Death of Mrs. D. E. Holland.

With sadness beyond measure we chronicle the death of the young and lovely wife of our friend, Mr. Daniel E. Holland, who, for the last two years has lived in Newberry County, just across the river from Chappell's. And thus is our friend, while still a very young man, made for the second time a widower. Mrs. Holland, who was young, gentle, pious, and widely-beloved, was Miss Neelie Watkins, a member of an honored family in the section in which she died. Her death, if we are will preach at Batesburg. The Rev. J. F. correctly informed, occurred on Saturday McMillan will preach at Mountain Creek. afternoon last. She leaves two children the youngest an infant only a few days old.

A Good Time Coming.

The season for our farmers to realize upon their crops and get their surplus is now at hand. The season for our merchants to make their settlements and show their ledger balances is arriving. The season for clerks and laborers to save up their money and get ahead in life is always at hand. This Fall our people will be ahead once more and it behooves them to think now of saving up their money. With this aim in view, we commend to all our readers and their friends, the Augusta Savings Bank, at No. 811, Broad St , Augusta, Ga., which is already well known and patronized by our people. This is a safe, prosperous and well-managed corporation, which secures deposits on favorable terms and pays interest. Its accounts are written up every six months, when interest is added to the principal and compounded.

Land and security investments are good in their way, but in a time of need for money, the fixed investments must be disposed of sometimes at a sacrifice, before the cash can be realized; but in a good Savings Institution like the Augusta Savings Bank, the money is always obtainab'e at once, dollar for dollar, besides interest, so that for the working classes and people of small means, the Savings Bank is the best investment in the world. Capt. Joseph S. Bean, the well, known Cashier, is acquainted with many of our people and on calling at his office he will be glad to give them any information, or by writing to him, he will send circulars or give any advice. The manager of this paper has had a long banking intercourse with the Augusta Savings'Bank, and from his personal knowledge he hopes the numerous readers among whom this journal cirize and get the benefit of the Augusta Savings Bank.

"Only Such Reliable Goods as Edgefield People Will Buy."

We quote a very sensible and significant passage from Mr. J. M. Cobb's new fall advertisement, in another column. And this very passage gives the keynote to Mr. Cobb's popularity and success. He has ever eschewed shoddy in his goods and sensationalism in his newspaper announcements. In Cobb's business there is not a particle of bosh. On the contrary, dignity, solidity and reliability claim him as cantile headquarters have been an extremely busy scene. Goods, in almost all lines, have been pouring in day by day. And unpacking and arranging has been pushed far into the night. In his great specialties, for instance Shoes and Clothing, Cobb is this season more perfect than ever-if possible. Read Mr. Cobb's new card very carefully; and do not forget that, want whatever you may, you will find it of the very best sort at Cobb's.

For the Advertiser. The Condition of Our Country Schools.

It is a lamentable fact that our people have allowed our country schools to go down to their present state. No period of our nation's history has enoyed superior advantages for the acquisition of a collegiate education to the present; but it is a stern reality that our primary schools have been sadly neglected.

Let us first find the cause of this low condition of the schools, and then seek the remedy. The great cause is that the majority of our people do not appreciate the importance of an education. They forget that education is essential to success in any vocation of life. They do not realize the fact that in the future the responsibilities of our proud old State must devolve upon some of our youths, and that, without education, they can not keep her in her present proud condition.

The next cause is, the patrons of our schools will not pay a salary sufficient to employ a good teacher. Now when 'we come to the remedy there are three parties concerned : the patrons, the teachers, and the scholars. Patrons, remember that good teachers make good scholars, and that a good teacher can command a ploy a teacher for $25 or $30 per month, and at the end of the session say "it's that much thrown away," but double that amount. Employ a person who teaches not for money alone, but one who takes an interest in your children, and an interest in standard. No Shoddy bargains poked the advancement of education. Employ your teacher, and then let him Please allow me the pleasure of showdo the teaching. Do not tell him | ng my Goods and Prices to you, and the how this and that should be done; for work is done. if you think he does not understand his business, do not employ him.

Teachers, when you teach, teach your scholars that " to know is worth GAINS. millions;" arouse their ambition for an education. Teach them the importance of an education as you would teach them the necessity of honesty and truthfulness. Scholars, when you go to school, go to learn. Do not go to the school room to play; it is the place for study. Realize what you go to school for, and improve every moment. Remember that more of the Will of S. W. efforts than on the effort of your teacher; for unless you study, you cannot learn. If your teacher makes you study hard, do not get 'cross-grained;' it-is for your own good.

I hope every teacher, patron and scholar will read this, and give it careful consideration; for unless we Consort of our esteemed follow citizen, DR, HUGH A. Shaw, of Curryton.

Descended from one of the old and established families of Edgefield, she was eminently worthy of the good name she bore. From childhood on to the last, quiet, modest and unassuming, almost to a fault, she lived for others, letting her footsteps abide within her own home, and forgetting not her duty to husband and children, neighbor or friend. Ever and always frail and delicate as the flowand always ran and deficate as the how-er that fadeth, she was a sufferer for many years, in which she endured the ravages of a painful and incurable mala-dy with a patience and fortitude which entitled her to the name of heroine. Even the mere mention of some of the ills she bore without a murmur, would be painful to those who witnessed it. "Her life was indeed a painful passage o'er a restless flood."
