Governor Scott and the Ku Klux. A Washington dispatch of Tuesday, to the white men passing along the public road .-

New York Tribune, says :

Governor Scott has called upon the President for United States troops to suppress outrages in the counties of Union and York. in South Carolina, where he reports that men are murdered or driven from their homes nightly, because of their political opinion. Governor Scott informs the President that there are no sufficiently armed and equipped militia to give the needed protection, and that if he did have at his disposal a compe tent militia force, there are no funds in the State Treasury to transport and subsist them. He says that it is not just or reasonable in the Government to expect him, with the limited military resources of the State, to successfully meet in the field the trained soldiers who held the United States at bay for four years, and often achieved signal triumphs over its best armies; and that to expect this of him is to imitate the Egyptian system, with a most grievous improvement, requiring the making of bricks with neither straw nor clay. He states that the Ku Klux, that were formerly thought to be a mere political ghoul, a bloody spectre, conjured up for party purposes, is now a terrible fact, an armed organization, thoroughly equipped. having its field, staff and line officers, and established lines of communication. He says that if Congress will pass an act guaranteeing the State a full reimbursement for money expended in suppressing domestic violence, South Carolina can then obtain the necessary credit to mobilize her militia and sustain with murder or exile, solely because of their fidelity to the principles of free government. As an evidence of the condition of affairs in South Carolina, the facts are stated, that, on last Monday, a company of United States troops, that left Columbia for New York, had the railroad torn up in their front by a body of armed men, and were obliged to march by the road. On Friday last the Republican members of the Legislature. now sitting, paid men to picket the road leading from the Capital, because of well grounded fears of a Ku Klux raid upon their dy. The Court is still in session, Judge MELTON and the lawyers working hard upon the civil docket, pretty much devoted to criminal business. The only case of note, however, was the State against THOMAS LANIER for the killing of Jim Holmes, colored, which occurred some two or three years ago. The jury after a few minutes absence, acquitted Mr. LANIER in toto.

The members drew all the time, even during the holidays, their six dolndges, whose bad habits-if they were bad, and we are inclined to think they were—they know before they elected them; and by impeachments, and free fights, and wranglings, and threatenings, and bogus investigations of former Radical stealings, and burying colored martyrs with civic and nilitary honors, and erecting monuments to dead egroes, and adjourning now and then to attend so races, and various other useless and shame less doings, they managed to indefinitely protract the session and deplete the State treasury. Last year when the opposition party was urging the necessity for reduced taxation and economy, the Radicals admitted it all, and declared their purpose to secure these results to the State. And what is the upshot? They have been infinitely more lavish with the public money than ever before, and their tax bill for the current year is much heavier than the last, although it is well known that the people of the State are wofully impoverished, and that every industry is paralyzed. This is the way these gentry redeem

Emigration of the better classes to other States steadily increases, and those who cannot get away submit with resignation, but show a mental and financial depression which premises little for the future. Nor, as we have said above, will the negroes escape the penalties of such wretched misrule. Every planter driven from the State makes tensifies the poverty of the blacks.

If the leading citizens of South Carolins, like Judge Orr, General McGowan, General Kershaw, General Butler and Judgo Melton, will consult with the Governor, and discuss fully and freely South Carolina, and the members were allowed a per diem of only three dollars. The session just make no doubt that some means can be devised that will bring peace and order, where now reigns nothing but turmoil, outrage and bloodshed.

Bah ! the Union is perhaps happy to speak of turmoil, outrage and bloodshed," and to intimate that the white people of South Carolina are making violent movements in the way of retaliation and revenge. This sort of thing pleases its friends at the North, and the party which it endorses. But the fact is, that many of the people of South Carolina, instead of making movements of retaliation and revenge, (God knows they have had enough to incite them to such !) are making a much more serious movement of gathering up the little the Badical party has left them, and quietly quitting a State so degraded and so acoursed. And many others feel that they have succumbed to Radical oppression as long as human nature can stand it. They are completely backed to the wall now, and must resist or die. The suggestion, however, let it come from whom t may, of a conference of prominent and trustworthy men of the State with Gov. Scott, is not a bad one. And we are glad to read that several prominent citizens of Charleston have already gone to Columbia for this purpose, and that delegations from various parts of the State will be present and participate in the Conference. Gov. Scott undoubtedly seems disposed to turn.over a new leaf. But for any good to come out of this conference, the Governor must be prepared to give the said prominent and trustworthy citizens much more credence and confidence than he has accorded them on previous occasions.

