What it Has Done.

The Company Has Paid over Two Hundred Death Claims, in conequence of this law, aggregating in sums insured more than Four Hundred Thousand Dollars.

In every case there had been a default in the payment of premium, and, except for this law, the policies would have been of little or no value. Instead of this, the insurance in each case was extended to the time of death, and the Company was required to pay to the beneficiaries under the policies the sum of $418,335.77.

Value of Maine Law Extensions as Compared WITH PAID-UP VALUES.

It is the custom of many companies to provide in their policies that, upon discontinuance of payment of Premium, paid-up policies will be given, without the option of extension. This was the practice sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of $3 00 per volume. Cloth cases, for bind- of the Union Mutual before the Maine Non-Forfeiture Law was enacted, but it now substitutes for paid-up values the more advantageous plan of extended insurance. The objection to the paid-up system is that the amount of paid-up insurance which is given upon the discontinuance of payments upon a policy, unless it has been in force a great many years, is insignificant, and of little or no value as protecion; and it leaves the insured who ceases payment without adequate insurance at the very time he needs it the most.

The great advantage of the extended insurance afforded by the Maine Law over the most liberal paid-up system is strikingly shown by the following comparison, and it will be observed that the paid-up value is insignificant in comparison with the amount actually paid by the Union Mutual. The result of two hundred and twelve policies
