

An Elopement of an Unusual Character.

Eloping is by no means unusual occurrences now-a-days, but one which occurred in Allegheny a few days since is so different in its character from the usual elopements that it can only be classed among the extraordinary. The knowledge of the facts connected with it is not confined to a community, but will come out of the hearts of many persons.

Some time since we received, it appears, from Philadelphia, a young man, having from Philadelphia, settled in Allegheny city, and finally married a young woman who resided in one of the suburbs. The domestic relations of the couple seemed to be of the most pleasant character, and the husband was kind and generous as he was successful in his business.

Some time since the father of the young man who possessed of considerable property, and a resident of Philadelphia, paid a visit to his son. He remained a short time, and then returned to his home. Before leaving, however, he congratulated his son upon the excellent choice he had made in his matrimonial alliance, and expressed himself well pleased in every way with his daughter-in-law. Of course, the son was considerably elated over the matter and doubtless took the first opportunity to tell his wife of the favorable impression she had made. Matters progressed smoothly and pleasantly, not a ripple occurring to disturb the domestic tranquility. One evening last week the husband returned home and was very agreeably surprised to meet his father, who had arrived from Philadelphia during the afternoon. He extended a cordial welcome, and indulged in the idea that this second visit had been prompted solely by a desire on the part of the father to enjoy the pleasure which his home afforded. The father made no immediate effort to undeceive the son as to the real object of his visit, but the object was not long to remain unperceived.

On Monday night, when the son came home, the wife in the most calm and deliberate manner, stated that she had a few words to say to him. She commenced by assuring him that she had always found him to be a kind and true husband, and that she had not one complaint to make against him. She had discovered, however, that she did not love him as well as she might, and that she had concluded to leave him. The surprise of the husband, when this announcement was made, was overwhelming; and when he had recovered sufficiently to be able to ask what had brought about this sudden change of feeling and where she intended going, the wife, in the same calm, imperturbable manner as before, informed him that she had discovered that she loved the father, and that she intended to go with him! The son laughed at first, but when the father, who was present at the time, corroborated the statement, he was thunder-struck. The father and wife did leave that night despite the watchfulness of the husband. Before leaving, the couple visited the house of a sister of the wife, and took a friendly leave. The husband traced them to that place and thence to the depot, but could not ascertain whether they went east or west. He was so surprised at the suddenness of the affair, and the coolness and deliberation which characterized the plan, that he seems to have been unable to take any effective measures to prevent its success.

Since the departure word has been sent east and west. It has also been ascertained that the father converted all his available property in Philadelphia into cash, before leaving, and it is supposed that he has with him upwards of ten thousand dollars in money. His wife and family in Philadelphia knew nothing of his operations until receiving word from the deserted husband, and then investigations made revealed the fact that he had disposed of the bulk of his property. He has still left a sufficient amount to keep the family from want. It would seem that the elopement was planned during the first visit, as circumstances have come to light which indicate that if the husband had made any determined effort to frustrate the designs, he would have been quieted effectually.

The extraordinary character of the affair, the strange infatuation of the old man, and the still more readiness of the wife to become a party to the double wrong, makes the case of unusual interest.—Newark Courier.

SOUTH CAROLINA STOCKS.—The New York Commercial and Financial Chronicle of Saturday says:

1901 South Carolina has sold down to $91,000 on the reports of threatened resistance to the collection of taxes in the State in consequence of the oppressive rates to which they have been raised. One of the rumors of the market, however, states that some of these proceedings in the State have been designedly organized for effect on the price of bonds, and the Treasurer of Richmond County, now in this city states that the taxes are coming in well, and are already three-quarters or seven-eighths paid.

AN EDGEFIELD MAN ROBBED.—Yesterday Mr. Simeon M. Dean, who lives near Graniteville in Edgefield County, South Carolina, reported to the police that he had been robbed of twenty-five dollars on the evening previous. It seems that he arrived here from Edgefield on that evening, and fell in with a negro man supposed to have been Tom Worrel, who volunteered to show him around. During the evening Mr. Dean got under the influence of liquor and was robbed of the money while in that condition. The police arrested Worrel, but the man who had been robbed could not identify him as the negro with whom he had been, and here the case was obliged to drop.—Chronicle & Sentinel.

SEVENTY-SEVEN NEGROES DROWNED.—The most melancholy and disastrous of all the dreadful effects of the severe gale that passed over this portion of the country on Sunday, the 26th of March, which have yet reached us, is that of the swamping of two boats in the waters in the neighborhood of Dawkins Island, one containing 15 negroes and the other 12, in all 27, every one of whom were drowned. The boat containing 15 was owned by Albi Sington, of Hilton Head. The owner of the other did not learn. On Sunday last 11 of the bodies washed ashore on Dawkins Island. The rest have not been seen as yet, but will probably be thrown up by the waves on some point of land or other, if they do not drift out to sea.—Savannah News.

One of Josh Billings' Prayers.

From my many friends, and from things at large ends, Good Lord deliver us!

