

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Senator Butler came from Washington to attend the funeral of his niece, Mrs. Dugas, on Monday.

Cotton is opening slowly in these regions, and a few cotton hampers could be now sold in this market.

"The world is still deceived with ornament," is no less true to-day than when Shakespeare wrote these lines.

Meat is still quoted and sold at 10 1/2 to 10 3/4, and there has been a break and slight decline in other kinds of provisions.

The election for Auditor is being held to-day, Wednesday. The second primary will be on next Wednesday week, Sept. 6th.

The sales of our "Samlog" during court week amounted to $500. "Samlog" is the Norwegian name for dispensary; don't forget this.

Mr. John R. Durison, of the Edgefield Farmer, has received an appointment in the government printing office in Washington, D. C.

Rev. B. O. Berry, of Parkville, has finished his labors at Barr's Chapel. The result was that ten adults and twelve children joined the church.

Having "injected" everything in sight, Judge Hudson has finally "injected" himself. He says he couldn't fight the devil and Tom Walker too.

Mr. R. L. Fox, our popular jeweller, who has been at the World's Fair for the past two or three months, will reach home about the 28th of August.

Mr. T. W. Waites and family, who have been living in the Buncombe part of our town, will move back to their home in the Modoc section about the first of September. We regret to lose such good citizens.

Jerry Gardner says he believes the Tillmanites will drink themselves to death to make the dispensary pay, and that the anti's will perish before they will buy a drop just to make the dispensary a financial failure.

The Graniteville factory has just sold 1,100 bales of cotton goods for export. This is the biggest sale of the season and the first for export. Perhaps the tide is about to turn and good times are almost here—the kind you have read about but never felt or saw.

In the United States court, held at Greenville last week, Jesse C. Duffie, an Edgefield boy, a cripple and quite young, was convicted of robbing a postoffice in this county and sentenced to a reformatory in Columbus, Ohio, for three years. Great sympathy was expressed for the youthful criminal, and Judge Simonton was as lenient as possible.

The New York World's figures show that there are $325,000,000 out of circulation in the United States. This huge amount has been hoarded by the people in their financial scare. And this money the World says, has been hidden away in the people's socks. It may be true, but doesn't reflect on Edgefield in the least. We haven't got the money to hide away, and if we had we haven't got the socks to spare.

An item, from an exchange, which fits everywhere: A local newspaper is often accused of bias in regard to giving personal notices or mentioning the coming or going of some and omitting others. The fault is with the people and not with the editor. He is always willing and even anxious to tell who comes and goes if he can find out. If you have visitors, let us know who they are and where they come from. You will find us as ready to "notice" one as another, patrons or otherwise, friends or foes. Our object is to give the news.

Going to Vote.

The beautiful oil painting above represents one of the candidates for Auditor leading a friend to the polls to vote for him. This friend has a bottle of Samlog in his hand to which he clings with grim clutch. In the distance the box and the manager await the arrival of the belated voter. The hour is late. It is only one minute to 6 o'clock. The polls are about to close. Will they "get there"? If the little man would drop his bottle of Samlog they could get along faster, but he won't do it. Do you want to know the little man's name? Well

His name is Sam. And he don't care a damn, He'd rather be a nigger Than a poor white man.

Contributed Local.

The dime reading at Dr. J. W. Hill's on last Thursday evening was the first given by the Presbyterians and among the many enjoyable ones given by Methodists and Baptists as well, this one should hold no unimportant place. Not knowing that this form of church entertainment was to become such a ruling fad, it has not been our course in the past to chronicle them. Hereafter we will give a brief sketch of such as we are fortunate enough to attend.

The pleasure of an entertainment is always enhanced by a good beginning, and in this instance an instrumental duet, "Rondeaux de variations," played by Misses Braice and Angell Cheatham was a suitable and delightful introduction to the programme.

Miss Marie Abney whose voice is always an acquisition to any performance, charmed her hearers with that rare and popular ballad, "The Danube River," after which Miss Florence Adams rendered "Lichter's Pearly Cascade," a piano solo.

Mr. J. T. Parks then read with unusual skill the humorous dialect selection, "Why Sackey Schmidt's girl went back on him."

