The Reassembling of Congress.

Congress, after sitting three weeks, adjourned on the 22nd December for the holidays, and reassembles to-day, Wednesday the 5th January. And the country may be well prepared for four years of genuine Radical administration, for the Republicans are going to have undisputed control of the governmental reins during the next Congress meets. There can be no longer any doubt as to their having a clear majority in the House of Representatives, and they will elect a speaker and arrange all the committees to suit themselves, after which they can easily decide enough to their own favor, to secure a 3rd working majority, with which they can pass all the partisan measures that the most venacious leaders of Republicanism may devise. In the Senate the Democrats will lose nearly all of their members from the Northern States, including Turman, of Ohio, Mc Donald, of Indiana, Randolph, of New Jersey, Kernan, of New York, Eaton, of Connecticut, and Wallace, of Pennsylvania; and with such men as these out of the way, the Republicans will bulldoze their way through, even though they may not have an actual majority. Such doubtful members as Davis, of Illinois, Mahone, of Virginia, and Fair, of Nevada, cannot be depended upon by the Democrats, and without them the Republicans will have full control of both Houses of Congress.

Manoeuvring of the Ostrage Bill.

On our first page this week we published the notice of Snalls to the Hon. George D. Tillman of his intention to contest the latter's seat in Congress, and his reasons therefor. We publish this notice not only that Democrats may know the baseless lies that are uttered against them by Snalls, but also that they may immediately furnish Mr. Tillman the names and addresses of witnesses to disprove these charges. In fact we hope Mr. Tillman's constituents will give him all the information they can upon which to base counter charges of fraud and intimidation practiced by Radicals at, before, and since the election—towards colored Democrats in particular. Of this latter work we know there has been a great deal in our own County.

The frauds of which Snalls pretends to give instances in every county in the Congressional District, are intimidation and violence, falsification of returns by the commissioners of election; refusing to count precincts that ought to have been counted; stuffing the ballot-boxes with Democratic votes, and then drawing out Republican votes to make the number of ballots correspond with the names on the poll list; not holding polls which should have been held; inserting fictitious names on the poll lists; illegal voting; refusing the votes of qualified voters; obstructing the Federal election officers; managers of elections all Democrats and active in the interest of the Democratic candidate.

Judge Hughes on the Failure of the Piedmont & Arlington.

In the United States Circuit Court in Richmond, on the 23rd of December, Judge Hughes delivered an opinion in the case of the insolvent Piedmont & Arlington Life Insurance Company in the matter of appointing a receiver as prayed for by a number of policy-holders. Upon the question whether or not the Court would allow the company to appoint its own receiver, Judge Hughes says: I think that the mere fact of the failure of a life insurance company is prima facie proof that its operations have been conducted in a fraudulent manner, and if the failure is not explained by some great casualty, such as a widespread pestilence or sudden financial convulsion or physical calamity, I think it is per se proof of fraud. I will not pretend to say that it creates a presumption of moral turpitude in the managers of the company, but it certainly does of constructive fraud, that is to say, of that financial imbecility or recklessness or extravagance, or that gross negligence, which is equivalent in its consequences to fraud, and which the Court is bound to regard as constructive fraud. Would the Court be justified in allowing a trustee appointed by such a company in the very deed in which it admitted its insolvency, to remain in custody of the effects and to administer? Could the Court expect to attract and retain the confidence of the public and of its suitors if it should sanction such an action? I think not. The insolvency and abandonment of the company left its effects in the legal and rightful custody of no one, and the Court must at once provide for the emergency by appointing a receiver. The judge then announced the appointment of A. L. Boulware, of Richmond, as the receiver of the company.

Immigrants for South Carolina.

The Greenville News of the 18th inst., says that Maj. Houston, of the Atlanta and Charlotte Railway Company, has gone to New York to receive sixty immigrants from Switzerland, who have been carefully selected by Mr. and Mrs. Biedeman, of Wallhalla, to settle in some part of the great Piedmont Belt. Here, literally, as well as metaphorically, is a move in the right direction. In this exceptionally favorite section of South Carolina, immigrants will find in climate, richness in soil and abundant natural resources, everything to conduce to a prosperous settlement. Were the enterprise of this energetic Railway Company rightly appreciated and generally imitated, but a few years would elapse before Greenville City would become the greatemporium of one of the most prosperous sections of the United States.