From a wife who don't love us, and from children who don't look like us, Good Lord deliver us!

From snails in the grass, from snails in our butes, from torch light processions, and from all new rum, Good Lord deliver us!

From pack peddlers, from young folks in law, from old aunts without munny, from kolera morbus, Good Lord deliver us!

From wealth without charity, from pride without sense, from pediger worn out and from all rich relations, Good Lord deliver us.

From newspaper sales, and from pills that ain't hisic, from females that faint, and from men who flatter, Good Lord deliver us!

From virtue without fragrance, from butter that smells, and from cats that are coating, Good Lord deliver us!

From old folks' secrets, and from our own, from megimuns and wimmin kommittees, Good Lord deliver us!

From polytishisms who pray, and from saints who tittle, from rikoff, red herring and grass widgers, Good Lord deliver us!

From folks who won't laugh, and from folks who giggle, from tite butes, easy virtue, and ram mutton, Good Lord deliver us.

HOME COURTESIES.—The happiest household in the world is that in which courtesy is new every morning and fresh every evening, like the celestial benedictions. How many of us brethren and sisters, make home the rag-bag of ill-humors and caprices, and wretched moods of every kind, while we carefully hide them from the stranger! When the guest arrives, we slide a chair over the rent in the carpet, and slip a tidy over the worn edge of the sofa cushion, and lay a prettily-bound book over the ink-stain upon the parlor-clock and so at his coming the flying hair is smoothed, and the sullen look is gilded with a smile and the sour tone is suddenly wonderfully sweet.

WHEELER'S CAVALRY VS. KU KLUX.—Our old war comrade, Bill Wyatt, of the sixth Georgia cavalry, made a ten strike the other day. He captured three of the Ku Klux that Gov. Bullock has been advertising for, carried them to Chattooga Courthouse, got them convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary for seven years, and came down on Bullock for the prize money, $5,000 for the first, and $1,000 each for the balance—making $7,000 in all. Bullock paid up "like a little man," and Wyatt went home happy. This amount of money in Chattooga county, all at one time, will create a tremendous excitement. The beauty of the whole affair is that these Ku Klux were committed to radical thieves, and were playing Ku Klux to cover their stealing operations. Bully for Wheeler's cavalry.—Griffin (Ga.) Star.

Cultivate Politeness of Manner.

It is incumbent upon every one to be courteous and respectful in his intercourse with neighbors, acquaintances, or with the public generally. To informers, speak kindly and considerately, so as to relieve them from any feeling of being beneath you in circumstances; to equals, be plain and unaffected in manner; and to superiors show becoming respect, without, however, descending to subservience and meanness. In short, act a manly, courteous and inoffensive part in all the situations of life in which you may be placed. Society has ordained certain modes of address, and certain external signs of respectfulness, which it behooves us to support and personally attend to the rules such as we have alluded to in the poorest man will be entitled to the character of a gentleman, and by inattention to them, the most wealthy individual will be essentially vulgar. Vulgarly signifies coarseness or indelicacy of manner, and is not necessarily associated with poverty or lowliness of condition. Thus an operative artisan may be a gentleman and worthy of our particular esteem; while an opulent merchant may be only a vulgar clown with whom it is impossible to be on terms of friendly intercourse. We say cultivate politeness of manner, by all means, for it is refined civility, and will spare both ourselves and others much unnecessary pain.

THE TRUTH.—The case is very plainly stated by the New Orleans Picayune, in an editorial upon the subject of Gen. Grant's message to Congress in reference to the condition of affairs in the South. The Picayune says:

The pretenses already alleged, and the occurrences which give color to them, have been created by the new State Governments which aliens and pagabonds have forced upon our people by negro votes and Federal power. There is no notable disorder in any of our States, which cannot be traced directly to the bad government for which the Federal authorities are immediately and Northern voters indirectly responsible. Nor are these disorders any where of such a nature or so numerous as to give the slightest occasion to resort to the monstrous and dangerous expedient of martial law as a remedy. Congress will hasten to restore our civil government to the hands of our own inhabitants, even the shadow of a cause for complaint would disappear.

CONTENTMENT.—Our most exalted feelings are meant to be the common good of daily life. Contentment is one satisfying than exhilaration; and contentment means simply the sun of small and quiet pleasures. We ought to seek too high joys. We may be right without transgression. The even low of constant cheerfulness strengthens; while great excitements, driving us with fierce speed, both wreck the hip and end often in exposures. If we were just ready to break out of the body with delight, I doubt not we should disdain many things important to be low. Low measures of feeling are better than ecstasies, for ordinary life. God sends his rain in gentle drops, or else flowers would be beaten to pieces.

Uncle Sam had a neighbor who was in the habit of working on Sundays, but after a while he joined the church. One day he met the minister to whose church he belonged.

"Well, uncle Sam," said he, "do you see any particular difference in Mr. P., since he joined the church?"

"Oh, yes," said uncle Sam, "a great difference." Before, when he went out to mend his fence on Sunday, he carried his axe on his shoulder, but now he carries it under his coat.