It is a pleasant task to voice the sentiments of the public in the admiration which attended the singing of Miss Eliza Mims, in the song "Luna."

Mr. Weaver, of Charleston, gave the selection "Asleep at the Switch" in a brilliant and interesting manner. It is unnecessary to mention the singing of the male quartette who have already made themselves famous in former entertainments. This one is composed of Messrs. Jacobs, George Mims, J. M. Cobb, and E. W. Beall, and we must by no means omit to mention the other quartette of which Misses Lillie Jones and Treetie Hill compose two, who carried us back to the days of Auld Lang Syne in that ever admired ballad "Juanita."

Much merriment was elicited during the reading of "Jamie and the Owl" by Judge John Kennery. Mrs. K. W. Cheatham sustained her already exalted reputation in the vocal selection, "In old Madrid."

Bright and popular Miss Julia Prescott executed the piano solo, "Twittering of the Birds," with much taste and skill.

Duet by Misses Alice Cheatham and Florence Adams. Miss Cheatham's beauty and grace at the piano aside from her skilful performance, won the admiration and applause of all present.

"The Famine Scene from Hiawatha was given in so pathetic a manner by Miss Mary Butler as to draw tears from the eyes of some of her audience.

Miss Mary Mims, youthful and pretty, recited the "Last Hymn." Miss Belle Mims whose assistance is always appreciated sang effectively and beautifully, "The Cows are in the Clover."

The constitutionality of the dispensary law will be settled for good and all by our Supreme Court in November.

Rev. John Lake preached in Aiken last week in the Baptist Church. His discourses were highly commended by the local press.

Senator W. H. Timmerman, wife, and daughter, are spending a few weeks at Hillman's well. A very pleasant letter from the Senator in another column.

"Cool as a cucumber," is not a piece of slang but a scientific fact, the temperature of the vegetable always being a degree below that of the surrounding atmosphere.

Locusts are playing the wilds up in Greenville county, the seventeen year variety; they are numbered by the millions, and are so voracious that they eat the blades of the corn to the very stalk. They even eat the leaves of the trees, briars, and everything green that comes in their path.

A Welcome Addition. Mr. Ira P. Culbreath, Clerk Jno. B. Hill's efficient and courteous deputy, expects to bring his family to Edgefield to live, in the early fall. This will be a welcome addition to our society.

Another Merchant Goes. Mr. Jas. M. Cobb leaves for New York this week to make his usual fall and winter purchases of dry goods. This is the first departure of the season and indicates the character of the man, "to get there first," and when Cobb goes north the people rejoice with exceeding great joy.

Leave for New York. Messrs. Alvin and Edgar Hart, of the firms of Alvin Hart & Co., and E. B. Hart & Co., will leave our town on Monday for the metropolis, New York, to buy fall and winter goods. While goods are cheap these enterprising gentlemen propose to get the best articles at the lowest figures. Wise merchants! happy customers!

Distressing Accident. On Friday last the little four-year-old son of Mr. Sam Lorick fell into a well at his home about five miles from Batesburg and received such injuries that he died within fifteen minutes after being taken out. The father has been crazed by the horrible fate of his child and has to be watched to prevent him from committing suicide.

Two Rustriats. Dime reading Monday night at 8:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. Hall for the benefit of the Baptist Church. If the weather should be unfavorable, the entertainment will be postponed to Tuesday night. To assist in the programme, Sylla Backstitch and Doria Squeezer, two "rustriats" from Georgia, will come over from Augusta on the night train in time to participate. Refreshments will be served, and everybody should attend.

