Intendant of Edgefield.

"You Are Evidently Looking for Santa Claus, and I Am the Man !" This is what Mr. W. B. Penn, of the old and historic firm of G. L. Penn & Son, now says to the great public of Edgefield. "But," says the public, "I don't understand. Santa Claus I always thought was a hoary-headed old buffer, while you are a handsome and stylish young man." "So much the better," says our young friend Penn, "and thank you for the compliment, but neverthe less I am Santa Claus all the same; and if you will just step into my new store, saving Santa Will Penn Claus leads a large party of ladies and gentlemen into his radiant new quarters, and, doffing his shiny silk hat and drawing off a pair of delicately tinted olive green kids, says, "Now, ladies and gentlemen, I am ready, mostly for love too, to show and shower upon you all the treasures of New art in every imaginable variety, dolls, fireworks, clocks, lamps, jewelry, objets de vertu, all of the newest styles, and in patterns never before seen in Edgefield. And of Groceries and Confectioneries, no end, no end. And every fruit and delicacy and luxury that belongs to this blessed season. But hark! What is that excitementin front of my door! Ah! it is Miss Sallie Lewis and Mr. Bacon in a buggy making the crowd laugh by telling them, in their original manner, of the beauties of my new Christmas stock. That's good! Listen! Miss Sallie Lewis says: "Go to Augusta?" Go to Augusta to buy christmas things? Why no body mer, will have a sale at the church on the but a raving loon would think of such a thing! There is nothing in Augusta to compare to Penn's; nothing! nothing!! nothing !!! And Mr. Bacon says : "Look here friends, Edgefield may be poor and bloody, and burnt-up, but there is no doubt that for this season she has got clean ahead of all the South on Christ. mas goods. Go in, go in, and look, and even if you have no money it will be equal to the circus to you." "True, true," exclaims Mr. Penn, "Miss Sallie Lewis and Mr. Bacon are good friends of mine. and what is more, they are people of taste. But, ladies and gentlemen, I see throngs of other ladies and gentlemen, with numerous pretty little children, entering my door. Therefore you must excuse me, and let me turn you over to the graceful courtesies of Mr. Rob. Dunoin!! I see that for four weeks to come I shall need further help. I wonder if Miss Sallie Lewis and Mr. Bacon would not help me! With their gift of the gab, they could do a vast deal. Ah, this thing of being a popular Santa Claus is somewhat confusing! But come in, ladies and gentlemen, and you pretty little girls. There is room for all. "Yes, at

MOBILE, Nov. 23rd, 1885. My Dear Major: Your note, announcing the death of your relative and my comrade in arms during the Mexican War, Jas. L. Tompkins, was duly received. Although it was not my fortune to meet him since the memorable events in which we were together engaged, some 40 years since, I could but hear him prominently in my memory. I well remember our first meeting in Mobile prior to our going to Mexico. Mr. Tompkins, with his friend Mr. Chears, from Florida, is included a chair of the state joined a choice band of congenial spirits from this State. Amongst them were the Hunters, Boykins, Walker, Slaughter and others, num bering 10 or 12, who determined on proceeding to the seat of war on our own responsibility and at our own expense. We accordingly, with our horses and equipments, proceeded to New Orleans, from thence to Galves-near the mouth of the Rio Grande, where we joined Jack Hays' Regiment of Texas Rangers, with which command we participated in all the scouts and skirmishes incident to the invasion of a Foreign Country, precedwhich began on the 19th September. 1846, and ended by the capture of the City and garrison of 10,000 men on the 22nd. In all these trying and arduous duties, your relative, Mr. Tompkins, bore himself with conspicuous gallantry, particularly at the storming of the Bishop's Palace at 3 o'clock on the morning of the 21st, where he nobly represented the char acteristic chiva'ry of his native State. Respectfully tendering my sincere sympathies to his relatives, I am, Very truly yours, JAMES H. HAGAN. To Major Jno. R. Tompkins.

JOHNSTON, S. C., Nov. 28, '85 MR. EDITOR: The entertainment which was given by the Presbyterians at the residence of Mrs. Hix, was a success both as a social and a financial project. The Rev. W. T. Hundley Miss Carrie Boyd, and Miss Nettie Garrett read entertaining selections. Miss Dosia Werts and Miss Fannie Payne, who are under the tutelage of Miss Perrin, rendered some ex quisite music. The Johnston Orchestra also discoursed music of trans cendent quality. An election for the most popular young lady was held, and the honcrs of this position were obtained by Miss Dollie Teague. The proceeds of the entertainment amounted to upwards of sixty (60) dollars. A tramp recently exhibited a bear on the streets of our town. On the night succeeding the exhibition, two young men lett their room with the Cadet Baylies Earl to attend a Hop at the intent of perpetrating petit larceny by "feloniously taking and carrying away" some of the fuel which abounds men west graping to find a shingle or the remains of a resinous plank, one of them called attention to an animal hard by, whereupon the other ex-claimed, "The bear, the bear!" It was a calf: but Mr. Mellichampe Mr. W. P. Pollard has purchased of Mr. James McGee the plantation known as the Smyley place.