Comptroller-General Bratton.

South Carolina has not a purer or more devoted son than plain John Bratton, of Fairfield, who was elected Comptroller-General on Wednesday.

The State, in her fight.

The State, in her fight, was not a harder fighter, for he fought his way, inch by inch, to the command of a brigade. Since 1865 he has been farming quietly in Fairfield, emerging from his retirement only when he could be of service to the Commonwealth. Under his leadership Fairfield was won by the Democracy, and he was Chairman of the State Executive Committee in the campaign of 1880.

But Gen. Bratton is something more than a soldier and successful political leader.

He is a man of business, methodical, painstaking and accurate. Withal he is unaffected in manner and straight forward in his dealings.—Aves and Courier.

Further Legislative Items.

A bill to extend the time for commencement of work on the famous Columbia canal by the Rhode Island men, Thompson and Nigro, eleven months longer, was debated. This will either effectually dispossess of the canal humber, or spur up the Rhode Islanders to proving that they mean business.

What we have before stated.

As we have before stated, the whole master of a Constitutional Convention called and to be in the Election Laws has been referred to Committees to report at the next session of the Legislature, and whose reports, we imagine, will make a lively time in both Houses.

Senator Fishburne said that the whiskey drinking in great part was by country people when they went to the towns and the county should receive the tax.

The general and legislative appropriation bills amount to some $785,000, and to meet this a State tax of 5 mills has been levied.

The committee on the Yorktown Centennial recommended that a battalion of 250 men from this State be sent there, together with the Governor, five aids de camp, the State officers and Supreme and Circuit Court Judges, the State to foot the bill from the $5,000 appropriation.

The bill requiring owners of toll bridges to keep them lighted at night, was continued to next session.

Dr. Strom's bill to make it a misdemeanor to entice or persuade a laborer to employ a laborer under contract with another, also passed.

This is a very important bill and will make labor more reliable in the future. We will publish the full text very soon.

Mr. Deany's Stock Law Bill for Cooper and Gray Townships.

Acting upon a petition wisely confided to his hands by many citizens of Cooper and Gray Townships, the Hon. Tillman R. Denny introduced into the House a bill asking that the Stock Law be extended over certain parts of those Townships. This bill became a law. And we will now attempt to define the territory subject to its operation. The whole of Cooper excepting that triangular piece which runs between Coleman and Dean, East of Halfway Swamp Creek; and the Northern third of Gray, the line running across from Mr. Nat Henderson's, on the Abbeville line, to the Tom Payne place, in the extreme South-East corner of Cooper, and leaving Trapp's Mill a mile or two out. The Western boundary of this territory is a perfectly straight line, joining Abbeville, from the Ford to Mr. Nat Henderson's. The Stock Law fence to be built by the bill, after which the law will go into immediate operation. And this is the first onward rush of the great tidal wave which is evidently destined, ere long, to overflow the whole of Edgefield. As soon as we can procure the text of the bill, we will publish it in full.

Senator McCall's Immigration Bill.

One of the wisest measures carried through at the late session was the much-discussed bill of Senator McCall, of Marlboro, exempting immigrants from taxation. This bill provides for an exemption from taxation, except for school purposes, of the real estate and invested capital of immigrants into the State for 3 years from their settlement.

The Amended Homestead.

The constitutional amendment relative to the Homestead, which was voted upon at the late election and adopted by a very large majority of the people of the State, was ratified at the late session. In effect it gives to the head of every family in South Carolina a homestead of one thousand dollars of real estate and five hundred dollars of personal property. Under the law as it formerly stood the Homestead was the same—one thousand dollars of real estate and five hundred dollars of personal property, but under the construction given by the Courts to the Act creating the Homestead, no one was entitled to Homestead who did not own real estate, no matter what might be the amount of his personal property. Now, if one has no real estate, he is still entitled to five hundred dollars of personal property as a Homestead exemption. The Homestead clause is one of the wisest and most humane provisions of the Constitution, and the ratification of an amendment which will the better secure the people of the State in the enjoyment of it is a step in the right direction. Anything that will secure the rights of property and at the same time relieve the wants of society is in the line of progress.

Miscellaneous.

The bill making an appropriation of $1,500 for the summer Normal Institute in Spartanburg, was passed.