Mrs. Douschka Dugas. All that was mortal of this beloved lady, only daughter of Mrs. Gov. Pickens, was laid to rest in our village cemetery on Monday last. The immense concourse of weeping friends at her obsequies testify at once to her popularity and their sympathy and love for the bereaved mother. May the divine benediction rest upon the home and hearts thus made lonely and desolate, and Medical College of Georgia. We call attention to the advertisement of the famous old institution which appears in another column. Many an Edgefield physician has graduated at the college in the days that are gone and many more we are safe to predict will matriculate there in the future. The next term begins on the first Monday in October prox, and closes on the 1st of April. The faculty is now composed of the following strong names: DeSaussure Ford, M. D., Dean; Thos. R. Wright, M. D., Secretary; George W. Rains, M. D., LL.D., Emeritus Professor of Chemistry; DeSaussure Ford, M. D., Professor of the Principles and Practice of Surgery; Thos. R. Wright, M. D., Professor of Anatomy and Clinical Surgery; Theodore Lamb, M. D., Professor of the Institutes and Principles of Medicine, and Diseases of the Chest; W. H. Doughty, Jr., M. D., Professor of Pathology; George A. Wilcox, M. D., Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology; James M. Hull, M. D., Professor of Diseases of the Eye, Ear, and Throat; Eugene Foster, M. D., Professor of the Practice of Medicine and Sanitary Science; R. B. Glass, M. D., Professor of Materia Medica and Therapeutics; Thos. D. Coleman, M. D., Professor of Physiology; Joseph Edgerton Willet, M. D., A. M., Ph. D., LL. D., Professor of General and Medical Chemistry, and Practical Pharmacy; A. S. Tinsley, M. D., Demonstrator of Anatomy; L. C. Speer, M. D., and Henry C. Doughty, M. D., Assistant Demonstrators of Anatomy and Prosectors to the Professor of Anatomy.

Hillman's Electric Well and its Virtue—The Edgefield People There.

DEAR ADVERTISER: I am here at the somewhat noted Electric Wells of Georgia. This place with its electric shafts and its mineral and medicinal waters is famous for its beneficial and curative effects upon rheumatism, nervous prostration, and paralytic sufferers and has wrought some wonderful and almost magic cures. The waters are valuable remedial agents for renal and cystic affections as well as some other ailments.

Edgefield is represented here by Mrs. Jack Bunch and her daughter, Mrs. Eidson, of Johnston, and her son Herbert, this scribe, wife, and daughter, and Mr. Pinckney Timmerman of the Pleasant Lane section. The latter has been cured of his rheumatism and is now laboring faithfully upon the farm here and sleeping in the electric shaft at night as a prophylactic measure.

Three trains pass each day except Sunday to and from Washington, the terminus of this branch road.

There are quite a number of invalids here.

We are stopping at the hotel here whose proprietor, Mr. Hunter and his estimable wife, are both natives of Edgefield. There is a Mr. Overton and wife living here also from Edgefield, who furnish good board at cheaper rates than at the hotel.

Respectfully, W. H. TIMMERMAN. Hillman, Ga.

President Cleveland is reported to have made this remark to a Congressman who called at the White House the day after the extra session opened for the purpose of presenting the claims of one of his constituents to an office: "I will not look at a single paper, nor listen to a single application, until this silver matter is settled, and I am amazed that anybody should think of coming to me upon these trifling matters when this nightmare is hanging over us."

DOUSCHKA PICKENS DUGAS. The Death of this Well Known and Brilliant Lady in Edgefield.

Who has not known or read of Douschka Pickens, the darling of old Edgefield and the sweetheart in days gone by of all the boys in Carolina?

Edgefield was her childhood's home, her girlhood's home and later the home of her young womanhood; in that home she died this morning. The sad news came to the city and it was received with deep regret here, for this was the home of her young married life. Here she lived as Mrs. Dr. Geo. C. Dugas, for he was the young Georgian who wooed and won the belle of Carolina.

Her death was unexpected, following a brief illness, and deepest sympathy is extended to her devoted mother, to her husband and to all the family. Cut off in the prime of young womanhood her death is a sad blow to those who loved her and long will she be mourned and longer still will her memory be cherished in old Edgefield.—Evening News.

MRS. DR. G. C. DUGAS DEAD. Mrs. Douschka Pickens Dugas died at her home near Edgefield S. C., yesterday morning, was the sad news that shocked and grieved hundreds of Augustans yesterday, for very few of her friends knew that she had been sick at all.

Three weeks ago she was in Augusta visiting relatives, and then she was slightly indisposed, but no alarm was felt over her condition.

