Mrs. Shaffer begs us to announce that she will have another musicale at the Simms hotel on next Friday night week. Among other attractions Miss Sude Davis, a recent graduate of the Charleston Female Seminary, is expected to recite.

One of the most important features of the summer man's wardrobe should be at least a half-dozen pairs of white duck trousers. They should be made very long, to allow for a deep turn up at the bottom. In fit they should be much looser than the trousers of other material, and it is absolutely necessary that they be heavily creased down the leg. Double-breasted blue coats of serge should be worn with the white duck pants, and a negligé shirt of pale blue, with low tan shoes and white ribbon. The young man who wears this outfit can count upon being strictly in form.

A gossip in the Washington Post says that down in the black belt of Georgia a Presbyterian minister received a visit from a colored pastor who wanted counsel and advice. "Well, sir, it's just this way," said he: "I've done preached myself plumb out. I've worked on election, sanctification, predestination, hell inside and out, till I couldn't say another word to save my life." His white brother suggested that he should preach a sermon, by way of change, with "Thou shalt not steal" for a text. "Well, boss, that certainly is a good text, but 'm mmons' 'traid it will produce a coolness in the congregation."

Death of Dr. Limbecker. Dr. William A. Limbecker died at his home in Ninety-six Abbeville county on the 14th inst. Although he had been in feeble health for some months, his death was sudden. His funeral services were conducted under the auspices of the Confederate Veterans and his remains laid to rest in Elmwood Cemetery. His daughter Miss Lottie Limbecker came from New York, and Mr. W. W. Edgerton went up from Aiken to attend the funeral.—Aiken Times.

An Edgefield Graduate. Miss Adie A. Davis, daughter of our fellow townsman John B. Davis, Esq., graduated last week in English at Miss Kelly's school in Charleston. The News and Courier says of Miss Davis's essay on "Character and Determined Energy."

"It is true that knowledge is power," she said, "but in a much higher and a truer sense is character power." She held up as an example the ingominy and shame which was the position of Napoleon, Aaron Burr, and Benedict Arnold for the lack of goodness and true character to control their fatal ambition. Energy, she said, must be combined with character to bring out and apply it in its best sense. "He who loseth a friend loseth more, but he who loseth his energy loseth all."

the license system demands your money and your life. You willfully or ignorantly misunderstand my allusion of woman's ignorance of business. The meaning I wished to convey was that if trained from childhood with business qualification, she would be better fitted to protect herself when thrown upon her own resources. However, that is already being done. I reiterate woman has an inborn right to vote. The law prescribes the time for the exercise of that right. "The eagle is the king of birds even in its callow state, but until its wings are fledged and its eyes can bear the light of the sun the nest is the place for it."

If as you claim men are creatures of head, and women of heart, to my mind the union of the two is just what is needful to equalize affairs. You would not impugn woman's courage but you call it moonshine. If tested I don't think you would find it very healthily moonshine. My allusion to Tennyson's inconsistency was no calumny on that author, but meant to show the quick changes of humanity under the exigence of the hour or need of the minute. My favorite books are poetical works and Tennyson occupies a place of prominence. Augusta Wilson is a good and pure writer. I have read with pleasure all of her works, I have listened by the hour, to a relative of mine and acquaintance of hers, telling of many pleasant things about her home life. She has made money and she enjoys it. No children gather around her fireside, consequently there are no teardrops, connecting her heart with humanity, to vibrate with a pang at every boys dissipation, or girls false step. "He was some mothers boy." "She was some mothers child."

Let me tell you of a noble woman in my opinion, Mrs. Berilla G. Wallace of Indiana from whom Gen. Lee Wallace drew the portrait of the mother in "Ben Hur," and she was his step mother. She raised to noble manhood the above author with two other sons of her husband; in the course of years six children were added to these, and no mother was more devoted. Her husband was twice Lieutenant-Governor then Governor and then served in Congress. Everything he wrote was submitted to her for criticism or approval. She read law with her step-sons. The end of twenty-one years of married life found her with a home but no income. Then came the battle of life to support and educate the children. Just as ease and comfort came a dying daughter left her four little children and she lived over again the anxious years of conscientious motherhood. This woman answers the argument that "Politics are too dirty for women to mingle in, in these words: That is no argument against woman suffrage, it is an argument for it. Men have always had control of politics; if they have allowed them to become dirty it is time the women came to the rescue and helped clean things up, just the work in which they are adepts. If I thought that politics were necessarily dirty, the unholy scramble for power into which they too often degenerate, I would never wish my boys to become voters. If not fit for my girls, politics are not fit for my boys; I can but endorse them. Dno.

DEAR ADVERTISER: Last Sunday and the two following days we spent under the shadow of Wofford's classic walls. This fortieth commencement was in very many respects the grandest in the history of this grand old institution. Spartanburg, the metropolis of the Piedmont region, was in her glory. Every home in the city threw wide her doors and with true Spartan hospitality welcomed the return of Alumni, old students and friends of the college all the State. The sermon on Sunday by Dr. Tillet of Vanderbilt will be sublime. Dr. Carlisle's address at night was characteristic of the man, lofty, strong, edifying. Mr. Bryan's speech of Monday was deep and broad. The debate at night between the Calhoun and Preston Literary societies was in every respect up with those of former years. Tuesday thirty-four noble young men received their well earned diplomas amid the plaudits of friends and relatives. This was the largest class the college ever graduated. The degree of D. D. was conferred on Rev. Jno. C. Kilgo of Trinity. In this Wofford honored herself as well as one of her deserving sons.

