

THE ADVERTISER.

Terms, $3.00 per Annum.

Our Agents in Charleston. The Advertising Agency of Messrs. Walker, Evans & Cogswell, represented by Rowell T. Logan, Esq., is the only authorized Agency for this paper in Charleston.

The Sabre Club Festival. The Sabre Club Festival is to come off on the 25th. Fall particulars next week. In the meantime, you may wish to know exactly how it is ourselves.

Dr. Sanders Speaks Again. And you would all do well to listen to the voice of the charmer. All you who want Medicines, Drugs, Pains, Groceries or Fruit. But read Dr. Sanders' name attentively, and then you will know exactly how it is ourselves.

Polio's Harp Band. The Italian Harp Band, so popular in these regions for some months past, is again among us. They arrived this morning—Wednesday—and will remain until Sunday next. In the meantime they hold themselves ready to answer any call. If there be any contemplating a dance, now is the time.

Have you ever tried the Bouquet Cologne? If not, call at G. L. Penn & Son's for a bottle, and you will never regret it.

Black Alpaca, double warp, a good article, at O. F. Cheatham's, at 25 cents per yard.

They Are Coming! Not "the Campbells!" Not yet the Culvers. But the agents of the Culvers. And who are the Culvers? The Culvers are two brothers known and loved of all people as the "Good Bread and Good Roast Beef." They sell the far famed Farmer's Cooking Stove. And in a week or two their agents will be traversing our County, stops in hand. Turn to our advertising columns and see what our Georgia neighbors say about this Stove.

How to Cure the Epizooty. The prevailing and disastrous horse disease, now called Epizooty or Epizootic, is approaching us. In the meantime Col. Bacon gives us a recipe which he assures us is a certain cure. One ounce of Benzoide of Mercury (commonly called Red Precipitate) mixed with two ounces of hog lard. Bring the lard to a boil from the glands of the horse and rub the glands thickly with this ointment, applied and rubbed with the fingers. After rubbing, apply a coating of the ointment; then walk the horse gently for an hour or so and repeat the process.

Thompson's Glove Fitting Corsets are for sale at O. F. Cheatham's, at $1.50—worth $2.00.

From the Phoenix to the Carolinian. Mr. W. H. McCaw, of Columbia, who for the last eight or ten months has been chief editor of the Phoenix, has severed his connection with that paper, and assumed the chief editorship of the South Carolinian. Mr. McCaw is an Abbeville man, still quite young, of high character, fine education, and very pleasing address. We congratulate the Carolinian upon securing his services. For we know of no man of his age who has so distinguished himself in the field of journalism, by vigor of thought, and by straightforward loyalty and truth, as W. H. McCaw.

Oh, Moses! Now you think we mean F. J., the Governor-elect. But not so. We apostrophize a far better man. To wit, Moses Edison, our Edgfield butcher, a colored man who not only knows how to supply the market thrice a week with as good beef as even John Bull ever tasted, but also knows how to do it in a perfectly polite and respectable manner. He has paid us a valuable beef courtesy, and we here tender our acknowledgments.

A genuine imported S. B. Corset can be had at O. F. Cheatham's for only $1.00.

O. F. Cheatham's is the place to buy Corsets. He has them from 50 cts. to $5.00—and cheaper, were we informed, than elsewhere.

Patrick May—May He Pleaseth! Pleaseth may be the Augusta Hotel. You all know him well. And knowing well, will act well your part. Mr. May is now sole proprietor of this good, friendly old house. Mr. Murphy retires from the field. The cards usual on such occasions will be found in another column.

Boston in Ashes.

In immense conflagrations, as in most other matters good and bad, America is beating the world. The telegraph flashes to us the news that on Saturday night and Sunday last, the heart of Boston was laid in ashes. Boston the proud metropolis of New England, indisputably to say nothing of her trade, commerce and general enterprise—the greatest centre of literature and mental cultivation on the Western Continent. This terrible fire raged all Saturday night and all Sunday with resistless fury. The finest portion of the city has been destroyed, and thousands of people reduced from wealth to beggary. Boston was the greatest show market in America, and not a single wholesale establishment is left standing. Immense stocks of shoes, leather, cotton and woolen goods have been destroyed, and the trade in these lines will be paralyzed for a time. In their first excitement and horror the Bostonians set down their loss at the fabulous sum of $200,000,000. Minute and particulars of this tremendous conflagration will be found in our news columns to-day.

Mr. Greeley has resumed the editorship of the Tribune, and will hereafter make it an independent journal, and not a party organ as heretofore.

HYMENAEAL. MARRIED, on the 7th inst., by Rev. S. P. Getzen, at the residence of the bride's mother, Mr. WILLIAM H. QUARLES and Miss MARTHA ANN EWBANKS, all of this County.

OBITUARY. DIED, on the 20th October, at 134 Bedford Street, England, Mrs. JULIA B. wife of VANS RANDELL, Esq., and daughter of the late Capt. John Lipscomb, of Edgfield, S. C., aged 43 years.

DIED, on the 1st October, 1872, in the sixty-first year of her age, Mrs. DEMISEY, wife of Col. M. W. Clary. She had been the subject of great affliction and sufferings for several years; and so severe and constant were her sufferings that she was seldom able to leave her room. Her death was often intense, but she bore them with becoming patience, fortitude and meekness. The writer of this humble notice to her memory recalled her occasionally during her illness and long confinement to her sick chamber, but never saw her when she was in the land of the living. In this way, she manifested more Christian virtue and excellence than is usual in cases of so long and so intense suffering and privation.

For many years she had been an excommunicated member of the Pine Pleasant Baptist Church. For the cause and pleasure of Christianity she manifested considerable interest, and ever seemed so far as the writer knows, delighted to hear of the success of the ministry of the Gospel in the conversion or revival of the Church, and its prosperity.

I think she was a lady of an amiable and kind disposition. It is said she was kind to the poor, and tender toward the suffering and distressed. Those are admirable Christian virtues. Beyond all question, the relief of the poor and ministering to the distressed, is the best evidence of genuine piety; when so ministered to the glory of God.

We believe her sufferings arose from that she never recovered from the "wicked" cure she had received for the "wicked" cure, and that she was the weary, ailing, and that she is now happy with the pure and good that have preceded her death. Only one application necessary. Horse must not be worked while the disease is on him.