About ten days ago she grew some worse, and since that time she began gradually to sink, when yesterday morning at 8 o'clock her soul took its flight to its eternal resting place.

Mrs. Dr. Dugas was a thoroughly charming and lovable woman, and from her earliest childhood she has been the idol of Edgefield, and when a young lady, she was one of the reigning belles of South Carolina.

Every one in Edgefield county loved and admired her, and by kindness and sweet charity she had drawn around her a host of friends who will greatly mourn her loss.

Mrs. Dugas was the youngest daughter of the late Gov. Pickens of South Carolina, who was one of the most prominent and foremost men of his time.

She was 36 years old, and leaves three young children, her mother and a husband to mourn their irreparable loss.

The deepest sympathy of the entire community is extended to the grieving family in this their hour of grief and trial.

The following dispatch was received yesterday morning: Edgefield, S. C. Aug. 19.—Mrs. Dr. George C. Dugas died at her home in Edgefield this morning. She leaves a husband, three bright little children, and a mother to mourn her loss. Mrs. Dugas was kind-hearted and popular, and beloved by the whole of Edgefield. The funeral will take place Sunday morning in the village cemetery.—Augusta Chronicle.

Former World's Fairs.

The first great international exposition was that held at London in the Crystal Palace, in 1851. The next similar undertaking was the "exhibition of the industry of all nations," held at New York in 1853. This was held in Crystal Palace, which was afterward destroyed by fire. A similar exhibition was also held in Dublin in the same year. In 1854 an exhibition was held in Munich, which was at first very successful, but cholera appeared and caused such a fright that the enterprise was abandoned.

The first great Paris international exposition was held in 1855. The second English international exhibition was held in London in 1862. Next in order were those held at Constantinople in 1863; Bayonne, 1865; Dublin, 1865; Cologne, Oporto and Stockholm in 1865; Melbourne, 1866; Agra, 1867. Then came the great Paris exposition of 1867, followed by several smaller ones at various places, until 1873, when a very fine one was held in Vienna. The next important display was the Philadelphia centennial. Again a number of smaller ones, then the great Paris exposition of 1880, and now the World's Columbian exposition in Chicago, the greatest of all.

WE will sell at the town of Plum Branch on the 9th day of October next, a plantation known as the James Jennings place containing 1,300 acres, more or less, said farm being on Byrd Creek. PRIZES ON PATENTS.

How to Get 2,500 Dollars for Nothing.

The Winner Has a Clear Gift of a Small Fortune, and the Losers Have Patents that may Bring Them in Still more.

Would you like to make twenty-five hundred dollars? If you would, read carefully what follows and you may see a way to do it.

The Press Claims Company devotes much attention to patents. It has handled thousands of applications for inventions, but it would like to handle thousands more. There is plenty of inventive talent at large in this country, needing nothing but encouragement to produce practical results.

That encouragement the Press Claims Company proposes to give.

NOT SO HARD AS IT SEEMS. A patent strikes most people as an appallingly formidable thing. The idea is that an inventor must be a natural genius, like Edison or Bell; that he must devote years to delving in complicated mechanical problems and that he must spend a fortune on delicate experiments before he can get a new device to a patentable degree of perfection.

This delusion the company desires to dispel. It desires to get into the head of the public a clear comprehension of the fact that it is not the great, complex, and expensive inventions that bring the best returns to their authors, but the little, simple, and cheap ones—the things that seem so absurdly trivial that the average citizen would feel somewhat ashamed of bringing them to the attention of the Patent Office.

Edison says that the profits he has received from the patents on all his marvelous inventions have not been sufficient to pay the cost of his experiments. But the man who conceived the idea of fastening a bit of rubber cord to a child's ball, so that it would come back to the hand when thrown made a fortune out of his scheme. The modern sewing machine is a miracle of ingenuity—the product of the toil of hundreds of busy brains through a hundred and fifty years, but the whole brilliant result rests upon the simple device of putting the eye of the needle at the point instead of at the other end.

THE LITTLE THINGS THE MOST VALUABLE. Comparatively few people regard themselves as inventors, but almost everybody has been struck, at one time or another, with ideas that seemed calculated to reduce some of the inconveniences of life. Usually such ideas are dismissed without further thought.

