LAVA BED CAMP, April 11.—ria YREKA, April 12.—Yesterday afternoon five Indians and four squaws came into our camp and were made presents of clothing and provisions by the peace commissioners, and a message was sent out by the commissioners asking for a talk this, a.m., as a point about a mile from our interest of the peace of the commissioners asking for a talk this, a.m., as a point about a mile from our interest of the peace of the commissioners. picket line. The party arrived at the appointed place, and were closely watched by Signal Officer mission, and that an engagement had commenced between the Indians and Col. Mason. In a moment the troops were under arms, and deployed as skirmishers under command of Col. Green, and orders were given to forward double quick, Very shortly after Mr. Dyer returned and told and that he thought he was the only one who escaped, but in a few moments after, Riddle and his squaw were seen within the picket line. From him we gather the following account of how the massacre com-menced: Mr. Meacham made a short speech to the Indians, followed by Gen. Canby and then Dr. Thomas. Then Capt. Jack made a speech, asking for the Hot creak and land cottonwood places now oc-cupied by Fairchild and Dorris, for a rethen drew his pistol and snapped the cap at Gen. Canby. He cocked his pistol again, and fired, and Gen. Canby fell dead shot under the eye. Schonchin then shot Mescham in the shoulder and head, but he is still alive. Cotton and Corn.

One of the most lamentable features of our material condition is the dependence of the South upon other sections for the necessaries of life—upon the West for our grain and pork, and upon the North for almost every implement of manufacturing industry. This all grows out of the suicidal policy of neglecting everything else in our devotion to the culture of the great staple. Cotton indeed should be king. but we do our best to dethrone him when we neglect to raise our own necessary supplies, and thus pay tribute to other sec nions out of our own hard earnings. We must diversify our industry, and manufacture everything, cotton included, at nome. But to do this we must raise our own provisions, and not subject ourselves double risk of famine from the failure of our own and the foreign crop. Independence is the lesson that we have vet to learn, and when once independent, ve will be able to turn to some account the priceless boon which is conferred upon us in the possession of the great staple. By giving diversity to our industry, and limiting the cotton culture, without diminishing our resources, we devote our whole income to the encouragement of home industry.-Abbeville Press & Ban-

DIGNITY EXTRAORDINARY.-We learn that on Monday night last, our energetic and progressive "native young Governor," forsaking his Headquarters at Columbia, leaving the capital, with all its pleasant associations, and captivating enchantments, and doffing, for the nonce, the weighty cares and heavy responsibilities of State, reached Sumter, by the light of the mid-night moon; marched to the Court House, amid drum-beating, fife-blowing and the deafening shouts of admiring thousands: mounted the rostrum, in the wee sma' hours of the morning, and discussed, till nearly daylight, the claims and counter claims, merits and demerits, of the rival candidates for Intendant and Wardens of this great municipality.

What dignified employment, for the Chief Magistrate of the Commonwealth of South Carolina? Shades of McDuffle, Hayne and Lowndes, are ye cognizant of the degradation to which the proud old State, once ruled over by you, has been reduced, by the parodies and caricatures upon humanity, who now hold the reins power and direct its counsels?-Sumter-

BATESVILLE .- A brief visit to this rapidly growing village, situated about mid-way between Columbia and Augusta, on a healthy ridge on the Charlotte, Colum-bia and Augusta Railroad, satisfied us that it is destined to be one of the most thriving railroad towns in this part of the State. Its development into the proportions of a village is the work of only a year's growth; and in that time a large year's growth; and in that time a large of trade in cotton, provisions, fertilizers, dec., has been established. There are eight or ten stores, all doing a good business. The Masons have a Lodge established here, a flourishing achool is in operation, and the several denominations are well represented. A new church has been finished for the Methodists; and it is one of the neatest we have seen in the up country. Another is nearly completed for the Baptists, which will also be a model of village church are chitecture. The Temperance movement three counties report killing frosts. Crops chitecture. The story which the telegraph tells of the marder of Gen. Cabby and others by Capt. Jack and his Modocs. is terricupied by Fairchild and Dorris, for a reservation. Mr. Meacham told Jack that it was not possible to give him what he asked. Schonchin told Meacham to say no more; that he (Meacham) had said enough upon that subject; and, while Schonchin was speaking. Capt. Resignation of the Mormon Prophet. Brigham Young, at the age of seventytwo, and after twenty-nine years active service as President and Prophet of the Mormons, has resigned his position to make room for a younger and more active man-one who may conduct the faithful through the wilderness of this world, and protect them from the assaults and wiles of a generation of Gentiles. This abdication of despotic power over the spiritual and temporal affairs of the Mormons, by Brigham Young, awakens a lively interest throughout the length and breadth of the Western world. And naturally; for Mormonism, a ringing up in he full blaze of the nineteenth century, s certainly the greatest phenomenon of modern civilization. Who can longer what does it all mean? Simply that Mormonism is to be again moved to a region where it will be inaccessible to home enterprises, and the development of Gentile eyes, Gentile fashion, Gentile civilization.
