

Edgefield Advertiser.

Thos. J. Adams, Editor.

Edgefield, S. C., Dec. 17, 1885.

Senator Butler has introduced a bill in the Senate for the erection of a public building at Greenville at a cost of $50,000.

Senator Maxwell's Bill.

One of the most important measures proposed at this term of our legislature, was to reduce the number of County Commissioners from three to one. The bill will not become a law. But attention has been called to the matter and Senator Maxwell's speech on the subject ought to satisfy any one of the wisdom of the change. Want of space prevents the publication of the Senator's speech.

Congress.

Up to date nothing has been accomplished by Congress. The time has been occupied in discussing a new set of rules and in the preliminaries of organization for work. Senator Butler, of South Carolina, was the first Senator on the floor.

Rev. W. H. Milburn, the blind preacher and lecturer, has been elected Chaplain of the House of Representatives, of whom some one has wittily remarked that, being blind, he will not be mortified at seeing the morning papers.

The Death of Vanderbilt.

Vanderbilt, the richest man in the world, died suddenly last week at his palatial home in New York City. His wealth was estimated at two hundred millions of dollars, and his income was $190,000 per annum. He was the owner of the gigantic order, and the world will call them ostentatious. He gave to an institution of learning in Nashville, Tenn., the sum of one hundred thousand dollars, which he called Vanderbilt University; he defrayed the whole expense of transporting the Egyptian Obelisk to New York City, which amounted to another hundred thousand, and he founded a College of Medicine in the same city at a cost of five hundred thousand dollars.

Several bills have been already introduced into both Houses of Congress for the repeal of the unlimited silver coinage act. There will be warm work yet over this measure.

The South Carolina Bar Association has elected the following officers: Gen. W. W. Harles, of Marion, President; W. C. Benet, of Abbeville, Secretary; J. Q. Marshall, of Columbia, Treasurer.

THE LIEN LAW.—It looks as if the Senate will confirm the act of the House in repealing the lien law. The Senate is a very conservative body, and in any event the vote will be a close one.

DR. POPE TRIUMPHANT.—The House on Tuesday. One prominent lawyer attempted to amend it, but Dr. Pope, remembering how the lawyers amended the same bill of existence last year, refused all amendments, and triumphantly carried his bill through, all the lawyers voting with him. —News and Courier.

The usual penalty for non-payment of taxes next spring will be saved, as the tax books will not be ready until September, and all of the taxes will be collected in the fall at one time, instead of in two installments as heretofore. The surplus in the treasury and the increased receipts from phosphate royalty will meet the current expenses of the government until the taxes come in in the fall.

The Last Days of Toombs.

WASHINGTON, Ga., December 13.—The condition of General Robert Toombs has changed considerably for the worse in the past day, and Dr. Mulligan, his attending physician, expresses the opinion that the end is near at hand. This announcement will be heard with sorrow throughout the country, for the distinguished sufferer has the sympathy of all in this his last struggle. Many an anxious eye has been turned to his bedside, and a sigh of relief was expressed when there was reason to believe that he would be better. But he is yielding to the inevitable, and in doing so he faces death with the same courage that characterized his remarkable career. At 1 o'clock, December 15, General Toombs is sinking gradually and his death is momentarily expected. The physicians say there is not the slightest hope for him.

The assistant Episcopal Bishop of Mississippi, Hugh Miller Thompson, in a letter to the New Orleans Times Democrat, writes as follows from Oxford, in that State: "I have just seen that I consider the most hopeful sign so far visible to my eyes in Mississippi—fifty or sixty young men—white men, mind you—with hands and hoed down in the soil digging potatoes and planting strawberries, at eight cents an hour. They were not tramps, nor bores, but scholars and gentlemen—sons of our best people—and were learning many things of vast promise to themselves and Mississippi, in this close and practical acquaintance with its soil." The white men to whom the assistant Bishop had reference were students at the Starville Agricultural College, where there are 375 young men studying agriculture. The time is not very distant when small farms will be the rule in the South, when white men will labor in the fields and vineyards to a much greater extent than at present, and when there will be marvelous changes in agriculture.

Legislative Proceedings.

In the House.

The Lien Law.

Mr. Haskell characterized it as a most dangerous experiment. The Legislature had once before tried the repeal of the law, and when it met again the law was re-enacted. He said that it would be a most inappropriate time to repeal this law. He did not believe the agricultural classes could get along without it. He did not believe in restricting business in this way. This is a Democratic government, and the people have a right to use their property or money as they please.

It is a notorious fact that the crops have been a failure and the coming year promises to be the hardest we have had for a long time. He trusted the members would not consent to repeal this necessary law.

Mr. W. B. Wilson spoke earnestly and very intelligently in support of the bill. He answered clearly and possibly the points made by the opponents of the bill and enumerated a half dozen potential reasons why the General Assembly should see no time in getting rid of the odious law. He said that the farming classes, those most interested in the working of the law, are practically unanimous for its repeal.

Mr. Jones of Edgefield came to the advocacy of the bill in a singularly direct and convincing manner. As the representative of the planters he felt it his duty to raise his voice in their behalf and do all in his power to cause this infamous law to be abolished.

Mr. Jones of Edgefield, who spoke on the same side. He said that a large proportion of the people most affected by the law desire its immediate repeal, and this should be itself enough to induce the members to pass the bill. The question of striking out the enacting clause was then decided by the yeas and nays—yeas 43, nays 70. The bill was then passed to its third reading.

