THOS. J. ADAMS, - - - - - EDITOR.

THURSDAY, FEB. 2, 1893.

Mrs. Lease says the People's party is dead—and she ought to know for she was in it and of it.

Gov. Tillman has been invited to attend Cleveland's inauguration on the 4th of next March. He will attend.

A receiver has been appointed for the Port Royal and Augusta Railroad, that portion of it which lies in Georgia.

Jas. G. Blaine is dead. He will rank next after Clay, Calhoun, and Webster when the history of this country comes to be written.

Senator J. G. Carlisle, of Kentucky, will be made Secretary of the Treasury by President Cleveland. Carlisle is the greatest man in America by general consent.

Mr. R. S. Hill, of Anderson, who was appointed State Dispenser under the recent law has declined the office because the salary is too low.

The News and Courier says that Senator Irby will secure a fair share of the Federal patronage for his faction. Our contemporary is late in making the admission and has probably found out at last that Senator Irby is no "bug-eater."

The next United States Senate which assembles on the fourth of March will certainly be Democratic. The assured Democratic strength is now forty-three and elections are being held by the Legislatures of Nebraska, Wyoming, Montana, and North Dakota, and out of these States certainly one Democratic Senator will be elected, which with Vice-President Stevenson's vote cast when there is a tie, makes an absolute majority.

The Hawaiin Islands have had another revolution, and commissioners are now on the way to the United States bearing a petition asking to be annexed and become a part of our government. Senator Butler in an interview says: "That when the petition for annexation is examined by the President he presumes the President would refer it to Congress, where the matter will come up for legitimate discussion. Of course, said the Senator, there could be no question for use as a coaling station. Unless they were purchased, as were Alaska and Louisiana, it would be necessary for Congress, if it decided to annex them, to pass the regular act of annexation, as was the case with the Republic of Texas."

One of the ablest articles on the Dispensary law that we have seen, is from the pen of Dr. W. H. Timmerman, and was publishad in last week's Baptist Courier. It is in answer to Rev. J. W. Perry's article on the same subject, and completely demolishes that gentleman. Mr. Perry's argument is one of passion and invective. Dr. Timmerman is absolutely fair, temperate in utterance, and claims nothing for the Dispensary law but that it is a moving forward, an approximation to the best; and, in this world, next to the best is all that mortals may hope for or attain, and he who will not accept a better because he cannot get the best would stifle human aspirations, repress human endeavor, and manacle human progress.

What is the use of it all, however while the people in the towns, the centres of enterprise, are discouraged by hostile acts of legislation and the hostile utterances of influential demagogues and capital is spoken of and treated as a foe to be punished instead of a friend to be eagerly welcomed?

Are the newspapers to put their hands over their mouths and go on urging capital to come and investments to be made while uttering no word of protest against the legislative and executive acts and words which paralyze both? Is abject, silent, inactive submission to what is believed or known to be wrong and dangerous the proper method for righting wrongs and preventing dangers? —Greenville News.

Not a bit of it! Stand up to the rack! Hold the fort! If your conscience and your judgment tell you that Tillman is wrong, eternally wrong in every thing, say so. But while backing your judgment you may as well remember that the people of South Carolina have in two successive campaigns, with all the light turned on, said, "He is right;" that the financial world, by taking the bonds of the state at a lower rate of interest than the original bonds, has said, "He is right;" that the moral and religious world of South Carolina has said, "He is right," and that the Supreme Court of the United States has thundered it down to our ears that," He is right."

T News and Courier, commenting on the levy made on two trains of the A. & K. R. R. by Sheriff Nance, of Abbeville, for taxes due the State, says, "railroads cannot be levied on with impunity." And why not, pray? If railroads will not submit to the law why should they be exempt from the penalties attaching for failure to submit? Are railroads any better than the balance of us? Can they pay or not pay taxes as it suits them! The position that the News and Courier assumes in its enmity to Gov. Tillman is asinine.

If the times were not slightly out of joint, the appointment of Mr. R. S. Hill, of Anderson, to be State Dispenser, a most worthy gentleman, but one who was not ever an applicant, would be put down as greatly to the credit of Gov. Tillman and would be hailed as the act of a chief-executive who is endeavoring to best serve his State and people by selecting the best man for the office. But the antis do not so see it. They maintain that the Governor made a good appointment first, knowing that it would be declined, in order to have an excuse to afterwards make a bad appointment.

