Be Prepared to Settle.

We have secured the services of Mr.
Entran Keese, well known to the people of Edgefield as a thoroughly reliable and courteous gentleman, as Canvassing Agent and Collector for the Advertiser; and commend him to the kind attention of our patrons. We hope those indebted to us will be prepared to settle when our collector calls on them.

Accidental Killing of a Young Man. Early in the night on Monday last, at the store of Howard & Landrum, near Mt. Vintage, Mr. Museo Samuel, a young man clerking in said store, was killed by the accidental discharge of a gun in hands of Mr. Ed. Carpenter, a man on a visit to the store. It appears that Samuel was trying to wrest the gun from Carpenter, and that in the struggle the weapon was unintentionally diacharged. We gather our information from Trial-Justice Ramey, acting as Cor-

A Pierce and Bloody Attack. On Thursday morning of last week, as Mr. John Swearingen, living in the neigh-borhood of Howard & Landrum's store, was in his lot, feeding his stock, a young man named Andrew Quattlebaum, achave falled to learn, rode up to the gate and # sd upon him three times, one shot taking effect in his left hand, and inflict-ing a painful wound. Quatflebaum then made his escape, and has not been arrested. Swearingen's wound is doing well We can gather nothing concerning the cause of this sudden and fierce attack.

The Palmetto Sabre Club in Columbia. "Fair dames and crested chiefs attentive For still the burden of thy minstrelsy Was Knighthood's dauntless deed, and Beauty's matchless eye"

On Monday before the Fair, our gallant boys, headed by their President, Major W. T. Gary, left Edgefield for Columbia, there to appear in the knightly arens, and add to the tone and eclat of the occasion. They were handsomely mounted and equipped, and, coming, as they do, from all quarters of our section -and from our stanchest families—they attracted interest, attention and hospitality along their whole line of march. At midday of the first day, they were elegantiy entertained at a luuch of cake and wine by Capt, Clinton Ward and his lady, who came forth to meet them and lead them into their hospitable mansion. On Monday evening they reached Bates-ville, where all doors and all hearts were ready to receive and cheer them. After a gay and happy night in and about the great railroad town, they resumed their march and reached Columbia on Tuesday afternoon. The public reception which was to have been accorded them upon their arrival having been obliged to be postponed until Thursday, they quietly took up quarters at Mrs. Glendinning's Boarding House, and became interested tators of the exhibition and races The reason of the postponement of their public reception was the sudden and melanchely death of the youngest child

Club, in gallant array, were publicly re seived by Presd't. Woodward immedistely in front of the main Exposition building. This was the most crowded day of the Fair, and the crowd to witeption was immense. Presdt. Woodward after a few words of warmes elcome, introduced to the Sabreurs Col. such a speech as it does a brave, untainted South Carolinian good to hear. And thank God the untainted are nine hun-

The Palmetto Sabre Club is banded The Palmetto Sabre Club is banded together, not is a political organization; nor are we marshaled for war; but we have been organized for the good of our people. In the darkness of the middle ages valiant knights, clad in glittering armor, went forth to battle, to save their country from impending ruin. Their purpose, was a noble one, and, in this, wa strive to emphate their example. We remember with pride the high claims to true chivalry, which was once the distinguishing characteristic of the sons of our proud Palmetto State. Now, as in the past, we behold Carolina's fair daughters sheering, by the charm of their approving smiles, those of her sons who have not, nor never can forget, the past history of our State. We would contribute our mite to erect a bulwark of public opinion, which will preserve "the old landmarks." Whatever has this for its object we desire to encourage, and it is for we desire to encourage, and it is for purpose we have come to our State

Let us prove ourselves torthy sons of noble sires. Then, in the language of the motto inscribed upon our flag, "Resurgamus,"—"we will rise again."

Upon the conclusion of President Ga cheered by the throng, the gallant troop caracoled out of the Fair Grounds and ntered the race track to begin the Tilt The riding took place immediately in front of the Grand Stand, which was crowded beyond its utmost capacity with cartiful and splendidly dressed women.

That Special Tax.

Barker's infamous bill in the Legisla ture to levy a special and an addition the sinking system.

tax of three mills on the taxpayers o Edgefield, to pay the reputed outstand ing indebtedness of the County, a considerable moiety of which is said to be fraudulent, is likely to become a law. As soon as possible we will get the vote of our members on the passage of this out-regeous act, and let the people know the gans wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Innames of those of our Legislators who are willing to double-tax the taxpayers of Edgefield in this our hour of sorest distress and pecuniary poverty. The Representative who is in favor of this Barker Act, is certainly no friend to the poor people of Edgefield.

The Legislature at its last session passed an act that the pay of a member of the Legislature should be $600 per annum, and the last one of them drew their pay for one year's services. Now the rascals are in session again, before the expira tion of the year for which they have received pay, and are clamoring for $6 a day for the extra session.
