Why Farmers Fail.

The following reasons are given for the failure of some farmers: They will not make compost. They breed to and from scribs. They do not curry their horses. They have no shelter for stock. They put off greasing the wagon. They are wedded to other methods. They give no attention to details. They have no method or system. They see no good in a new thing. They let their fowls roost in trees. They weigh and measure stingily. They milk the cow late in the day. They never use paint on the farm. They leave their ploughs in the field. They hang their harness in the dirt. They take pleasure in their work. They prop the barn door with a rail. They starve the calf and milk the cow. They think small things not important. They let their gates gag and fall down. They do not read the best books and newspapers. They sell hay, grain and straw off the farm, instead of turning them in to meat, cheese and butter, and increasing their supply of manure.

GET RID OF THE OLD HENS.—As a rule too many old hens are kept on the farm, but too many are sold.