The Port Royal and Western Carolina railroad has not paid its taxes in this county. The company has made no tender of any part of its taxes but has gone on as if the State had no right to collect any taxes from the in corporation. Last Saturday Sheriff Nance went to Greenwood and levied an execution upon two trains belong to the company One of these was a frieght and the other a material construction train. When the anthorities of the road in Augusta learned wha' had been done they telegraphed to find out if the Sheriff would release the freight train and hold the coustruction train until they could give a bond of indemnity. The Greenwood agent attempted to get up a bound of $4000 in that town but failed to do so. While this effort was being made it is said that instructions were sent from Augusta to run the trains through at all hazards. So during the pendency of the negotiations between Sheriff Nance and the railroad authorities the latter violated what ought to have been an honorable understanding and ran away with the attached property. This was a high-handed proceeding and shows in what contemptible contempt South Carolina. Having been granted the right away and other franchises to operate their railroad this company sets itself above all laws and defies the auhorities of the State.

Sheriff Nance was acting strictly in accordanee with law. While discharging his duty fearlessly he desired to be as pleasant as possible about it and the railroad men in Greenwood also acted with perfect propriety and showed proper respect for the law and its officer.

There can be no justification of the Augusta authorities and their cause has not been helped. In time the taxes will have to be paid. The railroad may delay and embarrass the State but in the end the law will triumph. This railroad has made no tender, has paid nothing willingly or under protest. It has arrogantly and contemptuously defied the laws of South Carolina. The action is proof of the disposition of this incorporation to override the laws. If a private individual had ran his property away to evade the payment of taxes a great howl would have been raised by the Anti newspapers but they are now found on the side of the corporations. —Medium.

A Joint Discusson in Atlanta.

An effort is being made to get Bob Ingersoll to lecture in Atlanta. A number of the ministers of the city are opposed to his coming, and have so expressed themselves though the daily papers. If he does come Sam Jones wants to "divide time with him," as will be seen by the following interview with Sam by a reporter for the Journal:

"What do you think about Colonel Ingersoll coming to Atlanta to lecture against christianity?" I asked Sam yesterday. "If old Bob comes," be replied, "all I have to say is that I would like to divide time with him for about two hours and if I did not make him wipe his bald head more than once, you may have my hat."

"Are you serious?" I asked.

"Why, of course, I am. If Bob Ingersoll makes a date for a lecture in Atlanta and will agree to divide time with me, I will be on hand, and I tell you it will be worse than a box of monkeys at feed time."

McCoy's Encore on the Gallows.

"Speaking of bravado on the scaffold reminds me of a one legged man I saw turned off in western Pennsylvania when I was a boy," said Roger Blakeley. "He was known to have killed five men. He had lost a leg while trying to add a sixth to his string but finally recovered, was tried and sentenced to hang. The execution took place in the court house yard and several thousand people gathered to witness it McCoy, for that was the criminal's name, ascended the scaffold with no other assistance than that afforded by his crutch. When asked if he had anything to say he replied that he would like to say goodby to his fidle. It was brought, and standing on the deathtrap he played a lively air, handed the violin to the sheriff and with the aid of his crutch danced a jig on the trap. He then announced that he was ready.

"His arms were pinioned, the black cap drawn over his head, and the trap sprung. The rope broke and after being carried back on the scaffold more dead than alive he asked how long it would take to procure another one. He was told about ten minute. 'Well, give me my old fiddler while I'm in waiting, he said. He was unpinioned, the cap removed, and he made his best bow to the audience, saying he had not expected an encore."—St Louis Globe Democrat.

The Columbia State is disgusted with the vacillation and appearances of weakening on the part of its Charleston confrere with regard to the Straightout claims on the nationol "spoils," With reference to the possibility of the President turning over the patronage to the Tillmanites The State say:

"How it may affect individuals we care little, but for its effect upon the Democratic party and the State government we care much. Mr. Cleveland can use the Federal patronage to strengthen the genuine Democracy of South Carolina, and make victorious over the "isms" which he also opposes as earnestly * * * Our deliberate opinion is that if the Federal patronage be given to the cabal who are in control of this State it will destroy the Democratic party of South Carolina in everything but name."—Charleston Sun.

The Tillmanities overthrew Coosaw, gained the railroad tax cases decided, cariied the State for Clexeland, collected the direct tax, and will soon have Clemson college in operation and the barrooms driven from the State and the debt refunded. They have done this in spite of all opposition the Ring could bring to bear against the organized democracy. In the next campaign the Tillmanites will only have to refer to the record.—Medium.