The Leasing of Convicts.

Next in order the bill to repeal the Act prohibiting the leasing out of convicts was reached. There was some desultory discussion of the bill and a flood of amendments, but these were all voted down, the sentiment of the House being evidently in favor of the bill. In fact, there can scarcely be any doubt of the necessity of repealing the law in question. Unless this is done, an appropriation of $100,000 will be needed to support the convicts.

Mr. McCrady moved to amend the bill so as to virtually kill it, and supported his motion with an earnest speech, beseeching the House not to go back upon its humane action of last year for any consideration of re-tenement.

Mr. Folk, of Edgefield, opposed the amendment.

Mr. Lyles, of Richmond, said that the sentiments of the people from Charleston (Mr. McCrady) were shared by every one, and the committee had carefully considered the matter. The bill gave protection to the convicts, but at the same time permitted their hiring out.

Other gentlemen followed, and in the course of the argument it was claimed that the mortality among the convicts in the Penitentiary was greater than in the convict camps, owing to the insufficiency of the accommodations and the want of proper clothing and food.

Mr. McCrady's amendment was tabled—yeas 97, nays 58. Messrs. Fickens, McCrady, Davis, Simonton, Macnaker and Mikell voted no.

Mr. Davis offered an amendment prohibiting the corporal punishment of the convicts by the contractors.

Mr. Lee moved to amend this by a provision prohibiting the infliction of corporal punishment by any one.

Mr. Wilson moved to lay both amendments on the table. Adopted.

Mr. Haskell, who had been out of the House, and who had returned after the last vote, then moved to strike out the enacting clause of the bill, which renewed the discussion.

Mr. Haskell spoke long and earnestly against the passage of the bill. After some further discussion the motion to strike out was tabled—yeas 80, nays 16. After two hours discussion the bill was passed, with an amendment providing that any contractor violating the laws for his protection of convicts shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and that in all such prosecutions any convict who has been ill-treated shall be considered a competent witness for the State.

Appropriations.

The Ways and Means Committee submitted on Saturday the bill to make appropriations for the ordinary expenses of the State Government for the fiscal year commencing November 1, 1885. The aggregate appropriations, exclusive of the interest on the public debt, amount to $505,335, distributed as follows:

Senator Biest's bill to prohibit the catching of terrapins between the first day of April and the thirtieth of June in any year, excited on its final reading the hostility of Senator Howell, who made motions to kill it in several ways. He said that the terrapin industry in Colleton was a large one, participated in by a considerable proportion of the colored population. To fine and imprison a man for catching a terrapin was wrong. If the bill passed it would fill the Courts with little terrapin cases.

Senator Biest defended his bill. Terrapins were worth $3 a dozen and were as proper subjects of protection as the fish and birds during the breeding season. He thought that there ought to be a much greater extent than at present, and when there will be marvelous changes in agriculture.

Atlanta Prohibition a Failure.

ATLANTA, December 14.—The argument was resumed in the contested election case before Judge McKay of the United States Court. The counsel for the prohibitionists admit that the construction of the bill which permits the sales of Georgia made wine and excludes wines made in other States is unconstitutional, but claim that the bill should stand without that section. This seems to be a most important development. Argument will be concluded to-morrow.

More Trouble in Edgefield.

All satisfactorily settled by the time of arrival of a fine stock of Christmas Wines, Whiskeys, Gin, Rum, Brandy, Champagne, Ale, Beer—in fact everything to tempt the taste of all, both old and young. Give me a call, and go home happy.

As ever, yours,
DICK ANDERSON, G. S.

Dymeneal.

MARRIED, on the 10th Dec, 1885, at the residence of the bride's parents, by Rev. W. A. Gaines, Miss ANNA LEILA STROM, daughter of Hon. Jas. H. Strom, and C. J. B. WILLIAMS, son of the late Dr. Carr Williams.

From the fair bride we acknowledge the receipt of a delicious cake.

Obituary.

From her home in this County, Oct. 24th, 1885, Mrs. ELIZA ANN GARDNER, wife of SAMUEL W. GARDNER, Sr., passed to her heavenly rest—being nearly 80 years old.

As with the year, so it was with her; the Spring and Summer of life had passed, and in the Autumn of her days, in the month of August, she was stricken with an illness of long duration. Her end was peaceful, and she was buried in the presence of her friends, on the 29th inst.

She was a most devoted wife, and a long life of self-sacrifice in behalf of others. She was the mother of thirteen children—eight of whom survive—four sons and five daughters. She had twenty grand-children and twelve great-grandchildren, any sacrifice on her part was more than amply repaid.

The funeral services were held on Sunday, Dec. 21st, at 11 o'clock A. M., at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. J. H. Stewart. Burial took place in the cemetery at 2 o'clock P. M.

Parker's Tonic kept in a home is essential to keep sickness out. Used discreetly it keeps the blood pure, and the stomach, liver and bowels in working order. Coughs and colds vanish before it. It builds up the health.

I sell large quantities of Parker's Tonic in my drug store. Among my customers, a doctor, has been prescribing it for the past two years. He was nearly dead himself, and tried every remedy known to his profession, without any relief. After he had used four bottles of Parker's Tonic he began to grow fresh, and the improvement in his health was absolutely wonderful. He now recommends it to everyone.—J. R.
