Hot Supper by the Baptist Ladies. The Baptist Parsonage being very seriously out of repair, the ladies of that congregation have determined upon giving a Hot Supper, in the hope of raising a fund sufficient to have certain necessary work done upon the said building.

Magna Pars Fui! As regards the success of the campaign meeting last week, the Edgfield Brass Band may well say magna pars fui. They played beautifully. And God knows what we would all do without them!

Robinson's Circus at Johnston. Persons from our town who happened at Johnston on Saturday last, thought that old John Robinson's Circus had arrived at that place; and they at once made a rush for what they took to be the ticket wagons - the crowd around being so large and so dense that their vision could not possibly pierce through it.

Walking Up the Rush at Trenton. Mr. J. B. Norris, as may be seen by his announcement in another column, continues to rush the Dry Goods business at Trenton. He is lately back from New York, and his prices are as low as they can possibly be, while his goods are of the first quality.

Gen. Gary at Oakley Park. Our distinguished townsman, Gen. M. W. Gary, after a two months sojourn in Virginia, is again at his beautiful home, Oakley Park; and the hand-shakings and warm greetings that welcome him on all sides, prove how deeply he lives in the love of our community.

From Texas. Our young friend, Mr. Dorton, who a year ago, joined his brother, John, in Northern Texas, is back among us on a short visit. These young men live in the corn and grain section, and their crops this season are splendid.

For Day & Tannahill. We received the following singular note a day or two ago. And while the note is from Peckskill, the envelope was stamped "Johnston."

Amid the Old Scenes. We were delighted to meet on campaign day Mrs. Dr. Fitch, of Charleston, one of the most intelligent and amiable ladies Edgfield has ever sent to grace our circles.

Best on Record. On Saturday last, by three o'clock, P. M., Mr. J. K. Devore, living near Elmwood, picked 300 pounds of cotton. Who can beat that for high?

Novel and Noble Beneficence. A young gentleman, a friend and patron of Mr. James M. Cobb, has lodged with that popular merchant a late of cotton, with the request that he sell it to the best possible advantage, and distribute the proceeds among the three resident clergymen of our community.

The Railroad and the Advertiser. The road bed of the Edgfield, Trenton and Aiken Railroad has nearly reached Banker's Mill, on Shaw's Creek, about six miles from Aiken, and the stock will be moved there, perhaps, this week.

Snaday School Convention. We learn that there will be a Sunday School Convention at Trenton, on the 2nd of Sept. All the Schools in Saluda County will be represented in the Convention. Practical points in Sunday School work will be discussed by practical Sunday School workers.

The Langry Jersey. And you must pronounce it Jersey! A young lady relative of ours who has just returned from Canada writes us that, being peculiarly English, they are all the rage in Toronto, Montreal and Quebec, and will soon be all over the country.

Rust Proof Wheat. HANDLED with the view of selling it for seed, through the firm of R. H. McKie, Collier's, S. C. This wheat is from broken or cracked grains, and from cheat, cockle, oats, and the seed of all other plants.