The fact is now very apparent to our mind, (says the Union Times,) that the two races cannot live peaceably together and the country prosper, particularly with the inferior race as the governing power. It is an unnatural position for either, and the white and tax paying race will or his own purposes and then pluck them to the not longer submit to the degradation. OBITUARY.

DIED, at her residence, Roselands, Edgefield, Mrs. MARY PARSONS BROOKS, aged 70 years. A brief notice of this excellent lady may not be without profit. With unusual personal attracwhich were highly improved and cultivated. Her taste directed her to the Beautiful wherever it was to be found, and it is no figure of speech to ay that she was ever in the search of it.

To her eye how full of beauty was this vast creation, and how often, when unseen by others, was it unfolding itself in some of its many and diversified forms! This was well known to all diversified forms! This was well known to all who had much intercourse with her, or who had the pleasure of seeing the works of her brush and pencil; her many beautiful Sketches and Paintings. And to this taste she ministered to the last. One of her Landscapes painted in her old age was on exhibition at the last State Agricultural Fair and attracted general admiration. No lady was more conspicuous in the refined society of Edgefield Village when she resided in it, and none did more to give to it its high char-acter for culture and hospitality. This hospitali-ty, this cordial welcoming of her friends to her house, was a distinguishing feature in her char-acter. It followed her to her country-home where she so freely dispensed it to the last. In this connection it is well to allude to the little Church Edifice which she erected near her dwelling, and which had many of the embellishments which a refined taste could give it. Here from time to good lady opened her doors to all who could be induced to partake of her hospitality. How sweet the memory of these occasions, how beauti-ful the commingling of a pure devotional senti-ment with the kindly offices of friend and neigh-Mrs. B. lived the full term of days, and in its ourse experienced her share of pain and sorrow, of trouble, and disappointment. She had in turn to commit to the tomb a beloved son, who fell on the battle-field of Mexico, her honored husband, her noble son the Hon. Preston Brooks, and recently a beloved and only daughter, Mrs. Duno-VANT. What, a commentary upon life—upon length of years! To what trials was she sub-jected, and with what truth could she repeat the words of the Psalmist that "the best of our days are but labor and sorrow."

With such a load of affliction, had she looked to earth for comfort she would have been miserable; but she enjoyed life to the last. An old author regards certain pictures with two faces as emblematic of Death; the one representing the most horrid and repulsive features, the other the most form and repulsive leatures, the other the most lovely and beautiful scenes. So with Death. It may be painted with a fearful countenance, a lean body, iron hands that ravish us from our goods and our honors, divide our persons, and drag our bodies into a loathsame sepulchro. This is a view which makes as fear and tremble. But we may look upon it as a merciful Deliverer that breaks our chains to pieces, and elevates our souls to the highest glory and happiness. In this case nothing is more levely than Death, and more to be desired. This is the side of the picture on which the eye of this estimable Lady was accusticated about This is the Christiant with the eye of the settimable of the picture of which the eye of this estimable Lady was accusticated about This the Christiant with the eye of the settimate the control of the picture of the control of the picture of tomed to dwell. "just men made perfect."
Oh, the delightful re-unions brought about by Death! Husbands and wives, and parents and children again will meet; our ashes will be min-gled with the ashes of ancestors, and kindred and friends, and we will share with them the repose of the grave. Death is now without his sting, the grave without its victory. So long in the Com-munion of the Church, and steadily sustained by its cheering hopes and promises, she was without fear, and patiently awaited the hour of her de-liverance. Not with her, as with so many, did Death make his noiseless advances and "approach with feet of wool." She was long the subject of curable disease; she could see its progress, and knew that soon she must lav aside this tabernacle of the flesh. But she was comforted by the knowledge that if our earthly house of this tabutant ernacle were dissolved we have a "building of ernacle were dissolved we have a "building of last.

Court. The Augusta Chronicle & Sentinel says: " From the telegraphic dispatches as to the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Farrington vs. Sanford, involving the constitutionality of the cotton tax law, the opinion seems to have extenively obtained that the Court decided in favor of its constitutionality. Such is not the case. The Court was equally divided on the question, and, by operation of law, left the decision of the Court below to stand. In a word, it was a drawn battle. and the door of redress by Congress is left open to the Southern cotton tax-payers, and we hope they will promptly send forward their claims to Herschel V. Johnson & Co. Th.re is every reason to hope for justice at the hands of Congress."