The appropriation of $28,000 for the support and maintenance of the penal institutions was increased to $40,663.16.

The appointment of the physician to the Penitentiary was left to the Superintendent of that institution.

The appropriation of $18,600 for the extension of the buildings of the Lunatic Asylum was increased to $25,000.

The expenses of the Legislature is figured up by the Register as follows: $1,572 a day; $197 an hour; $8.25 a minute.

Masonic Officers.

The Grand Lodge of Ancient Free Masons, in session at Charleston lately, elected the following officers for the current year: M. W. Bro. James E. Ldar, M. W. G. Master; R. W. Bro. John D. Kennedy, Deputy G. Master; R. W. Bro. W. W. Homphries, Sr. Grand Warden; R. W. Bro. J. Alder Smyth, Junior Grand Warden; R. W. Bro. John H. Honnor, Grand Treasurer; R. W. Bro. Charles Inglesby, Grand Secretary; R. W. Bro. O. F. Gregory, Grand Chaplain.

The Magnificent Whiskey Opportunities of Chester.

A correspondent of the Columbia Register, writing from Chester under date of 26th Dec 1880, gives this fearful account: Whiskey, the alarming and increasing evil of the town, was drunk here on Christmas day as freely as water, being given gratis to all who would "partie, and long before night-fall by far from a few of the inhabitants had fallen victims to the ground under the damning influence of the poisoning fluid. So horrible and disgraceful was the scene everywhere presented on the public square, that the most temperate element of the town have arisen in one solid phalanx and are determined to make a struggle, desperate as it may be, to annihilate the morals of the town and put an eternal check to bar rooms and promiscuous whiskey drinking.

Just think, there are nineteen hundred inhabitants in this town and eighteen places where whiskey is obtainable, twelve of which are bar rooms. Now, starting from the public square, the centre of the town, one can scarcely walk a hundred paces in any direction without passing a bar room and hearing profanity in the highest degree issuing forth from its degrading walls in shouts of bacchanalian revelry and blasphemy.

Such scenes and morals can only be changed by the success of this noble movement against whiskey.

Not All the Languages of All the Countries.

What shall we say about the weather—this bringing down of Vermont into South Carolina—when all the languages of all the continents would fail to do justice to the subject? Our oldest inhabitants—Mrs. Milly Carpenter and Mr. Ras, Youngblood, Sr., at the head of them—say unequivocally that they can remember no colder, no snow, no long-enduring, no ice so stubborn, no winds so chilling, no skies so leaden, seven days of unbroken ice and snow! And two days with the mercury as low as daybreak, as 4 and 5 degrees above Zero! Everything frozen stiff! Things that have not frozen in fifty years before, and will not freeze again in fifty years to come! And almost every green thing killed. Every green-house, every flower pit, a scene of woe and desolation. Not a geranium, nor a heliotrope, nor a fuchsia, left in the land of Edgewood. The left hand, outside doors, shrubs—cucumbers, rutabagas, olives, magdolins—so injured as to be ugly and worthless. Of human suffering, however, there has been but little. And when we read, from all quarters of the world, of the wants and woes, and hungering horrors, and squalid shiverings, and icy deaths, humbled by this pitiless weather, we heartily thank God that Edgewood has been blessed among all the best.

The Negro Sam Lee Opens the Contest.

Washington correspondence Baltimore Star: "The papers of Lee, contestant for a seat in Congress from the first district of South Carolina, have arrived, and have been served upon Mr. Richardson the present Bourbon incumbent, who will get the certificate. Lee alleges that he can prove that, among other things, in the largest Republican precinct the election was refused to count the votes at all. Lee was probate judge of Sumter County, and ran as an Independent R-publican against Raley in 1874, but was defeated. He ran on the regular ticket "this time."

C. & G. ROAD'S S. C.) Dec. 25th, 1880.)

Editors Edgefield Advertiser: Christmas will be too near before this reaches your sanctum to wish you a "happy Christmas," but I venture to take time by the forelock, and wish you a "happy New Year," and ask that you and the readers of the Advertiser join in three cheers for the wide awake citizens of Cooper and Gray townships—only those parts however, that have secured for themselves that priceless boon, the Fence Law! Up to this writing, I am uninformed as to how our Edgewood delegates stand upon the record, they having pledged themselves to let the Stock Law severely alone.