What shall we say of the Alumni banquet of Tuesday night? No king and his lords ever sat down to a more varied and magnificent feast. Every class since 1854 was represented in this great reunion. Here were preachers, lawyers, merchants, teachers, bankers, politicians, farmers, men of every profession and walk in life, some whose heads are covered with the snows of winter, middle aged men in the prime of life, beardless youths just entering upon the stage of action, but in the bosoms of all beat hearts fired with love for their dear Alma mater, and joyfully passed the time till the wee small hours of morning lade them steal away lost the king of day come upon them in their joyous revels.

By a decision of the Trustees the Fitting School will be transferred to the Alumni Hall for one year at least. Nice cottages will be erected on the college campus to accommodate young men who have heretofore lodged at Alumni Hall.

Wednesday a. m., we boarded the train for Greenwood. On board we met a Mr. Briggs, an Edgefield youth a graduate of the South Carolina College, just returning from Reidsville where he has closed a most successful year "teaching the young idea how to shoot!" etc., etc.

We reach Greenwood in the midst of the closing exercises of her Graded School, our friend Prof. C. R. Calhoun, who by the way took his A. M., at Wofford Tuesday, would have us remain over with him. To-day, Friday, Prof. Means Davis made the Literary address. His subject, "Man's mastery over Nature" was treated in a masterly manner.

The people of hustling Greenwood are now deeply interested in the building of the already surveyed railroad from Knoxville via Anderson, Greenwood, Batesburg to Charleston. The "new rail road" is the all pervading and all prevailing topic. Now is Saluda's time. This road if built and there will be no doubt about that will run through the very heart of the Saluda country. A construction Co., has just been formed and they contemplate beginning work at an early day. So mote it be. While here, among many other distinguished Edgefield men we shake the hand of that noble man of God, Rev. A. J. Watson.

We are struck with the number of men from our county located in Greenwood. Verily I believe its an open secret that some of the best men of the place are natives of Edgefield. So struck is Greenwood on our county and our men that she is not satisfied with the number that have immigrated here but wants a big slice of our territory cut off to her. But then who can blame her?

Greetingly, Bun.

PARKVILLE HIGH SCHOOL. Commencement Exercises Will Take Place June 21st—Concert at Night.

Parkville has just cause to be proud of her school. Under the efficient management of the principal, Prof. W. T. Slaughter, and his able assistant, Miss Emma Kilpatrick, the school has attained to a high degree of excellence. The tenth months term just closing has been highly satisfactory, and results fully attest the efficiency of the teachers.

The commencement exercises of the school will come off on the 21st of June and the programmes to be executed are unique in varied, novel, and interesting features. The commencement exercises will consist of a morning and afternoon programme, and will be followed by a grand concert in the evening. Beginning at 9 o'clock a. m., the exercises of the primary department will continue until 11:30 o'clock, and will be closed with an address by a distinguished speaker. A picnic dinner, free to all, will be given from 12 o'clock to 3 o'clock.

The afternoon exercises will begin at 3 o'clock p. m., and continue until 6 o'clock, which time will be given to the classes of the Academic and Collegiate departments. Refreshments consisting of ice cream, cake, lemonade, tea, coffee, &c., will be served in the evening, the proceeds to be used for the benefit of the school. The concert will begin promptly at 8 o'clock p. m., a small admission fee to the concert being charged. Every body is invited to attend, especially the patrons and friends of education. The exercises will consist of recitations, blending humor and pathos; songs; national airs, sentimental, patriotic; beautiful drills and pantomimes, presenting the poetry of music and motion. Among the special features of the concert may be mentioned: "National Flag Drill," displaying the colors and costumes of the nation; "Under the Laurels," an exciting drama, abounding in startling situations and thrilling adventures, and having a bright comedy feature. "Acoused at Last," a sparkling comedy in which four males and four females ("to say nothing of the dog") will portray the risibilities of the audience. "The Tambourine Drill." This Drill was given at the Xmas entertainment of the school and will be repeated by request. It is the most beautiful of all drills, "is the verdict of those who saw it last Christmas."

Besides these, there will be other bright and interesting features too numerous to mention. A string band will discourse music for the occasion. There will also be piano performances by the pupils of the music department. Don't fail to attend. Come and enjoy the occasion with us.

Visitors will receive a cordial welcome to our pleasant little village and will find hospitable entertainment for the night in our homes. CORRESPONDENT.

South Carolina College Alumni.

COLUMBIA, S. C., June 10, 1895.

The Alumni of the South Carolina College are expected to meet in Columbia Tuesday evening, June 25th, of commencement week. The regular meeting will be held at 8:30 P. M., when Mr. A. W. Sumner will deliver an address. On Wednesday, the senior orator, Hon. Eugene B. Gary, will make the address to the graduating class. It is especially desired that all alumni of the college meet here on the 25th to discuss the work of the alumni and the general good of the College.

The South Carolina College is now on the high road to permanent success. The enrolment for the year has been 160, a gratifying increase being shown. The College is now removed from politics, and has the support of all Carolinians.

The alumni should know the full scope and excellence of the College, and let their friends know of it. The alumni who come will have a pleasant time and a happy reunion.

Respectfully, AUGUST KOHN, Sec.

The Hayner Distilling Co., Springfield, Ohio, ship liquors direct to consumer. Write for price list.

The Edgefield Baptist Sunday School Convention.

Place, Edgefield Baptist church; Time, Friday before the fifth Sunday in June 1895.

First: "The qualification of officers of the Sunday School and how ascertained." Speakers, A. S. Tompkins, J. C. Sheppard.

Second: "Are our Sunday Schools increasing in spirituality, and if not, how shall we spiritualize the work." Speakers, Rev. J. L. Ouzts, R. H. McKie.

Third: "The importance of, and mission of, singing in the Sunday School." Speakers, S. A. Brunson, J. C. Morgan.

The different schools are requested to send up additional queries for discussion. L. F. DORN, Pres. H. W. DOBEY, Sec'y.
