AN ANSWER. CLLA WHEELER.

If all the years were summer-time, And all the aim of life Was just to live on like a rhyme, Then I would be your wife

f all the days were August days, And crowned with golden weather, How happy, then, through green-clad

We two could stray together. If all the nights were moonlight night.

And we had naught to do
But just to sit and plan delights,
Then I would wed with you.

It life was all a summer fete,
Its soberest place the "glide,"
Then I would choose you for my mate
And keep you at my side.

But winter makes full half the year, And labor half of life; and all the labor and good cheer Give place to wear and strie.

Days will grow cold and moons wax of And then a heart that's true

Is better far than grace or gold,
And so, my love, adien!
I cannot wed with you.

Feeding Turnips.

Feeding turnips to milking cows is objected to on account of the ill flavor communicated to the milk, and which spoils it for any good use. But it is not necessary that this ill flavor should be given to the milk. It is caused by the very volatile odor of the roots, which is absorbed by the stomach, and then by the blood, and lastly by the milk. A large part of it is carried off by the perspiration through the skin and a large part through the kidneys. The reason of the rapidity of this effect of feeding turnips is the large proportion of water which they contain, and that water is very quickly absorbed by the blood and dis persed through the system, and as quickly got rid of through the skin and the kidneys. It is precisely the same with onions, garlic and other strong flavored weeds, and also with impure water. But this very rapid transpiration of the water gives a oley to a ready means of avoiding the objectionable effect referred to. If turnips are fed immediately after miking, night and morning, the odor passes off and does not affect the next morning. It is not safe to feed them before milking, unless it is done immediately before it, as water is absorbed from the stomach into the blood with great rapidity, and the odor would begin to reach the milk in a few minutes. The odor of garlic may be prevented—it is said—in somewhat the same manner but as next morning. It is not safe to feed somewhat the same manner, but we have not personally tried the effect for want of the garlic. But it is so reported by a dairyman who says he was troubled with the smell of garlic or wild onion in his milk. To obviate this he put the cows in the stable at about 3 o'clock each afternoon, and fed on hay and gave them grain as usual. The result was all he anticipated a result of three hours allowed this scent to pass off in the other secretions, though previously it very strongly flavored both milk and butter. The same course, he suggests. would probably be an advantage when the milk tastes of other foul aeds in the pasture, and he is prob The Dairy.

Gathering Corn. creetice of allowing the ripe to stand in the fields until Octoovember, and sometimes even later, is very reprehensible, on sev eral accounts. It is sufficient to say that the process of wasting deteriora tion which commences in the roasting ear, goes on with increasing rapidity until the crop is gathered, and there is no conceivable advantage to the corn. Usually the ears will be suffi ciently dry to keep af er the larse of forty days from the date of fodder-pulling, and the gathering of the entire crop should not be long postponed after the period has elapsed. The old practice of closely slip shucking the ears never had a sound reason to sustain it. All the shuck but the weather-beaten outside portion should be gathered and stored with the ear. You will then have all your shucks where they will be ready when most

As to the best preventive of wee-vils in corn, we want "more light," and hope our friends will give the readers of The Southern World a re liable recipe. We think the best plan we ever tried was mixing the leaves and berries to the China tree pientifully throughout the bulk of corn. Perhaps walnut leaves would answer a good purpose. SWEEPING SALE, COMMENCING MONDAY, MAY 7th, 1883.

We have made big sales before, but did not commence them until late in the season when the stock was broken. Now we commence before the people have bought and while our stock is full and complete. We hesitated about breaking the market, not only because we shall SUFFER LOSS, but on account of making ourselves very much disliked by other dealers, but there is no help for it. The times demand it and we make the sacrifice. Monday we manugurate the greatest and most wonderful sale of Boots, Shoes, Hats, Trunks, Valises, etc., ever known to civilized man. No old trash. No shoddy goods. No old stock marked down. No bankrupt sale, but a bona fide sweep-out of New Styles specially manufactured for us this season. OUR WHOLESALE ROOMS THROWN OPEN TO THE RETAIL TRADE.
