June 7.—A. M. The Monitor publishes an official account of the firing at the imperial carriage, in which the Czarr and Napoleon were seated.

The Gazette des Tribunaux says that the groom in waiting, who was riding by the moving movement of the carriage in the crowd, and instantly caused his horse to bound a little forward, so as to place him directly between the assassin and the sovereign.

It is said that after the attempt upon the life of the Emperor of Russia, Napoleon turning to the Czarr and saying to him: 'You have been under fire together.' The Czarr replied: 'Our destinies are in the hands of providence.'

How could you be so ungrateful to me, the great God who has bestowed upon me the crown of Hungary? He replied with tears, 'I committed a great crime toward France.'

The coronation took place, at noon, across the Danube, and the concluding rites of the ceremony were performed with the same pomp and splendor.

There was a grand illumination and banquet to-night. At the banquet Peers sat as vanquished. The Hungarian Diet voted a hundred thousand ducats as a present to the King and Queen.

It is stated that Fred. Douglas, accompanied by other colored orators, is about to make a canvass of the South.

In General Orders No. 10, issued two months ago from General SULLIVAN'S headquarters, the following paragraph occurs: 'The practice of carrying deadly weapons, except by officers and soldiers in the service of the United States, is prohibited.'

There was no discussion as to the propriety or wisdom of this portion of the order. It was understood that a time of disorder and confusion might be at hand; and it was held to be right that in this respect every person should place himself in the same position as the Militia.