"Why don't the railroad company make its car windows so that they can be slid up and down without breaking the passengers' backs?" exclaims the traveler. "If I were running the road I would make them in such a way."

"What was the man that made this saucypan thinking of?" grumbles the cook. "He never had to work over a stove, or he would have known how it ought to have been fixed."

"Hang such a collar button!" growls the man who is late for breakfast "If I were in the business I'd make buttons that wouldn't slip out, or break off, or go gone out the back of my neck."

And then the various sufferers forget about their grievance and begin to think of something else. If they would only think of the next convenient opportunity, but their ideas about car windows, saucypan, and collar buttons into practical shape, and then apply for patents, they might find themselves as independently wealthy as the man who invented the iron umbrella, or the one who patented the fifteen puzzle.

A TEMPTING OFFER. To induce people to keep track of their bright ideas and see what there is in them, the Press Claims Company has resolved to offer a prize.

To the person who submits to it the simplest and most promising invention, from a commercial point of view, the company will give twenty-five hundred dollars in cash, addition to refunding the fees for securing the patent.

It will also advertise the invention free of charge.

This offer is subject to the following conditions:

Every competitor must obtain a patent for his invention through the company. He must first apply for a preliminary search, the cost of which will be five dollars. Should this search show his invention to be unpatentable, he can withdraw without further expense. Otherwise he will be compelled to complete his application and take out a patent in the regular way. The total expense, including Government and Bureau fees, will be seventy dollars.

For this, whether he secures the prize or not, the inventor will have a right to him. The prize will be awarded by a jury consisting of three reputable patent attorneys of Washington. Intending competitors should mail out the following blank, and forward it with their application:

"I submit the within described invention in competition for the Twenty-five hundred Dollar Prize offered by the Press Claims Company."

NO BLANKS IN THIS COMPETITION. This is a competition of rather an unusual nature. It is common to offer prizes for the best story, or picture, or architectural plan, and all the competitors risk the loss of their labor and the successful one merely selling his for the amount of the prize. But the Press Claims Company's offer is something entirely different. Each person is asked merely to help himself, and the work of educating our boys and girls. Good board can be had for $8 to $10 per month.

The Union Mutual Life Insurance Co.,

OF PORTLAND, MAINE.

Incorporated, 1848.

Its Policies are the Most Liberal Now Offered to the Public.

Is the only existing Company whose policies are, or can be subject to, the

MAINE NON-FORFEITURE LAW.

WHAT IT IS:

The Maine Non-Forfeiture law protects policies from forfeiture by reason of default of payment of premiums. It provides that, after 10 years' premiums have been paid, failure to pay any subsequent premiums shall not forfeit a policy, but it shall continue in force for its full amount until the reserve (less a small surrender charge) upon the policy is exhausted.

The reserve is a sum made up of portions of each and every premium paid upon a policy in anticipation of its maturity. Beginning with a small portion of the first premium, it is increased each year by the addition of each subsequent premium, and grows larger year by year, until, at maturity, it exactly equals the face of the policy. When a policy is discontinued therefore, there is in the hands of the Company a reserve greater or less, according to the character and age of the policy. Instead of permitting the Company, upon non-payment of premium, to confiscate this reserve, the Maine Non-Forfeiture Law requires the Company to continue the policy in force until the policy-holder receives an equivalent for it in extended insurance.

HOW IT WORKS:

If a person, aged 35, pays three years' premiums upon a twenty payment Life policy and then discontinues payment, the policy will be continued 4 years and 267 days longer; if he pays five premiums, and then discontinues the insurance will continue 7 years and 387 days longer.

If the policy is a twenty year endowment, same age, three years' payments will give an extension of 8 years and 180 days; five years' payment 13 years, 300 days. If the policy is a 15 Year Endowment, ($1,000 same age, three years' payments will secure insurance to the end of the endowment period, and $188 in cash. If insured lives till that time, and in like manner ten years' payment secures insurance for the full 15 years and $592.17 in cash.

These extensions vary with the age of the insured,
